The Piano Trade

People often wonder what becomes of all the Pianos and Organs that are manufactured. There are a number of large factories in Canada turning them out in increased numbers all the time.

Our sales of Pianos and Organs for a late month, were sixty in number, or about two and a half for each working day, and our sales are constantly increasing. We do not believe that any other house in the Maritime Provinces sold one half of that number of instruments (mostly pianos) in the same time.

We control such makes as the Steinway, Gerard Heintzman, Nordheimer, Martin-Orme and other good makes, and that is a proof of our large sales and purchases. The public knows by experience that it can get the best instruments and best values by dealing with the old reliable house.

We not only have the best stock of new Pianos but also have some good bargains in slightly used pianos.

PRESENTATION OF THE CASE OF THE WOMEN OF ENGLAND

To the Editor of the Times.

Sir—I have heard so much unfavorable discussion of the women of England in their efforts to secure equal rights in citizenship that I feel something should be said to change this wrong impression.

In England women enjoy the privilege of municipal and county suffrage, which is a great power. At first it was extended to single women and widows, but later was extended to all women who pay rates as well as men electors. The women of Scotland and Ireland possess this same privilege, while the women of the Isle of Man have exactly the same political rights as men.

But the great power in England politically speaking is "the vote" for members of parliament and the equal rights agitation there just now is at the boiling point. In May last an important conference between 400 ladies, representing suffrage societies from all parts of Great Britain called by appointment on the premier, Mr. Campbell-Bannerman, and presented their claims. This delegation included women of title, factory operatives and working women. The premier in reply, while sympathizing with woman suffrage, said that it was not the business of the government to consider the claims of women.

"Years" was met by the delegates with prompt signs of dissatisfaction, and on June 21st four prominent leaders of the working women's agitation, accompanied by several scores of women, went to the residence of Mr. Asquith, chancellor of the exchequer, regarded as the chief opponent of equal suffrage in England. Now so many of his countrymen have besieged this reactionary statesman that his house is guarded by policemen, and on this occasion the four leaders were arrested for disturbing the peace.

On June 24th, at a great Liberal meeting in Manchester, where John Burns was the principal speaker, in pursuance of a well developed plan, women arose in every quarter of the auditorium and put questions to the speaker regarding the policy of the Liberals on the woman question. For this they were expelled and eleven arrested.

This same week a well known woman, Mrs. Fenimore, refused to pay her taxes and barricaded her house against the collectors as a protest against taxation without representation.

Meanwhile opinions of friends and enemies are divided as to the wisdom of the strenuous woman suffragists of England, but it is certain that the tactics of the working women have called more attention to the rights and wrongs of women than all the quiet methods of the English suffrage associations of the last half century, and the women's political unions are jubilant and unshaken. The secretary of one suffrage society writes:—

"It is not because we like it that our women go to prison, that we expend our life and energy in making ourselves unpleasant, risking our liberty, risking our livelihood in some cases. We have not chosen the methods. The methods have always in history been chosen and rendered necessary by the temper of the governing class. Among the governing class in this country I include the majority of men. It is by their decree that every other method has failed. It is their doing that monstrous petitions are ignored and the bills for the enfranchisement of women dropped and the whole subject boycotted, ridiculed, suppressed. Everything considered has been tried. We are forced to fight, but the cost, the suffering, the penalty falls on us, not on those who look on and criticize. We working women are not going down. All sorts of laws about woman's work are being passed by men in the House of Commons without the opinion of women in the matter or any sense of opposing their voice.

"Space forbids anything like a presentation of the women's case. Enough to say that it is desperate, and the women are desperate about it. In the face of this consider the attitude of the Liberal government. They have given manhood suffrage in South Africa, while ignoring their English women, and also by the establishment of 'one vote, one value,' which, unless accompanied by woman suffrage, as Mr. Asquith has repeatedly said, is a mockery. It means that while a certain number of badmen on the land, say 1,500, return one member to the assembly, the same number of farmers in the country representing also a population of women and children return only one member. This is an entirely new idea to the English mind for they sweep the women as part of the body politic out of existence altogether, and make them a complete cypher in the state. Now what is this new scheme being put before this country? Winston Churchill can raise loud laughter in the house of commons on the barest mention of the question of woman suffrage. This in a house where the prime minister declares that women have a conclusive and irrefutable case in their own right to be heard. This in a house where two-thirds of the members are pledged to support woman suffrage. This is the action of the Liberal government which treats that women will remain in ignorance of this latest supreme insult to womanhood at their hands.

"It is no use talking more about the industrial conditions of women, it is no use appealing to right, or to reason, we have argued and appealed and reasoned long enough, the time for action has come."

Mrs. Kersey, one of the leaders of the suffragettes, as the working women suffragists are called, being criticized severely by the Women's Liberal Federation replied:—

"Where would the labor party be had it not been for John Burns and his fight in the past? Do you suppose I like making myself a nuisance? No, I hate it. But when I think of the 90,000 women for whom I am doing it, and remember the far reaching results if we succeed, I am made able and willing."

Henry B. Blackwell of Boston says that "the outcry against the attempt of a few justly indignant women to force parliament to do its duty by voting on the question before it, is so disproportionate to the magnitude of the offence that it is sure to result in favor of the movement;" and he adds: "Always and everywhere a demand for enlarged political representation has been accompanied by disorder."

I will remember, as a boy, when men wanted the franchise that the refusal of parliament to pass the Reform Bill was the occasion of violent popular outbreaks."

T. D. Benson, in the London Leader, contrasts the clamor of a few women now with the conduct of many men of the same class in 1832, of which he himself was a witness. He reminds the public that in Bristol men burned the Mansion House, the Custom House, the Exchange, the police office, three prisons, four toll-houses and forty-two private dwellings and warehouses. The Bishop of Litchfield was nearly killed, and the Archbishop of Canterbury was rescued with difficulty from an angry and violent mob. A general strike was proposed, and a general drilling began. "I remember," he says, "as though it were yesterday, being drawn back by my governess into my father's house in Bristol just in time to escape an infuriated mob of men that swept down the street with yells and execrations. Did these circumstances put back the movement? Not at all, on the contrary, they intensified it and forced it to a successful issue."

"The willingness of women to endure insult, fine and imprisonment for the sake of political representation will awaken enthusiasm in their behalf. The conservatism which is now abroad will give place to respectful recognition of an earnest purpose. The work of the world has to be done with bare hands and a disregard of the conventionalities."

MONCTON FAVORS PHYSICAL CULTURE

MONCTON, Oct. 26.—Moncton young men and women are going in pretty strongly for physical culture as a result of the local Y. M. C. A. engaging a thorough instructor and making a strong effort to create a deeper interest in this branch of association work. Mr. March, the new instructor, has a number of classes of both sexes organized and hard at work, and the prospects are this winter will see the most active period in physical culture work in the history of the local association. Mr. March, the instructor, has been engaged the fall and winter months. This is the first time in its history the Moncton association has engaged a thoroughly trained instructor.

My stock of Toilet Goods are all fresh and clean and of the highest quality.

BABY'S GOOD DAYS.

One of baby's good days means that your child is thriving and well. Baby's Own Tablets bring all good days to hold your child's life, for they make little one well, and keep them well. Mrs. Jos. Ferland, St. John's, N. B., writes: "I am giving my little one Baby's Own Tablets and he is in splendid health, is growing plumper every day and has beautiful rosy cheeks." These Tablets cure indigestion, colic, constipation, simple fevers, teething troubles, and all the minor ailments of little ones. They do not contain one particle of the poisonous opiates found in all soothing medicines and most liquid preparations. The Tablets can be given with absolute safety to the babe just born, as well as the child of advanced years. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 25 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont.

CONFIDENCE IN REV. C. W. TOWNSEND

To the Editor of the Times:—Sir—At the desire of a large number of the members of the First St. Martin's Baptist church, will you kindly insert in your daily and weekly issue the enclosed notice.

Yours truly,
H. A. FOWNES.
St. Martin's, Oct. 25, 1906.

"The notice" sent by Mr. Fownes follows here:—

"The Rev. C. W. Townsend sustained by his church at St. Martin's. On Wednesday evening, Oct. 24, a very large and representative meeting of the First St. Martin's Baptist church was held. Messrs. from all parts of the field were present to the number of nearly 100. The Rev. C. W. Townsend was elected moderator and chairman of the meeting. A resolution to have voting by ballot was lost, only eleven expressing themselves in favor of it; the large majority declaring their desire to have an open vote.

"The following motion was carried by a standing vote of seventy members of the church: That we, the members of the First St. Martin's Baptist church, desire to express our unbounded confidence in the Rev. C. W. Townsend as our pastor, believing him to be a true man of God, and a faithful minister of our Lord Jesus Christ."

"Thus, instead of three-fourths of the membership desiring Mr. Townsend's resignation, it was found to be altogether the other way. The people demonstrated unmistakably and enthusiastically that they were with him. The above vote was signed by the following officers of the church:—

"Albert White, deacon and trustee.
James De Long, deacon and trustee.
H. A. Fownes, trustee.
Crawford Love, trustee.
C. F. Black, trustee.
W. A. McIntyre, trustee."

Samaria Stopped His Drinking

A London Lady cures her husband permanently of the drink habit and without his knowledge.

"How glad I am that I overcame my hesitation about writing you for a Free Sample of Samaria. My husband was drunk very hard, and I was in despair. The effect of your treatment was immediate, and now our home is a happy one. My husband's health improved, and he is now a different man. I will be glad if you will tell others of my experience."

Free Package particulars, testimonials and price sent in plain sealed envelope on request. Address: THE SAMARIA REMEDY CO., Jordan St., Toronto, Canada.

Hon. F. J. Sweeney was in the city yesterday en route from Boston to Moncton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fraser Winslow, who were in the city attending the funeral of the late Mrs. John Holden yesterday, returned to Fredericton last evening.
