

done, however, rather on the impulse of surprise at finding the fugitive drawn up to receive him in so singular a manner, than from any deliberate intention.

END OF VOL. II.