Lion and Bear are Good Friends

St. Petersburg, June 12.—Russian newspapers are unanimous on a few subjects, but on the subject of King Edward's visit to Russia, the reactionary Rossiya and Novoe Vremya are as cordial as the liberal Retch or the rebel Russ. This is a great tribute to the popularity of the English Sovereign, and to properly understand how great it is we must bear in mind the attacks which the 'Novoe Vremya' made about a year ago on the French and their President, and the coldness with which the Russian Liberal press regarded the meeting of the Kaiser and the Czar at Swinemunde.

The only regret of the Russ is that the meeting takes place at sea, and that the Russian people are thus deprived of an opportunity to directly welcome their English guests. But the English King and his valiant sailors may rest assured that the Russian nation extends to them its heartiest welcome. The fact that the meeting takes place at sea is probably due to the tactfulness of King Edward whose host, the Czar, would be placed in a rather awkward position if he saw this people everywhere greeting the monarch with the greatest enthusiasm while paying him, their lawful sovereign no evidences of regard such as might be insisted on by the police and the Cossacks.

That demonstrations of welcome would occur were King Edward to put his foot ashore is a fact which there is no disputing, and of which the British Embassy in St. Petersburg is well aware, but the welcome would not, of course, be so much for the King personally as for the ruler of the friendly English nation. Campbell-Bannerman's happy phrase, La Douma est morte, vive la Douma! is probably forgotten in England by this time, but it will never be forgotten in Russia, and I notice that two Russian papers—the 'Slovo' and the 'Russ'—mention it, in the articles which they devote to the welcome of King Edward, thus showing that England's popularity here is due to her advocacy in Russia's dark hour of the cause of Russian freedom.

At a most difficult moment, says the 'Slovo' these words came to us like a message from heaven. King Edward's visit to Revel will, says the same paper be regarded with the greatest satisfaction by the people of Russia. The land of the oldest of parliaments will be welcomed by the land which contains the youngest of parliaments—thus showing how largely King Edward's welcome is a welcome to liberal England. The 'Retch' makes this still clearer.

THE POLITICAL ASPECT
'The monarch of England, it says, the future guest of the Russian Emperor, can count on the very heartiest welcomes from the people of Russia. In the person of the English King the leading portion of the Russian public is glad to welcome England and the English nation, a friendly feeling towards which nation constitutes, we may say, one of the most precious traditions of Russian liberalism. In purely political matters Russian liberalism has always—to often in opposition to other tendencies—insisted strongly and stubbornly on the necessity of the closest possible rapprochement with England. In this, as in many other things, the feelings of the Liberals have been justified by the march of history.

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it 'Spring Fever.' But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effect of your winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn-out nerves leave us languid, lifeless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that 'tired spot.' Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by All Dealers.

Cheese Frowned On In Japan

A Japanese who is not of the high-collared or ultra European cult would no more think of eating a ripe Camembert cheese than an American would think of giving a broiled lobster to a friend for a birthday or a New Year's gift. Yet the people who

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Restorer—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, it has brought that ancient and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. With out that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, indigestion, and other ailments, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

"ALL DEALERS"

call cheese "rotten milk" find decorative and symbolic attributes in the humble crustacean that has become a word of reproach in the western world.

Because there are no cows in Japan except those kept near the foreign settlements to supply Europeans and Americans, there was no cheese in Japan until that delicacy came in with the white resident. The Japanese, being introduced to cheese for the first time with the advent of the French restaurant in Yokohama and the foreign style Imperial Hotel in Tokio, appraised it with elemental directness. It smelled bad and was unfit food, so says the New York Sun.

"We eat daikon, which smells somewhat strongly," a Japanese student of the Imperial University once said, "but the smell is natural; it is part of the daikon. Your foreign cheese smells of decay; it is not cheese until it has decayed. I don't think it is proper to eat decayed things."

So inbred seems the Japanese antipathy to cheese that the rats in chrysanthemum land will not touch it. Foreign housewives in Yokohama say that when they open a tin of Denmark cheese they have no need to cove it again, for the rats will run right over the can and tackle the bag of rice on the pantry shelf.

The rats, it would seem, have never tasted cheese and do not care to try.

Saved by a Cool Head

Sir Andrew Clarke while travelling in India ascended a high tower one evening and found at the top another tourist, an Englishman. They chatted pleasantly for a few minutes when suddenly the stranger seized Sir Andrew by the shoulders and said quietly: "I am going to throw you over." The man was a maniac. The physician had only a moment in which to gather his thoughts, but that moment saved him. "Pooh!" he replied unconcernedly. "Anybody can throw a man off the tower. If we were on the ground you could not throw me up. That would be difficult." "Yes, I could," retorted the maniac. "I could easily throw you up here from the ground. Let us go down and I will do it." The descent was accordingly made during which Sir Andrew managed to secure help and release himself from the perilous situation.

G. T. R. Rails Make Long Journey

An order of 2,500 tons of steel rails for use on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, from the Prince Rupert end, were recently shipped by a long route. They were made at Pittsburgh and shipped to New York, thence across the Atlantic, through the Suez canal and Indian ocean and up the Yellow sea to Kobe, and there laden on the steamer Tencor, thence taken across the Pacific to Vancouver, B. Do Women Wash Their Hair Often Enough?

Lately there has sprung up a theory that the less hair is washed the better is its condition. This is so, even among hairdressers, who, after all, would profit considerably by an increase of custom if women washed their hair oftener. Now I am convinced they and women in general are wrong. The average woman should wash her hair twice as often as she does. At least twice a month, and often more frequently; in fact, I go so far as to say as often as the scalp feels in the least scurfy or dusty. It can never be wholesome to have the scalp covered with a loose super-surface of scurf or dust. This must be removed at once and the scalp left healthy, if the hair is to be beautiful. True, hair tonics and special dandruff recipes are great helps, but the ordinary homely shampoo is not easily to be beaten. Use soft rain-water whenever you can get it, and you will be surprised to see how silky and delightful the hair will be afterward.

Do You Lack Self-Control?

If you are constantly keyed up, nervous perhaps depressed—look to your over-worked nerves for the cause. They are starving for the nourishment that Ferrozone so quickly supplies. Besides its tonic action on the nervous system, Ferrozone has marvelous blood-forming properties. It thus supplies strengthening materials to every nook and corner of the body and brings the system to a condition of perfect health. To be strong to eat well, and work long without fatigue, use Ferrozone; it is the best nerve system tonic known. At all dealers in 50c. boxes.

Meaning of "Muff"

The record of the fact that muffs were once worn by more men than women in Paris suggests the old ingenious definition of a muff as "a soft thing that holds a lady's hand without squeezing it." "Muff" appears to have come to us from German, in which language, curiously, "muff" means, not only a hand comforter, but also a sulky person or a growing dog. These seem, however, to be two different words. Was our own metaphorical "muff" an illusion to the effeminacy of muff wearers, or simply an intimation that the person was distinctly "soft"?—London Chronicle.

Young Winks—Dick, my boy, will your sister be at home this evening? Little Dick—I think so.

"It's only a night or two since I called, but I'd like to call again this evening if I thought she'd be at home. Here's some chocolate for you, Dick." Thanks, awfully.

"Now, Dick, I want you to be a good little friend of mine."

"Well, I'll be careful not to let her know you're coming."

An Upper "Berth"

A professor in the University of Berlin who came over here a year ago was much surprised the first time when he travelled in a sleeping car to be asked by the porter for his berth ticket. "My berth ticket?" he said. "I have my passport, I have my letter of credit, and I have even in my trunk my certificate of vaccination; but why the railway company should want my birth ticket I do not see." "But," said the porter, "I must know whether you have upper or lower berth." "Upper, of course," said the German. "Look at my passport does it not say 'well and highly born'?"—Yale Alumni Weekly.

A Painless Corn Cure.

If you can have help enough to keep your household machinery in perfect running order without making a machine of yourself, do so by all means. White doors are lovely, shining tinware is very fine, spotless windows and highly polished silver are a delight; the mending basket, emptied every week is much to be desired, but there are things of more importance, and if it all depends on one pair of hands, one back and one set of nerves, for Heaven's sake, for your own sake, for your children's sake, don't.
