MEN WORKING;
THERE WILL BE ARBITRATION

Longshoremen who stopped work on the steamer Claudiere as a protest against the employment of only twelve men to a gang in the process of unloading sugar, contending there should be fifteen, returned to work this morning pending the report of a board of arbitration which will inquire into the case. The gangs working today are composed of twelve men.

At a largely attended meeting of the longshoremen yesterday afternoon it was decided that the men should return to work this morning and that the dispute should be taken up by a board of conciliation composed of three members, one appointed by the union, one by the company and a third selected by the two nominees. John McKinnon was elected to represent the union and D. W. Ledingham, vice-president of the William Thompson Co., will, in all probability, represent the company. The third member has not been appointed as yet. The board will go into the matter early next week.

BOARD OF HEALTH AND MILK SUPPLY

Every Precaution Taken from
Farm to Home—Charges
Unfounded.

In view of the agitation for purer milk which has been carried on through correspondence in the local press, a Times reporter called at the office of the board of health this morning, and found that from the source of supply to the hands of the consumer, every drop of milk which comes to the city is under the eyes of the board of health.

The Public Health Act, 1918, provides for the inspection of every cow and premises from which public milk supply comes, as well as the utensils used in connection with the supply. A producer is not allowed to supply milk to the public or to retailers until he has obtained a license from the board of health, and dealers in the city are also required to take out a permit before they can sell milk to the public. In both cases the permit is refused if conditions are not up to the standard set by the board.

Dr. T. Fred Johnston, an experienced veterinarian, is dairy inspector for the sub-district board, and he is sent to the source of supply, no matter in what part of the province it is located. He completes a chart of the premises, which shows the condition of the cattle, the quality of the food and water used, the cleanliness of the cows, the condition and cleanliness of the stable, condition of barnyard and disposition of manure, milk room construction, condition and cleanliness, utensils cleanliness and adequacy, supply of ice, possibilities for cooling and storing in low temperature.

The total possible score of each premises is 100. If the actual score is eighty or more, the dairy is reported excellent; seventy to eighty, good; sixty to seventy, fair; fifty to sixty, probationary, in which case improvement must be shown in subsequent inspections or the premises are condemned; below fifty the dairy is reported against and license is refused.

Samples of the milk from each source of supply are taken frequently and tested by Dr. H. L. Abramson, provincial pathologist, for better fat and bacteria. If these tests show the milk below the standard set, the supply from the producer is cut off.

The board also keeps an appliance for sediment test, which has recently been added and through which a supply suspected to be dirty can be tested in a minute or two.

Not only on the good report of the dairy inspector does the granting of a license to a producer depend, but also on his previous record, and in cases where the previous record is not good, a certain period of improvement in conditions is demanded before a license to ship milk to the city is given.

A close watch is also kept on the milk after it has been delivered to the retailers in the city, and no permit is granted to a vendor until his premises have been examined by the assistant dairy and food inspector, Mrs. Flewelling. Thus the board follows the supply until it is actually in the hands of the consumer.

But it does not stop even there. Supported by one health officer, the board are two child welfare nurses who visit the homes and instruct mothers in the proper care and feeding of their children in the home, and are told how to keep the milk sweet and pure after it has been received from the vendors.

While it is not claimed by health officials that the milk supply in the city is perfect, everything that is humanly possible is being done to remedy conditions and the dairy inspector has reported that under conditions which the milk is being produced have certainly improved in the last year. The fact that licenses have been cancelled recently is given, as evidence that the board is putting its regulations into effect.

AN AUTO CASE IN RENFORTH COURT

Follows Collision Near Gondola Point—Bridge Speeding Case in Police Court.

As the result of a collision near Gondola Point, on Sunday night, when a Ford Sedan driven by Frank S. Fales and a Reo touring car, owned and driven by F. G. Garson, collided, information was laid against Mr. Fales by Constable Robert Crawford, on the charge of exceeding the speed limit. The by-law covering the speed of travel over the bridge allows for a fine of from $50 to $100 for the first offence and up to $250 for a subsequent offence. According to Mr. Shanks' evidence, the accused passed over the bridge at twenty-five miles an hour. A fine of $50 was struck.
