Attempt to Rob a Bank at Waterville. An attempt was made on the night of Nov. 21, to rob the National Bank at Wa bank to lunch with the bank and town watchman, Augustus Wood, he saw two men coming fron-behind the bank build ing, who almost instantly attacked him, threatening his life if he made any resistance. He, however, while a pistol was held to his head, cried "murder," whereupon they gave him terrible blow and fled. He fired twice at them without effect. Vi gue's cry and pistol shots brought several to his assistance, who soon learned that Wood was missing. Being unable to find him a general alarm was given at 3.35, when a thorough search began, and he was found in a horse shed in the rear of the met on Silver street by four men, one of whom said "Good evening you are the man we are looking for." Then all four attack. ed him, to k him to the shed, two stand ing guard until the report of Vigne's pis Wood thinks that he could identify one hat nothing has been discovered to lead to their detection. The chizens of the quiet, offerly town are very much excited over the affair. All feel that a bold prearrang-od plan of bank robbery, has been defeated which, but for Vigne, might have proved successful. It is thought that the men who comtemplated the robbery went to Augusta. It undoubtedly was a daring at-
