Gates' Acadian Liniment, the WORLD'S greatest Pain Exterminator.

Hall's Harbor, May 31, 1900.
C. GATES, SON & CO.,
Middleton, N.S.

Gentlemen: About two years ago I was taken sick with La Grippe. My head pained excruciatingly. So terrible was the pain that when my wife wrung cloths from hot water and held them on my head I could not feel the heat. I obtained a bottle of your ACADIAN LINIMENT, used it on my head, and took some in hot water internally, according to directions. As soon as I drank it I felt better and it made a cure in a few days.

I afterwards advised a neighbor to use it and it cured him also. Mr. Joshua McDonald, of Casey Corner, spent $25.00 before I saw him and persuaded him to try your Liniment.
He, too, was cured and says that he will never be without GATES' ACADIAN LINIMENT in the house.

For man and beast, external or internal,
I regard it as the best. Yours truly, ALEXANDER THOMPSON.

Homemade Sausages.

It is not strange that there should be a general prejudice against sausage meat made in wholesale quantity. While the practice, so common in certain parts of Europe, of using the flesh of horses which are fattened after they have passed their usefulness as beasts of burden does not prevail in this country, there is always a temptation to use inferior pork, mutton, veal and beef when sausage meat is made in the bulk. A great deal of poor meat which could not be sold in any other form is undoubtedly disposed of in this way, its ill flavor concealed by abundant spices and flavoring herbs. The sausage meat made by the New England farmer's wife, concerning which A. G. C. Wilmington, N. C., asks, owes its excellence to the care with which the best trimmings of the pork were sorted out, weighed and seasoned, as much as to any set rule. There is usually a liberal supply of sage and some summer savory in this sausage meat, but no cloves or mace. It is packed in muslin bags, which make rolls of about three inches in diameter, or in pans. The bags are dipped in melted fat after they are filled, and hung out in the cold at once for the fat to harden and form a coating on the outside to preserve the meat from the air. This is a much easier and neater way of packing sausage meat than the familiar way of cleansing the intestinal tubes for the purpose. The cost of the labor of preparing these tubes is greater to-day than the cost of clean muslin bags made for the purpose. To make fifteen pounds of sausage meat by the ordinary New-England method, select ten pounds of fresh, lean, young pork and five pounds of fresh, clean, fat pork. Use the firm fat near the skin of the pig. The intestinal fat is fit for nothing but to be tried out for lard. Chop the lean and fat as fine as you can, add a quarter of a pound of salt and three-quarters of an ounce of summer savory leaves, and an ounce of sage leaves, both pounded fine and sifted. Add, also, one ounce of fresh black pepper. Mix the seasoning thoroughly, and if you have a sausage grinder grind the whole together. If the meat is put in bags pack it in them and dip them in melted lard, as we have described, but if it is packed in pans or jars cover it with a layer of melted lard, which should be hardened at once to shut out the air.—Ex.

The Incentive of Praise.

We are far too ready with blame, far too chary with praise, and praise is the oil which keeps the domestic machinery from friction. If a child has tried to please, recognize the effort. If the school report shows an advance on previous work, be generous in praise. A father is often very proud of his boy, but he is tongue-tied by native reserve, or he is afraid that praise will seem like flattery, or he does not wish to spoil the child by too much enthusiasm, yet, as sunlight to the flower, as water to the thirsty, is praise from the lips of love.

But far worse than withholding praise is the too common fault of those who find fault with children in the presence of others. Mothers are not blameless in this regard, but fathers are the greater offenders. A man is tired, or worried, or out of sorts, and his boy does or says something inexpedient or indiscreet. The father's best way would be to wait until he is alone with his son and then explain his error, or point out his fault, or else to make a tactful opportunity at once for a little private talk. Five men out of six show very little tact on such occasions. They blurt out their rebuke in a method little short of brutal. All public fault finding and scolding are to be avoided and deprecated. They wound a sensitive nature, and further harden one that is callous.

In most cases a child wishes to do and be right. Inexperience leads to mistakes and misunderstandings. When one praises and the other blames, when one aids in concealing any omission or commission of a child, lest there should be punishment, when there is any fracture of confidence all around the circle, the permanent peace of the home is menaced. Of this even an impulsive parent should think.—Motherhood.

Influence and Mother.

Not long before the death of John Quincy Adams a gentleman said to him, "I have found out who made you."
"What do you mean?" he asked. I have been reading the published letters of your mother." The old man's eyes flashed brightly, he rose and said in his peculiar way, "Yes, sir; all that is good in me I owe to my mother." This mother wrote to him when he was twelve years of age, "I would rather see you laid in your grave than grow up a profane and graceless boy."—Ex.

Headaches may often be cured by taking half the juice of one lemon in a teaspoonful of strong black coffee. Headaches from biliousness sometimes yield to the simple treatment of half a lemon squeezed into a cupful of hot water without sugar taken night and morning.

Lemon-juice and sugar furnish a common household remedy for coughs and colds. Hot lemonade is also good; but the very best form in which the lemon can be used for such cases is the following: Put a good-sized lemon in the oven and let it remain until thoroughly baked.
It will then be soft all through. Take it out, and add enough sugar or honey—honey is preferable—to make a thick syrup with the juice. Keep this warm, and take a teaspoonful every few minutes.

Lemons in almost any form have a beneficial effect in case of rheumatism and are recommended by doctors.—Rx.

Doctors Baffled.

A CASE OF SCIATICA WHICH RE-FUSED TO YIELD TO THEIR TREATMENT.

The Patient Spent Nearly Three Months in a Hospital Without getting relief.—Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills Restored Him to Health and Strength.

For upwards of a quarter of a century, Mr. Geo. McLean has been a resident of the town of Thorold. He is foreman in the lumber yards of McCleary & McLean, and is known not only to the citizens of the town, but by most of the inhabitants of the adjoining region as well. Many of Mr. McLean's friends know that he was afflicted with a severe type of sciatica, and know also that he has been released from the pangs of that excruciating trouble.
Believing that his story would be of public interest, a reporter called upon him, and asked him to what agency he attributed his release from pain. Mr. McLean's unhesitating reply was: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I never hesitate to say so either." Mr. McLean continued: "I was afflicted with sciatica for a number of years. The most severe attack occurred several years ago, when I was confined to my bed for several months. I suffered horribly with the trouble, and the only relief I could get was from morphine, either in tablets or hypodermically injected. I could not put my left foot on the ground without undergoing intense agony. I was treated by physicians, and at the hospital in St. Catharines, to which institution I had been taken on a stretcher. I was in the hospital nearly three months, but without being cured. Then I returned home very much discouraged. I next tried electricity, but it had no perceptible effect. I also tried a number of advertised medicines, but with no better results.
Finally I was urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I was willing to try anything that seemed to offer hope of a cure, I got several boxes. I had been using the pills nearly a month before I found much relief, but from that on my recovery was rapid, and in the course of a few months, I was as well as ever I had been. I am now a strong, healthy man, and although I have since endured much exposure, I have had no return of the trouble, and feel that my cure is permanent. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills certainly proved a blessing in my case, and I shall praise them when opportunity offers."

Rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous headache, nervous prostration, and diseases depending upon humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc., all disappear before a fair treatment with Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills. They give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions.

Overwork

You know all about it. You are a perfect slave to your work. It's rush through the day and worry through the night. There's no time to eat and no time to sleep. The outlook is dark and forbidding.
You feel sure there is but one termination—nervous prostration. And nervous prostration is something you don't want, that's certain. Then don't have it. What you need is a perfect Sarsaparilla. So far as we can learn, there is but one in the world, and that's

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Write the doctor freely all the particulars in your case. You will receive a prompt reply. Address, Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

White Watery Pimples.

Five years ago my body broke out in white watery pimples, which grew so bad that the suffering was almost unbearable.

I took doctors' medicine and various remedies for two years but they were of little benefit, whenever I got warmed up or sweat the pimples would come out again.

A neighbor advised Burdock Blood Bitters, and I am glad I followed his advice, for four bottles completely cured me.

That was three years ago and there has never been a spot or pimple on me since.
