In addressing the gathering, which was well attended by representatives from various charitable and child wel-fare organizations from all parts of the city. Mr. Stapleford explained that they had met partly as an outcome of the thought of the help to be gained thru federated charities, but very largely Cn account of the ever-recurring prob-lems relative to child welfare, which have largely increased since the war, and about which it would often be ad-visable and mutually helpful for difter stuff thing else failed."

visable and mutually helpful for dif-ferent bodies to hold conference. The question of child welfare, he contended, while it was only one seccontended, while it was only one sec-tion, was a very important section of the affiliated charities, with complex reeds and difficulties, and while no one organization could hope to solve all problems instantly, it would surely be a tremendous help to everyone con-gerned in this work to see each other's difficulties, and important, work could be done towards the increasing of effi-clency. He would say that it was no new idea in Toronto. He had just re-ceived a leaflet from J. E. Kelso, print-ed some years before, which advocated such an association. As a basis of membership, Mr. Stapleford suggested At all dealers or sent postpaid by be done towards the increasing of effi-clency. He would say that it was no new idea in Toronto. The result of such an association. formed of every kind of worker inter-ested in the welfare of the child, would make for progress. Mr. Stapleford also recommended that committees should be formed in the association to take care of the following subjects: Depen-dency, for the care of all deserted, fi-legitimate and homeless children up to the age of the juvenile court. A ccm-mittee for the care of delinquent chil-dren and one to look after questions of education, recreation and industry. Scheme Generally Approved. F ASHION now steps forward and draws back another curtain. Today she reveals her new decree for the forthcoming season's furs-presents a first glimpse of the outstanding creations of designers and artists in the world's foremost fashion circles.

To many folk in Toronto this advance presentation of the new fur styles is a longlooked-for event. For years it has been regarded as a wonderful panorama, revealing the most authoritative styles weeks in advance-in furs of fascinating loveliness. Particularly interesting this year will prove the distinctive models from New York, London and Paris, showing the added note of war-time simplicity that characterizes all the new styles. Many exquisite styles there are, too, fashioned by our own designers, among which are stoles in the attractive new cape style, muffs in smart "canteen" shape, and the new "coatees."
