In the majority of them the county was settled in 1863, and he Larry Gallagher and C. E. Gallgher. The last named has a farm of 500 acres, 200 of which are cleared; he keeps a large stock including 8 horses. He will this year raise 1500 bushel of grain, 200 being wheat. Mr. Gallagher is an excellent example of what a young man can do, farming in New Brunswick. He has acquired a competency by steady toil, and no one is the worse for his owning such a property.

Dr. Sweeney came to visit the place in September 1862 and decided on the site for a church, which was erected the year following. The first resident pastor was Rev. B. McKeaney, but during his pas-torate time the settlement made but little the States. The present pastor, Rev. W. The account from the potato crop this season is generally good, although in some sections considerable damage has been done by rot. Throughout York County, particularly the parishes of St. Mary's and Douglas, there are reported abundant yields, Mr. Henry Gill, of Nashwaaksis, having raised from a plat of ground less than onethird of and acre in area, fifty-five barrels of merchantable potatoes. In Sunbury County Sheffield, the crop has suffered largely from rot, otherwise it would have been far about the average. The parish of Burton gives a good account, the yield there being excellent.

DISPENSING THE PATRONAGE. iome of the Trials and Tribulations of the Gentleman who don't know how far it is to Stanley.

are cropping up why some of the "faithful" wanted a committee appointed to help Mr. Temple distribute the county patronage. The Tory crowd never had much confidence in the ex-Sheriff any way. They took hold of him only because he was supposed to be the possessor of what our American cousins call a "bar'l," which it was though he would put on tap for campaign purposes, and which he did draw from pretty freely, although the story is that he was partly recouped by the Ottawa magnates as a recognition of his services in Having elected him and having enabled him to strut his little part on the stage of active politics, vastly to the amusement of onlookers, the Tories naturally think that Mr. grasping as to want to have the patronage under his own control; but he has a better idea of his own dignity and of their unimtreatment, and so he proposes to exercise all a new chapter of which has now been opened.

He voted and worked for Mr. Fraser to the best of his ability, and was not by any means the least of the spokes in Mr. Temple's wheel. He did not, it is said, "divvy" with Mr. Temple on the profits of the work. Well, he is to go, or for the matter of fact, he has al-ready been told that a successor will be ap-pointed, and that he has had his last of the government work. That Mr. Sntherland is not pleased at the turn things bave taken will surprise no one; and that he expresses himself strongly about it is also not to be wondered at. He has written to several quarters and has been promised the influen of several gentleman in an effort to checkmate our genial alleged representative.
