When in doubt, take a poke at the crown prince! Though Field Marshal Haig may be hard pressed, it is a simple matter for the curbstone warrior at home to catch the royal clown and a few hundred thousand of the varlets who wait upon him. All one has to do is to make a noise like a nut, it would appear. Thus may the war be brought to a sudden close.

At least ten thousand people had the Supreme Hare Brain landed in an insect net last night. He was caught all over Western Ontario, and with alarming frequency in the city. People must have spent a fortune in long-distance calls to The Advertiser during the night. A few of them killed him off, while others preserved him for the British museum. They did not specify whether it was Rupp-wrecked or Wille the Yegg. They had the crown prince and all the way from fifty thousands to a million of his weiner-snatchers.

People always get to catching the Incomparable Little Villee when a big smash is in progress. Somewhere in the innermost heart of darkest Africa there is said to be a wireless system.
