

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TELEGRAPH, ST. JOHN, N. B., MARCH 1, 1899.

The Largest Medical Practice in Canada.

For the past thirteen years Dr Sproule has been working up a practice in New England, which has now assumed such enormous proportions as to extend to every portion of the United States, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. How has Dr Sproule attracted such a large number of patients? By two means, first, his great natural ability; and, second, by honest dealing. The dactor never undertakes to treat a person without first, through an elaborate system of correspondence, satisfying himself that he can cure the case. Dr Sproule never takes any man's money unless he can do him good, and then the cured patients are so enthusiastic about the doctor's matchless skill that, as soon as they are well, they recommend their friends to try his treat ment, and so his enormous practice keeps steadily increasing.

One year ago Dr. Sproule determined Dear Mr Sproule:

keeps steadily increasing.January 30th, 1895.One year ago Dr. Spronle determined to allow Canadians to avail themselves of his services, and, to show them what he could do, went to Toronto and established an office at 93 Carleton street.
At first patients came slo wiy, but there got well so fast that they couldn't help telling their friends, and in three months Dr. Spronid's practice was the largest in Canada. As the doctor agreed, he remained six months in Toronto, and then went back to his headquarters at Boston, where, aided by a trained staff of assistants, he is now directing the largest medical practice in the world in Catarrh and Chronic Diseases.January 30th, 1895.If you are ailing, don't mind because you cannot visit the doctor personally; his system of treatment by correspondence places his unrivalled knowledge right at your service in your own home.
