ST. JOHN MEAT MEN GET A BIG CHICAGO ORDER

Because of the situation in the cattle and meat market as a result of the embargo, Swift Bros. of Chicago, have placed an order with Kane & McDonald of this city for about 4,000 sheep, to be slaughtered here and sent forward in refrigerator cars. It is understood that never before was a single order for the slaughter of so many sheep placed with a firm in St. John, and that this is the first time the Swift Bros. one of the big packing concerns of Chicago, have placed a direct order with St. John firm.

Kane & McDonald have had to buy sheep in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island as well as New Brunswick to place themselves in a position to fill this important order. The sheep will be killed at their abattoir outside of the city and prepared for shipment under government supervision. They have facilities for handling between 1,000 and 1,500 a week.

Several property sales have been completed by W. E. Anderson, real estate broker.

F. H. McNair has purchased the property on the corner of Waterloo and Middle streets consisting of dwelling and store, 224 Waterloo street, and dwelling, 7 Middle street. The leaseholds were bought from George W. Barnes and the freehold lots from John Ross.

W. Arthur Vanwart of Hampstead Wharf, has purchased a property at that place consisting of an hotel, boarding house, store and warehouse. It is his intention to operate the hotel for summer visitors and the store and boarding house in connection with the Valley Railway construction work.

Mrs. Alice E. Phillips has purchased from R. S. Ritchie a block of vacant land, containing 20,000 square feet, lying between Lancaster road and the C. F. R. tracks.

The Man In The Street

'Do your shopping before 11 p. m. on Saturday night' is a slogan that clerks in retail stores would like to see embodied in resolutions for Christmas buying.

A specialist announces that high steps on street cars causes lumbago and sciatica, and he might also have observed "eye-strain in the days of hobbies."

Report says that Turkey has been attacked in the left wing. No doubt before Christmas she'll get it in the neck.

News note says that much paper is now being made from bamboo. Probably being used for the magazines banishing the public with war dope.

Speaking of the men who have already enrolled for the second contingent from New Brunswick, one of our contemporaries says that they are "a fine lot of young fellows, vigorous and well set up." The reporter must have been around between drinks.

Famous Last Lines.
Water or soda, sir?
Got your outside windows on yet?
And how is that annual worry, better known as a furnace, working this year?

The offer of the city school teachers at their meeting last night to give so fine a donation to patriotic benefits shows that they are teachers in more than one sense of the word.

Old Vesuvius is doing his best to get a front page notice, but it's no use.

The funny fellow at the next desk desires to know if our men have eggs for breakfast now that Turkey is "laying" for the allies.

One of the worst features of this war is that just as soon as we learn to speak familiarly of one place they spring another that's worse. Just when we thought Prussia had been the worst, Shemesh, without accenting particularly any syllable, Petrograd brought forth another Czecho-slovakia. Sneeze it!

Now that the frosty nights are with us the "rubber plants" will probably be taken themselves from the corners of Charlott, Union and Waterloo streets.

In other words, purchase your Christmas gifts now.

We sincerely hope that if it is true that Jack Johnson is on the firing line he may have a chance to land a solar-helix on the Crown Prince. Just along there'll be no need to take the count.

The cattle plague, without the ghastly details, might be a good enough name for it.

A Montreal paper has the head line "Street car service is inadequate." As that were any distinction.

Kansas literary society had a debate on the resolution "That a woman is of more benefit to a farm than a man." Well, that depends.

The office boy returned with the mail and also a large sized grouch.
"Why all the gloom?" he was asked.
"There was a mother soul in sight and I had to push that revolting door in the post office open for myself," was the sad news he conveyed in response to the query.

Try It Yourself.
Some time you haven't very much else to do, and want to show your friends how smart you are on military "problems" place the name "Jeff" in writing on a sheet of paper. Then directly beneath it place the name "French." Each name has six letters, so therefore when a straight line is drawn through the centre of each it will divide them equally.
Try it and you'll get it.
P. S.—This little trick is not original with the "Man in the Street," so that a natural sense of modesty does not prevent our suggesting that it become popular in the school as a means of impressing upon the young the names of our two great generals. And the great advantage of the move is that in its absolute simplicity, any person can do it, so that it is likely to become a favorite pencil trick with young and old.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Happy Event in Lives of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Reicker of Kars Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. George Reicker of Kars, Kings county, celebrated their golden wedding on November 10, and about one hundred and twenty-five relatives and friends gathered to extend congratulations. It was a notable event in the history of the parish. Mr. and Mrs. Reicker have eleven children, as follows: Daniel and Manfred of Kars; James, John Urquhart of Kars; Stella of Boston, Judith of St. John, and Leota at home. All except William and Stella, who is married and lives in Boston, were present.

There were also seventeen grandchildren and four great-grandchildren among those who extended congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Reicker. Among well known men of the parish present were Councillor George Bond and Miles Jenkins. Mr. and Mrs. Reicker received $45 in gold, and other gifts of about equal value. The bride and groom of fifty years ago were delighted to have their children about them, and to receive from their life-long neighbors such a striking evidence of esteem and good will.

SEVENTEEN YEARS AS RECORDING STEWARD

F. S. Thomas Resigns Portland Church Office—Appreciation of His Work Expressed

Some fifty members of Portland street Methodist church gathered last evening at the home of F. S. Thomas, 304 Douglas avenue and presented to him an illuminated address expressing appreciation of the work accomplished by Mr. Thomas during the seventeen consecutive years during which he has held the important position of recording steward of the church, and expressing deep regret that he has now retired from this office. Mr. Thomas was completely taken by surprise.

The address, which had been neatly engraved, was read by Rev. M. E. Connor, pastor of the church, who also made a few remarks in which he heartily endorsed the sentiments expressed in the address. Rev. George Steel, pastor at the time when Mr. Thomas was appointed, also spoke. R. T. Hayes and William Young also made a few remarks followed by Captain W. E. McLean, who for the last twenty years has been a member of the executive board of Portland church. Mr. Thomas tendered his resignation at the last meeting of the board.

The evening was pleasantly spent by all. Dainty refreshments were served at the close.

MIDNIGHT TRAMP FOR SOLDIERS
William Lattimer, Jr., in a letter from Salisbury Plain to his father, William Lattimer, Gilbert's Lane, describes the trip across the ocean in an interesting manner and says that he and the other men are enjoying their work in camp although it hardly seems like war. As an example of the training they are receiving he speaks of being routed out at midnight and taking a twelve mile tramp and back to camp again before daybreak. As far as he can learn they will remain in camp until after the first of the year. He wishes to be remembered to all his friends here.

A. Ernest Everett, 91 Charlotte Street

When Dreams Come True

"I dreamed," said the cynic, "that I sold a $800,000 bill of goods. And," he laughed scornfully, "had it lasted five minutes longer, it would have been a clean million."

He thought he had dreamed the impossible.

But the great successful manufacturers of this country—men who started business with a small capital, and who are today ranked among the millionaires, would not have laughed!

Years ago they realized that anything is possible!

They saw that with a good product to place upon the market, and a good advertising medium in which to send a daily message to the public about this product, they could sell, without difficulty, many $800,000 worth of goods.

A careful study of one's product, a knowledge of local conditions, the advertising columns of The Telegraph and Times—and without a doubt the time will arrive when dreams come true!
