Political Obituary Notice

FRANK ARCHIBALD, THE "SLACK-ER" CANDIDATE FOR MR. GRACE DISTRICT.

Frank Archibald the junior member of the firm of Archibald Bros., well known to the people of St. John's and to be known by the people of the outside world by the 5th of November.
Frank, as he is known, is of a re-fring disposition, especially so from Aug. 4th, 1914, until Nov. 11th, 1918.
He was educated to some extent in St. John's, but his teachers must have failed to instill in his brain anything of a patriotic nature. He engaged in the business of shoe manufacturing and apparently was making a success of it. Not being satisfied with the avocation he invested in lines, twines, traps and motor boats, and placed them in the waters—and helped to make it harder for the real fishermen of St. John's Island and elsewhere to get their living.

In the summer of 1914, the great war broke out, and many of the young men and maidens volunteered for active service. As the years passed, others heard the call and answered it. Frank Archibald was looked upon as fit, and the people wondered when "Frank was going to don the khaki or blue." Time passed and some of our boys were going west. The call from the Motherland came for reinforcements—and more reinforcements —but nothing doing for his Nibs.
"Britain" and her "Allies" won. Then who did the most shouting and horn blowing? Whose automobile bore the most bunting and made the loudest noise?

And now he thinks the country needs him. To-night he again accepted nomination as a candidate for the coming election for the district of St. John's, and in thanking his supporters he was a kind of nervous due no doubt to the thundering of cannon, the awful sights, etc., etc., and from the effects of "gas" that he is going to shoot off during the next few weeks.

No man of military age bears a better record (and will) than Frank Archibald, and in passing I might state, that while at his daily avocation he had better imbue some leather in his general system, his his own hide will certainly need it now and in years to come.

The writer's sympathy goes out to those connected with him politically and may his name be so buried by ballots on the 3rd Nov., that a monument in honor of his greatness be erected where he fell.

St. John's, Oct. 11, 1919.

Italians Returning.

(Christian Science Monitor.) Boston, Massachusetts.—Economic conditions in southern Italy are expected to induce a large immigration to this country of Italians who formerly lived here, but who went abroad to serve in the Italian Army during the war. Owing to immigration restrictions, these men have only a limited time in which to return under the ordinary conditions, and steamships are reported booking large numbers for this country.

Man Who Helped Build Up Armaments Firm.

Colonel T. E. Vickers, C.B., who, in his eighty-third year died on Oct. 19, 1919, in London, was for 60 years head of one of the most active industries in England, and in the building up of the great Vickers Company, of which he was chairman for thirty-six years, retiring in 1909. He entered the old family business, which had been conducted by his grandfather and father before him at Middlesbrough and Walsley, near Sheffield, and was placed in practical control of the works in 1854, when little more than 21 years of age. Soon afterwards he introduced into this country from Germany the manufacture of steel castings, and a few years later invented a mill for rough rolling tyres for locomotives and other railway rolling stock. He was among the first to adopt the open hearth process of manufacture for steel of high quality, and as a result of these innovations great advance was made by his firm, which took up in succession the manufacture of heavy forgings for guns and shafting, finished guns, armaments, machinery, armour, shipbuilding for the Royal Navy and Merchant Service, and marine and electrical engineering in all its branches.
Joining the Volunteer movement at the outset, he was soon in command of the Sheffield infantry battalion known as the Hallamshire Rifles. He was Justice of the Peace for the West Riding and for Sheffield and a confirmed Conservative and Protectionist. A well-known chess-player, he was chairman of the Sheffield Chess Club.

Maps Made of Gems.

Drake's famous "silver map," a small replica of which is shortly to be sold in London, is by no means the most costly freak map of its kind.
There is—or was—amongst the Hohenzollern crown jewels a "golden map" of Europe, the various capitals being represented by precious stones—a diamond for Berlin, a ruby for Paris, and so on.

By far the most costly map of its kind, however, is that which is kept amongst the Persian crown jewels at Tehran. It is in the form of a hollow globe of gold, the various countries, seas, and other physical features being outlined in gems. Its value is £247,000.
