

THE ONTARIO ELECTIONS.

The return of Mr. Mowat to power in Ontario was not unexpected. By a grand coup he forestalled the Dominion premier, and has resumed the full benefits of his political position. The Liberal party in Ontario was thoroughly organized and ready at any moment for a disintegration of the left, while the conservatives, caught napping, had but a brief time in which to prepare for the campaign. The introduction of the religious cry into the fight is to be deplored by all lovers of this young country. It had the effect of consolidating the Catholic vote, which would seem to have gone as a unit for Mowat and his administration. The "little tyrant" who, however, was a unit for Mowat and his administration, was a unit for Mowat and his administration. TWO BYLAWES.

The ready acquiescence of the city council in the wish of the ratemakers as expressed at Tuesday's meeting leaves the Market Bylaw for ratification. The Bylaw for acceptance or rejection on the 5th proximo. The Market Bylaw asks the authority of the ratemakers for a total of $25,000 to be expended in the establishment of this city of a public market. No city in Canada of the size of Victoria has without at least one public market. Several smaller-sized towns have two—Toronto has three, Montreal four and Winnipeg five. The stalls are let by auction yearly, and fees are collected from farmers and others who may occupy portions within the precincts of the market. The money received from rents and fees makes the establishment self-supporting. In contrast to other public markets, the Market Bylaw is not a mere ratification of an old ordinance. It is a proposition to make the market free. The Public Library Bylaw asks ratemakers to sanction the taking over of the existing library, and the purchase of the Mechanics Institute, and its maintenance as a free library at a cost of approximately $100,000. The Bylaw also asks ratemakers to sanction the purchase of the Mechanics Institute, and its maintenance as a free library at a cost of approximately $100,000.

A POLITICAL SORBOROW.

Lord Churchill's conduct in abandoning the Salisbury government upon the shallow pretext of over-expenditure on the military account, and allowing the news of his resignation to reach the premier through the columns of a newspaper, should call for his political career at once and forever. His course should not be exceeded any more than the actions of an officer who has been commanded on the eve of a battle. In military speech the deserter or traitor must be dealt with as such. In politics a leader who acts as Lord Churchill has acted should be tried by the courts. Lord Churchill's conduct in abandoning the Salisbury government upon the shallow pretext of over-expenditure on the military account, and allowing the news of his resignation to reach the premier through the columns of a newspaper, should call for his political career at once and forever.

TWO PILGRIMAGES.

Our morning contemporary insists that the severage bylaw has been "defeated." But he reads the original resolution and the more he reads the more he is convinced that it is not. He will then protest that the bylaw is not a bylaw, but a resolution. He will then protest that the bylaw is not a bylaw, but a resolution. He will then protest that the bylaw is not a bylaw, but a resolution. He will then protest that the bylaw is not a bylaw, but a resolution.

GAVE AWAY THE SECRETS.

A Knight of Labor Reveals the History. An officer of the Knights of Labor in Amsterdam, N. Y., has broken his pledge that he would not divulge the secrets of the organization. He has written a book, "The History of the Knights of Labor," which has been published in its entirety. The book gives the following story as to how it was written: The evening signal of the labor vote stands of three maps given that: One, a pass then two in quick succession. The sign of obliteration is made by placing the thumb and right hand in front of the left hand, the left hand in front of the right hand, and the right hand in front of the left hand, and so on.

THE NEW BOND FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE R. W. CANAL.

"The committee has the honor to report that the bond given to the city of New Westminster which binds the city to the construction of the canal is now being sold. The bond was sold at a price of $100,000, and the proceeds are being used for the construction of the canal.
