

POSTSCRIPT.

IN reviewing all that has been written, I feel deeply the obligation of gratitude I have incurred to my friend Mr. Alfred Spencer, for his most valuable co-operation in my pleasant labours. He has taken the greatest interest in the Biography, and from him I have derived much and material assistance, which I now gratefully acknowledge.

I am also much indebted to Sir Provo's physician and friend, Dr. Lockhart Stephens, for the assistance he has kindly given me, especially in connection with the concluding chapter of this work.
