SERMON ON HOME.

Domestic Life the Subject of Dr. Talmage's Address.

Every Member Should Strive to Make It Happy.

Start in the Right Way-Keep God Always at the Fireside.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 .- Dr. Talmage in this discourse sets forth ra-dical theories, which, if adopted, would brighten many domestic circles; text, John xx., 10, "The disciples went away again unto their own homes."

A church within a church, a republic within a republic, a world within a world, is spelled by four letters-home! If things go right there, they go right everywhere; if things go wrong there, they go wrong every-where. The doorsill of dwelling house is the foundation of church and state, A man never gets higher than his own garret or lower than his own cellar. Domestic life overarches and undergirdles all other life. The highest house of congress is the domestic circle: the rocking chair in the nursery is higher than a throne. George Washington commanded the forces of the United States, but Mary Washingiton commanded George. Chrysos-tom's mother made his pen for him. If a man should start out and run 70 years in a straight line he could not get cut from under the shadow of his own mantelpiece. I therefore talk to you about a matter of infinite and eternal moment when I speak of your home. As individuals we are fragments. God makes the race in parts, and then He gradually puts us together. What I lack, you make up; what you lack, I make up; our deficits and surpluses of character being the cogwheels in the great social mechanism. One person has the patience, another the pla-cidity, another the enthusiasm. That which is lacking in one is made up by another or made up by all. Buffaloes in herds, grouse in broods, quails in flocks, the human race in circles God has most beautifully arranged this. It is in this way that He balances society; this conservative, and that radical keeping things even. Every ship must have its masts, cutwa-ter, taffrall, ballast. Thank God, then, for Princeton and Andover, for the opposites.

I have no more right to blame a man for being different from me than a driving wheel has a right to blame the iron shaft that holds it to the centre. John Wesley balances Calvin's "insti-A cold thinker gives to Scotand the strong bones of theology. Dr. Guthrie clothes them with a throbbing heart and warm flesh. The difsith just the work that God has given in their presence." It must have takus to do. The water wheel wants to come inside the mill and grind the grist, and the hopper wants to go out and dabble in the water. Our usefulness and the welfare of society depend upon our staying in just the place that God has put us, or intended we should occupy.

day of more moral outrage before God and man than any other cause. GOD IN THE HOME. There are some things that I want to bring before you. I know there are those of you who have had homes set up for a great many years. Then there are those who will after awhile set up for themselves a home, and it is right that I should speak upon these My first counsel to you is, have God in every firm. She ought to be inter-ested in all the losses and gains of shop and store. She ought to have a your new home, if it be a new home, and let Him who was a guest at Bethany be in your household, let the right-she has a right-to know everydivine blessing drop upon your every hope and plan and expectation. MARRIAGE GARLIANDS.

For more compactness and that we may be more useful we are gathered in still smaller circles in the home group. And there you have the same variety again-brothers, sisters, husband and wife, all different in temperaments and tastes. It is fortunate that it should be so. If the husband be all impulse, the wife must be all prudence. If one sister be sanguine in her temperament, the other must be a lymphatic. Mary and Martha are sities. There will be no dinner for Christ if there be no Martina, there will be no audience for Jesus if there be no Mary. The home organization is most beautifully constructed. Eden has gone, the bowers are all broken down, the animals that Adam stroked with his hand that morning when they came up to get their names have since shot forth tusk and sting and growled panther at panther, and midair iron beaks plunge till with clotted wing and eyeless sockets the twain come whirling down from under the sun in blood and fire. Eden has gone, but there is just one little ent left. It floated down on the river Hilddekel out of paradise. It is the marriage institution. It does not, as at the beginning, take away from man a rib. Now it is an addition of

This new institution of marriage has been defamed in our day. Socialism and polygamy and the most damnable of all things, free lovism damnable of all things, free jovish, have been trying to turn this earth into a Turkish harem. While the pul-pits have been comparatively silent, novels , their cheapness only equalled by their nastiness, are trying edu-cate, have taken upon themselves to educate, this mation in regard to holy marriage which makes on howeks for marriage, which makes or breaks for time and eternity. Oh, this is not a mere question of residence or ward-robe! It is a question charged with gigantic joy or sorrow, with heaven or ell. Alas for this new dis nell. Alas for this new dispensation of George Sands! Alas for this mingling of the nightshade with the mar-riage garlands! Alas for the venom of adders spit into the tankards! Alas for the white frosts of eternal death that kill the orange blossoms! The gospel of Jesus Christ is to assert what is right and to assail what is wrong. Attempt has been made to take the marriage institution, which was intended for the happiness and elevation of the race, and make it a mere commercial enterprise, an ex-change of houses and lands and equip-age, a business partnership of two stuffed up with the stories of romance and knight errantry and unfaithfuland known errantry and unreithrui-ness and feminine angelhood. The two after awhile have roused up to find that instead of the paradise they dreamed of they have got no-thing but a Van Amburgh's menag-erie, filled with tigers and wild cats. Eighty thousand divorces in Paris in one year proceeded the worst revolution that France ever saw! And I tell you what you know as well as I do, that wrong notions on the subject of Christian marriage are the cause at this some courage to do that. It was Find out the points that are the weak points, if I'fflay call them so, of your companion and then stand aloof from them. Do not carry the fire of your temper too near the gunpowder. If the wife be easily fretted by disorder in the household, let the hus-band be careful where ne throws his slippers. If the husband comes home from the store with his patience exhausted, do not let the wife unneces sarily cross his temper, but both stand up for your rights, and I will promise the everlasting sound of the war-whoop. Your life will be spent in making up, and marriage will be to you an unmittgated curse. Cowper HOW TO HAVE A HAPPY HOME.

The kindest and the happiest pair Will find occasion to forbear And something, every day they live To pity and perhaps forgive.

I advise you that you make your chief pleasure circle around about that home. It is unfortunate when it is otherwise. If the husband spent the most of his nights away from home of choice and not of necessity, he is not the head of the household; he is only the cashier. If the wife throws the cares of the household into the servant's lap and then spends five nights of the week at the opera or theatro, she may clothe her children with satins and laces and ribbons that would confound a French milliner, but they are orphans. It is sad hell that puts out that light feaves when a child has no one to say its you in the blackness of darkness forprayers to because nother has gon off to the evening entertainment! In In India they bring children and throw them to the crocodiles, and it seem very cruel, but the jaws of social dis sipation are swallowing down more little children today than all the mon-sters that ever crawled upon the banks of the Ganges!

GODLESS FIRESIDES.

I have seen the sorrow of a godless mother on the death of a child she had neglected. It was not so much grief that she felt from the fact that the child was dead as the fact that she had neglected it. She said, "If I had only watched over and cared for the child I know God would not have taken it." The tears came not. It was a dry, blistering tempest -3scorching simoon of the desert. When she wrung her hands, it seemed as if she would twist her fingers from their sockets; when she seized her hair, it seemed as if she had in wild terror reasped a coiling serpent with her ight hand. No tears! Comrades of the little one came in and wept over the coffin, neighbors came in, and the oment they saw the still face of the child the shower broke. No tears for her. God gives tears as the summer her. God gives tears as the smaller rain to the parched soul, but in all the universe the driest and hottest, the most scorching and consuming thing is a mother's heart if she has neglected her child, when once it is dead. God may forgive her, but she will never forgive herself. The mem-ory will sink the eyes deeper into the sockets and pinch the face and whiten the hair and eat up the heart with vultures that will not be satisfied, for ever plunging deeper their iron beaks. Oh, you wanderers from your home, en some courage to do that it there are the account of there are the account of the solution, and they going on toward destruction, and they stop very often and let a man go out stop very often and let a man go out when he wants to. But genteel idleness is an express train. Satan is the stoker, and death is the engineer, and though one may come out in front of it and swing the red flag of "danger' or the lantern of God's word, it makes just one shot into perdition, coming down the embankment with a shout and a wall and a shrick-crash crash! There are two classes of peo-ple sure of destruction-first, those who have nothing to do; secondly, those who have something to do, but who are too lazy or too proud to do

I have one more word of advice to give to those who would have a happy home, and that is, let love preside in it. When your behavior in the domestic circle becomes a mere matter of calculation, when the caress you bive is merely the result of delib study of the position you occupy, hap-piness lies stark dead on the hearthtone. When a husband's position as head of the household is maintained by loudness of voice, by strength of arm, by fire of temper, the republic of domestic bliss has become a despot-ism that meither God nor man will abide. Oh, ye who promised to love each other at the altar, how dare you commit perjury? Let shadow of suspicion come on your affection. It is easier to kill that flower than it is to make it live again. The blast from ever. They Here are a man and wife. agree in nothing else, but they agree they will have a home. They will have a splendid house, and they think that if they have a house they will have a home. Architects make the plan, and the mechanics execute it, the house to cost $100,000. It is done, The carpets are spread, lights are hcisted, curtains are hung, cards invitation are sent out. The horses in gold plated harness prance at the gate, guests come in and take their places, the flute sounds, the dancers, go up and down, and with one grand whirl the wealth and the fashion and the mirth of the great town wheel and the pictured walls. Ha, this is happiness. Float, it on the smoking viands, sound it in the music, whirl it in the dance, cast it in the snow of sculpture, sound it up the brilliant stairway, flash it in chandeleiers. Hapstairway, flash piness indeed!

SOMETHING LACKING.

Let us build on the centre of the parlor floor a throne to happiness; let all the guests when they come in bring their flowers, and pearls and diamonds, and throw them on this pyramid, and and throw them on this pyramid, and let it be a throne, and then let happi-ness, the queen, mount the throne, and we will stand around, and, all chalices lifted, we will say, "Drink, O queen; live forever!" But the guests depart, the flutes are breathless, the last clash of the impatient hoofs are heard in the distance, and the twain of the household come back to see the queen of happiness on the throne amid draw morler floor. But, alas, as they the parlor floor. But, alas, as they come back, the flowers have faded, Oh, you wanderers from your home, the sweet odors have become the smell go back to your duty!
