Francisco, and George Young, Canadian long distance champion. A prize of $25,000 goes to the first man to finish the lengthy jaunt, while the first woman finishing after him, receives $15,000. In the event a woman takes first place, she gets the $25,000 prize and the $15,000 stays in William Wrigley's coffers. The distance between the starting point and the finish is nearly 22 miles. It was estimated the elapsed time of those who hold out would range from 12 to 24 hours. Of an original entry list of 183 swimmers, about two-thirds appeared on the island last night for final instructions. About 26 underwent physical examinations at the hospital here, while the others showed proper physicians' certificates.
