NG REMINDERS OF RHEUMATISM

Damp Weather Starts the is, But the Trouble Lies in the Blood

ng weather is bad for rheumatic rs. The changes from mild to the raw, damp winds start the and twinges, or in the more ex-cases, the tortures of the trouble. But it must be borne in mind is not the weather that control is not the weather that causes atism. The trouble is rooted in blood—the changeable weather 7 starts the pains. The only way the the trouble and to cure it is the the blood. The poisonous atic acids must be driven out.
