Such men, the premier continued, were specially called by the supreme exigencies of the time and by their own capacities and opportunities to render their best services to the state.

The premier also denied that the government had only lately become alive to the importance of the matter, and declared that in September he had appointed a committee of the cabinet, headed by Lord Kitchener. The efforts of this committee had largely increased the supplies.

"Nor is it true that there has been any general slackness on the part of any employers or employes," continued the premier. "Some employers register 67 to 69 hours per week per man. The situation can be otherwise explained. It is due to the unprecedented scale on which ammunition has been expended on each side, to the shortness of skilled labor and to the success in recruiting."

Negotiations With Austria Reprisals by Germany for Confinement of Submarine Crews Resented.

ROME, April 20.—(Via Paris).—Prince Special Cable to The Teronto World.

LONDON, April 20.—Germany's treatment of British prisoners of war who have been placed in close arrest in retaliation for the alleged mistreatment of submarine prisoners here has brought a quick, vigorous protest from Great Britain. It has just been sent to Germany thru the American embassy and state department. Von Buelow, the German ambassador to Italy, has requested the Associated Press to deny a rumor in circulation here to the effect that he had transferred the Villa Malta, his residence in Rome, to his brother-in-law, the Prince Di Camporeale. "in view of the approaching rupture be-tween Italy and the central empires."

Instead of there being a break between Italy and Austria-Hungary, Prince Von Buelow said that he thought the negotiations connected with his mission here were proceeding satisfactorily; they had given him confidence that what he termed "the good sense of the Italian people would triumph in the end."

The negotiations, according to Prince Von Buelow, were now mostly being conducted in Vienna, but as in all the discussions the contracting powers had been far apart in their point of view, it was taking a long time to come to any concrete conclusion. But, the prince added if ultimately they did not reach an agreement on a basis of reciprocity he would quite despair of human reason.

quick, vigorous protest from Great Britain. It has just been sent to Germany thru the American embassy and state department.

Full details concerning the nature of the treatment of British prisoners in Germany are not at hand. The government only knows what Germany cald in the original note transmitted thru Ambassador Gerard, which stated that 39 officers, equaling the number of submarine prisoners here, had been taken from the ordinary detention camp and confined elsewhere under military arrest. Later press reports stated that ten of these prisoners had been placed in solitary confinement. Upon hearing this the government asked Washington to make enquiries as to the truth thereof, But to this no answer has been received. The government, however, has not swaited the answer, feeling that the facts already at hand justify a protest.

May Become Serious.

It seems likely that this prisoner matter will become serious. It is stated on splendid authority that the submarine prisoners are not being held in an ordinary detention camp with other prisoners of war, being considered unentitled to any honors in view of the nefarious character of their work, but they are in a naval detention barracks, where they are given ample food and exercise, and, according to a report officially received from Germany they are as comfortable as any prisoners in Germany.

U. S. Official to inspect Men.

Arrangements are now in the making for an American official to inspect these prisoners. A favorable report on their treatment so far as humaneness is concerned is quite certain, which may serve to alleviate conditions for Britishers in Germany. There has been infinitely more talk here about harsh treatment for prisoners than action. When these submarines were first taken the press was full of letters from advisers recommending all sorts of drastic punishment. The favorotic idea was to treat them as pirates. The government finally decided not to accord honors of war to these prisoners. Nothing drastic, however, was done, and the prisoner are Kingston Officials Give Two

"We would be blind still to hope for a good result from the Vienna conversations," The Messagero continues. "This has been a dilatory game. It was proposed by Prince Von Buelow, the German ambassador, and accepted by Austria and Italy, because for various reasons both countries considered it convenient to postpone the day of reckoning."

GLOOM SETTLES ON TURKISH CAPITAL

Wealthy Turkish Families Flee to Geneva in Expectation of Worst.

GENEVA. April 21.—A number of wealthy Turkish families recently arrived at Geneva from Constantinople, whence they fied a fortnight previously in fear of the expected bombardment by the allied fleets. One of the members of the party said that when he left Constantinople the people were living in constant dread of some disaster and all sorts of rumors were going about as to the fate of the Dardanelles, forts. Gradually Turkey has found out her mistake in taking sides with Germany, as one by one her original plans of campaign have hopelessly fallen thru. The universal Mohammedan upheaval has proved a fiasco, as anybody must have foreseen who knows anything of the relations between the British and the Mohammedans. In British and the Mohammedans. In the east the failure of the Suez Canal raid and the invasion of Egypt has acted severely on the morale and spirit of Turkey's army, and it only remains for the Dardanelles to be forced in order to shatter the last hope that Turkey may have of ever regaining her former position as a nation.
