TILLSON VS. FAULKNER.

KMOCKED HIGHER THAN A KITE.

John Faulkner of Etobicoke, county of York, and Jane Tillson, alias Graham, widow, of Toronto, in the county of York. Witness our names hereunto signed. Dated this 18th of June, 1881.

we were at Walker's Mrs. Tillson and I went to Father Rooney's. John came after ward and stayed in the hall. He asked the two ladies and began to buy some goods. Plaintiff and defendant disputed about the number of yards to be bought for a dress. Defendant became very abusive, and used very vile language towards Mrs. Tillson, whereupon she got disgusted and walked

Mr. Tilt objected that the last witness Mr. Tilt objected that the last witness had already proved that there was no breach, and the abusive language did not make any difference. His lordship said the action was not brought for abusive language. Mr. O'Donohoe said he was going to prove a breach by this witness.

John Cotton, a foreman employed by the board of works, said he saw defendant in July and he then refused to manny plaintiff.

The people manifest disturbances in Egypt were but a prelude to much graver events. The people manifest intense hatred of Europeans, and the gravity of the situation is not properly understood in Europe, and probably will not be till some terrible outbreak occurs. The order with which the insurrection was conducted on the 0th instrict or proof of the absolute on the 9th inst. is a proof of the absolute power Araby Bey has over his followers. It is not likely that the khedive himself was at the bottom of the whole affair. A Panslavist Journal lately described Araby Bey as a second prophet, destined to deliver Islam from her troubles. Billington's foundry in rear of the hotel. He hastened to give the alarm, but the flames spread quickly and gained rapid headway. Owing to the continued drought the roofs and frame-work of the buildings made first-class fuel for the flames, and the facilities at hand for extinguishing fire were commercially nothing. The fire and the facilities at hand for extinguishing fire were comparatively nothing. The firemen turned out promptly, and assisted by the citizens fought valiantly to save the property from destruction, but they were driven back step by step, and it seemed as if the entire town must co.

as if the entire town must go.

A message was sent into the fire department here for assistance, and a squad of men with ladders, hooks and other appliances were promptly despatched, and went to work with a will. Upon their arrival another hour elapsed, however, before the danger was over, and the people in surrounding houses could feel safe. The total loss is very heavy, but cannot be accurately estimated, as some of the proprietors are at Aden last week.

The fire originated in Billington's mechan-have been released for ical works on Sparks street, and spread to the flour and feed store of W. P. Crawiord, the boot and shoe store of J. H. Davis, and the flour and feed store of W. P. On the control of the Dufferin house, the stables of the Dufferin house, and extended to the hotel itself, which is a total loss. On the hotel itself, which is a total loss. On the deat side of the Dufferin house the buildings consumed are those of Miss Mason, milliner; Mr. Davis, boots and shoes. On the west the losses are Miss Ramsay, milliner; Laing, general grocers; Findley—Smith, hardware; Thomas Seeman, merchant tailor; Brady'& Sons, stoves. J. Kentwell's dry-goods store was pulled down to save Collins' hotel. The residences of Michael Meehan and Albert Lamarche were also consumed, as well as those occupied by Mrs. Wales and Mrs. Kelly. As near as can be gathered the losses and insurance are as follows: Billington's loss, $15,000, insured $1000 on building, no other insurance; Dufferin house, loss $8000, insured $3000; J. Finley Smith, loss $1500; insurance on building $3000, on stock $3000; J. Finley Smith, loss $1500, insurance unknown. Miss Laidlaw, who owned the building accupied by Seeman was insured on the stock for $1200.

Brany, of Brady & Lyons, movet in over the store at nine o'clock last night and lost everything. Billington was burned eut eight years ago. The block was one of the finest in Dundas.

P.S.—This marriage is to take place on Tuesday, the 21st inst.

The next witness was Ellen Hagarty. She lived with Faulkner's brother. Faulkner came there on the night of the 20th and slept there all night. At five o'clock next morning he called her up, saying that he wanted her to be bridesmaid to Mrs. Tillson. The two drove off in a bugy and called for Mrs. Tillson. When the latter got in witness took a back seat in order that the intended husband and wife might sit together. On the way down the ladies had a glass of wine, and Faulkner took one of whiskey. Then they went to Walker's to buy some blankets and sheeting for the children (presumably Mrs. Tillson's by her first husband). Mrs. Tillson's by her said she had better buy beef for the children. This gave rise to a lively discussion in which he called her "a clutch."

Mr. O'Donohoe: What do you call a clutch? I don't know—it's a word he's got.

Well, did he use it in love or hate? Oh, he's in love with her—he bought her a dress, but he wouldn't buy one for me."

ARTHUR'S CABINET. MacVeagh's Resignation—Reasons Why the President Should Change His Advisers. WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. -It is generally Washington, Sept. 27.—It is generally understood_that President Arthur will make changes in the cabinet at an early day. Attorney-General MacVeagh stated this evening that he recognized to the fullest extent the propriety of Arthur selecting as his confidental advisers gentlemen who heretofore sustained relations not only of personal goodwill, but also of rolls. men who heretofore sustained relations not only of personal goodwill, but also of poli-tical sympathy with him. Indeed he did not think any administration could be strong if there was any ground for suspicion or distrust among its members. As soon there-fore as Arthur has taken the oath of office, MacVeagh tendered his resignation in writing. He also assured the president that the resignation was not one of form but of fact. He hoped it would be convenient to designate his successor by the time the senate met in special session. A Typical French Duel.
