

George Ade Pastures

THE STORY OF WHAT HAPPENED TO AN AMERICAN CONSUL.

to make a ten strike as a reformer I up and go somewhere. The family doc- of social precedence were must seek new fields."
So I decided to flit through Europe spend all the time I could spare from dodging table d'hote dinners to to her. bolstering up and regulating the con-experiences of an American consul I he could take a trip to an attractive bridge, while every man who had won (Copyright, 1906, by George Ade.) two boys went to college at Ann Arbor, In undertaking a trip to foreign parts I have had two objects in view.—

(a) To strengthen and more closely cement our friendly felations with foreign Powers—I to furnish the cellife, relieved of wearing responsibility. foreign Powers-I to furnish the ce- life, relieved of wearing responsibil- cla had a governor general and a colities. He was well fixed financially and onel in command, and the Right Hon-(b) To reform things in general over still in the prime of life—not due to orable Skipper of the gunboat and a the Willoughbys. In the opinion of retire permanently, but ready to take judge and a cluster of foreign consuls. it easy. For years he had nursed a The men had a club at which whisky for a real reformer in the U. S. A., in- vague desire to travel beyond the lim- and water could be obtained, unless asmuch as the magazines were upset- its of his native land. Mrs. Willoughby, the bottle happened to be empty. The asmuch as the magazines were upset to be empty. The willougheys were good people the ting municipal rings, cornering the who in the home circle was known as women exchanged calls and gave forkind of people one likes to meet in mail dinners and drove about in rickety Michigan. But when the ladies of the of every corporation that seemed to qua Circle, and she, too, had an amlittle victorias with terrified natives in be making money. I said:—"If I wish bition born of much reading to pack livery perched upon the box. The lines tor said that a visit to some milder drawn. At a dinner party the wife of climate, far from the rigors of north- the governor preceded the wife of the ern winter, would be a positive benefit military commandant who, in turn, queened it over the wife of the gunboat, So Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby began who looked down upon the wife of the sular service.

to study the atlas. One of the sons sugmagistrate, and so on. The women gested to "Old Man" Willoughby that smoked cigarettes and gambled at did not even own a "dress suit." When some of the lesser events in the history he got a clean shave and put on a of Gallivancia, but until time shall be string tie and backed into a "Prince no more the residents of that city will Albert" coat he felt that he had made a very large concession to the mere of Michigan. fripperies of life. 'And "Ma" had her ned apple pie couple from the tall timber? Mind you, I am not poking fun at the Willoughbys. In the opinion of loughby type is worth a ten aere lot full of these two by four titles. foreign colony came to call on "Ma" and said "Dyuh me!" and looked at closely her through their lorgnettes, she was like a staid old Plymouth Rock hen who suddenly finds herself among the birds of paradise. She told Mr. Willoughby that is was the queerest lot of "woman folks" she had ever seen, and although she didn't like to talk about people until she knew her ground, some of them did not seem any respectable than the law allowed. Poor Mrs. Willoughby. She did not know it was good form for a woman to smoke and drink, but bad form for her to be interested in her husband. She tried to apply a Michigan training to Gallivancia conditions, and the two didn't seem to jibe.

> If Mrs. Willoughby amused the women Mr. Willoughby more than amused the men. He upset them and left them gasping.

The Acting Consul had used a small office adjoining his own place of business on the water front. Mr. Willoughby called on the former consul and found him to be a dignified Britisher of the gloomy and reticent sort, with mustache shaped like a horseshoe, The dethroned official was courteous, but not cordial. He was saying goodby to some easy money, and the situation was not one calculated to promote good cheer Mr. Willoughby's action in coming down and pulling the Consulate from underneath him seemed to him almost unfriendly. However, he formally turned over to Mr. Willoughby a table, four chairs, several account books and a letter-press, all being the property of the United States

Mr. Willoughby had rented a house on the hill overlooking the town and decided to plant the Consulate in the front room of his residence. Inasmuch as the Consul had a business caller about once a month, there was no need of maintaining two establishments. Already he had taken into his employ and his warmest nersonal friendship a native named Franciotto. This name seemed formal and hard to remember, Willoughby rechristened him "Jim." He liked this native in spite of his color because he was the only man in Gallivancia who seemed to be pervaded by the simple spirit of democracy. Mr. Willoughby said that the standing in Gallivancia was at all subtent to doubt that doubt vanished on the day when he and "Jim" came down to move the office effects to the house on the hill.

Mr. Willoughby did something that day which convulsed Gallivancia af it never had been convulsed before—not hen a neighboring volcano blew off. For days afterwards the official set, the men at the little club and the women pouring ten at each other, talk-ed of nothing else. Many would not be-Into this nest of pretentious, cere- who saw the whole thing and were call- sured that he was a "queer sort." And menious, strutting little mortals came ed upon time and time again to testify "Old Man" Willoughby and "Ma" Wilformance of the United States Consul. ligned, took no further interest in their Other Consuls may come and go and government's representative; merely ized aristocratic society they were most the years spin their weary lengths and shook hands with him when he came ofoundly ignorant. Mr. Willoughby the obliterating drift of time may hide tell the story of "Old Man" Willoughby

What do you suppose he did? No effort of the imagination can carry you within hailing distance of the horrible truth, so let the suspense be ended. Mr. Willoughby, with his own hands, helped to move the furniture from the old Consulate up to his new residence. He put the table on top of his head and balanced it carefully and carried it through the open streets of Gallivan-cia! An official, a representative of a great power, performing cheap manual labor!

Words are altogether inadequate to describe the degree of obloquy which Mr. Willoughy earned for himself by this unheard of exhibition. In Gallivancia it was not considered quite the thing to indulge in mental effort, and for any one except a menial of the lowest social order to perform physical labor was almost inconceivable. The new consul was set down as either a harmless imbecile or an altogether new specimen of barbarian. In either case he was not a fit associate for well bred gentlemen, and Gallivancia proceeded to ignore him and "Ma." That is, they pretended to ignore them, but as a matter of fact they watched them at a distance and heard daily reports of their familiarities with servants, their fondness for outlandish American cookery and other eccentricities. It was all vastly diverting to the tiny aristocrats of Gallivancia, but it was pretty hard on Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby-homesick, hungry for spring chicken and garden truck, and yet ashamed to pick up and go home so soon after all those elaborate goodbys.

One morning Mr. Willoughby walked out on the veranda of his hillside cot-tage and looked across the harbor and saw something that smote him with an over-powering joy. A white cruiser, flying the Stars and Stripes, had steamed through the narrow entrance and was bearing down to an anchorage. "Come here, mother!" he shouted. 'Come here, if you want to see some-not be altered by putting a mere handle to his name. Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby were eager to go down and call on the "folks from home." After the prolonged boycott which had been hanging over them they were pining for white society.

Mr. Willoughby put on his long black coat and Mrs. Willoughby got out her flowered bonnet and together they went down to the water front walked instead of going as they should have gone, in one of the decrepit local hacks. Before they could charter a humble rowboat and go out to the ship others put on too many "damlugs"— the Governor General and the Lord whatever that may mean.

High Commander of the Scow and the If U. S. Consul Willoughby's social Imperial Collector of Customs and all the Governor General and the Lord other residents of real importance had gone out in a launch and taker charge of the naval officers. Dinner parties and a ball at the "palace" were aranged at once. The servant at the club hurried out and got another bottle of Scotch wihskey, and the town band began to mobilize at a cafe. Gallivancia had no use for humble American residents of the Willoughby type, but it gave hysterical welcome to the splendid war vessel and the natty men in uniform. Over the first drink the lieve when they first heard it, but there Americans were told the remarkable the naval officers, being accustomed to regarding the most extraordinary per- hearing United States consuls ma-aboard, told him to make himself at sembled by all the petty officials at themselves sidetracked, and they went because of his ignorance of social back home not daring to talk about wha had happened. But that was the day which caused them to decide to go back to Michigan, Mr. Willoughby who can put up a "front." Have each home, and then flocked away to the Gallivancia. And yet Gallivancia re-high lights and the gayety which had garded him as a very poor excuse for been provided for them by the court a consul. The naval officers saw in circles of Gallivancis.

Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby found bringing discredit on their native land

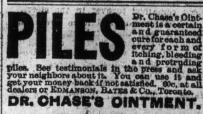

Therefore let us send out Consuls wrote to the state department and said Consul wear the uniform of drum that the climate did not agree with major. Make sure that he can dance thing that's good for sore eyes!"

Mrs. Willoughby came running and nearly careened with happiness. There it was, an American war vessel, with real Yankes on board—boys from home; boys who had been brought up to believe that man's character and his when they sailed away all night, play bridge and keep up with the naval crowd when it comes to the dock to bid them goodby.

As the "Ex-Consul of Gallivancia" the serving classes, but joyial with the serving classes, but joyial with the military. Make sure that he is averse to all forms of labor. Such a Consul to believe that man's character and his less he has more gray matter, more | will shed glory upon our beloved counabilities gave him a worth which can- Christian charity and more horse try, and will never suffer the unhappy sense than could be collectively as- fate of "Old Man" Willoughby.

TAKING NO CHANCES.

Two men in the west were to be hanged for horse-stealing. The place selected was the middle of a trestle bridge spanning a river. The rope was not securely tied about the neck of the first man to be dropped, and the knot slipped; he fell in the river and immediately swam for the shore. As they were adjusting the rope for the second culprit, an Irishman, he remark-

"Will yez be sure and tie that good and tight, 'cause I can't swim."

HOW THE BOY FOOLED THEM. There is a good story told of a man who has become a most successful mer-chant. A few years ago he was em-ployed as an office boy and messenger for a large firm. He was sent to dellect an account from a firm which was considered very "shaky," and was told to get the money at all hazards. The debtors gave the lad a check for $250. He went to the bank at once to cash it, and was told by the cashier that there was not enough funds in to meet it. "How much short?" asked the lad.

"Seven dollars," was the enswer.
It lacked but a minute or two of the time for the bank to close. The boy felt in his pockets, took out $7, and pushing it through the window, said, "Put that to the credit of Blank and

The cashier dir so, whereupon the boy presented the check and got the money. Blank and Co. failed the next Everybody knows that Cod Liver Oil is a wonderful flesh producer, IF you can take it.

Nobody doubts that Iron is the greatest enricher of the blood, IF you can digest it.

It is well known that Phosphorus is the ideal nerve and brain tonic, IF it is properly administered. "IF," ah! there's the rub.

But everybody does not know that Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus have at last been combined in an emulsion so palatable that anybody can take it, so easily assimilated that the smallest infant can digest it without difficulty and so perfectly and scientifically prepared that the value of the original ingredients is enhanced fourfold.

This emulsion is known as (Iron and Oil) and was well

"FERROL" has wiped out the "IF."

"FERROL" has brought the wonderful and universally recognized virtues of Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus within easy reach of the multitudes who need them.

"FERROL" is the only perfect emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, because it is the only one that contains IRON and no emulsion is perfect without it. That is why FERROL is an unequalled system FERROL is not a patent mystery. The formula is freely published. It is prescribed by the best Physicians. It is endorsed by the most eminent Medical Journals. It is used in the prominent Hospitals, Sanitariums, etc.

the profit, see a first of the profite of the standard the farment of the standard of the stan am following the advice of a friend southern country at the minimum ex- a medal at a shooting match pinned it and holsting the flag over a benighted foreign population. The suggestion appealed very strongly to Mr. Willoughwhenever the opportunity presents itself write something entirely irrelevant —something that has nething to do with anything in particular. The less you say about foreign countries the better you will please your feaders, and to work any arrange to write a series of consents.

and holsting the flag over a benighted foreign appealed very strongly to Mr. Willoughby. He wrote to the Congressman and the Senator and wanted to know if there was a vacancy—salary no object, but he would like to go into a mild and
better you will please your feaders, and
the senator and wanted to know if the bona fide titles to back them up and holsting the flag over a benighted foreign population. The suggestion appealed very strongly to Mr. Willoughby. He wrote to the Congressman and the Senator and wanted to know if the bona fide titles to back them up and doubter. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social position that is real it in one way and another. If we cannot afford a social if you can arrange to write a series of cocoanuts.

plishments, I feel that up to date I was somewhere on the map a city have followed instructions rather closely. If any dates, statistics or useful information have crept into these com-right out to the Arc de Triomphe and ated pleasantly in the imagination of logne. Fearing that this subject matter Washington to go after the place, and has been touched upon by other visi-tors, I shall disregard Paris and go straight to my task of reforming the consular service.

Washington to go after the place, and in less than no time his daily paper announced that he had "accepted" the appointment.

The politicians represented to the consul is all right in his place, but his place is at home. Overpaid, possibly, but he does his best to earn his $800 per annum. If he kept all the money home in Gallivancia as a polar bear that he handled in the course of a would be on India's coral strand. year he couldn't be a really successful grafter. He finds himself plumped down in a strange country. About the one section of Michigan the trembles one section of Michigan the trembles one section of Michigan the trembles time that he begins to learn the lan- for several days, and the Willoughby guage and has saved up enough money family was bathed in a new import-wheel horse in the party and for forty years had suported the caucus nominees. The aspiring politician who wished to go to Congress had to go and see Willoughby with his hat in his hand. He helped to make and unmake United States Senators and was consulted regarding appointments. But he payer to either Europe or Africa who knows but what you will score a hit?"

HAD TO GO AND SEE WILLOUGHBY

With no desire to boast of my accomnications it is through oversight and liminary boom as a resort. The acting In writing from Paris the natural impulse is to describe "Napoleon's tomb and tell how the Champs Elysees runs" american had wanted the job, "United States Consul at Gallivancia" reverbercuts through the Bois de Bou- Mr. Willoughby. He told his friends at

State Department that Mr. Willoughby To begin with, usually the American was a sturdy patriot of unimpeachable uy evening clothes he is recalled ance. Mrs. Willoughby was given a formal farewell by the ladies of the and goes back nome with a dress suit" on his hands. Take the case of Mr. Eben Willoughby, of Michigan. It is a simple narrative, but it will give you a line on the shortcomings of our consular service, and it will carry its him the night before he went away. He and "ma" stood on the back plat-He and 'ma' stood on the form and gazed with misty eyes at the "Old Man" Willoughby, as he was flutter of handkerchiefs on the station platform until the train swung around a curve and they found themselves headed straight for Gallivancia and wheal horse in the party and for forty wheel horse in the party and for forty glory. Both of them felt a little heartgarding appointments. But he never contail of a runt of island having no had asked anything for himself. His commercial or other importance. No urged me to send some letters pense by securing an appointment as on his coat when he went to a ball. It home. consul. And, of course, apart from the financial advantage, there would be the glory of representing a great nation the motions and got a lot of fun out of and hoisting the flag over a benighted > loughby, of Michigan. Of the outward form and artificialities of a European-

X-HOW DO INGS WIT

After Robledo the few who ed the Boco de rio, and he was self to the mout "You desire, said, "to bec dren?" By this gand often de The new rec boy, met the flinching.

"And why do The lad was looked hunger-h Because I hav " Is it concein gine your privat forwarded by en inquired Don Q. who join us in t their own desire from the momen their sole excuse The lad's face "Down there told me different

"They said that ra held a wonder the only one in rich man and the weighed one again Don Q. dropped garette into the "I perceive you tell me. Tell it "The beginning years, to the time My lord remember ones made holes into our dwelling father and my been married. My herd, and, like such a winter?" Don Q. godded.

"In spite of the ger, lord, those to the days grow d more bitter, and I starve. I have no As it happened, At went into Malage there ,ived one w

the poor." er known?" lord. And to him ter my father was more than once or not have had him Sometimes Iapou money, but a barre bag of flour. T to my father, sign papers, In rel bred another b the debt grew, a and sighed. "Ye shone again we were father paid the unu not know, lord over my father pa poulo-more than which he had borro him say. But the tne papers—some times less."

"Ah, unhappy so," commented the my father died two who lived alone swore to gather the debt, that we migh neyed into Malaga Iapoulo, and they of the debt that ren day on which I sho free. So, lord. we late, late and early, the money. And day I entered Malag the place where Iap ness. They said he so I asked if any o quittance of my del me no, but that I the morrow and see the following day I bureau, and they br fore him. 'Ah, fore him. 'Ah, J brought some of the said. 'All of it, sen very joyously, but I I counted it out before not enough,' he said; been enough, but no did you not come yes were bidden?' Then coming the day befor had denied him to m not believe, and he names and clutched his fingers, and his black beads when the into them." How did it end? "I cried to him th come, whereat he ser refused me entra-lord of the moun lord of the mour oaths, wore that ne they beheld me, and poulo grinned, well said, "Give me the brought and I will Go, be industrious next year what has

"Then fury seized

out if this was the libe a lawbreaker for swore that for that had done to me Iap come to die. He fea mountains, for he ca help but I broke help, but I broke all, and because I c mother's face when of our wrong, I ran tains, and—" he flur with one of those fir is imbred in his rac to demand justice of "The story you ha indeed show this Iap villainous light," ren sadly. "I fear the fe curable ruffian, for I