READING FOR THE FALL and WINTER

By special arrangement with a large firm of English publishers the HOME JOURNAL is enabled to make the following offer to its readers. Our aim is to interest them in extending our circulation and at the same time to provide the home and women's organizations with suitable, helpful reading for the coming winter season. We are practically giving away these books and at the same time making unusually liberal rates for clubs. Please get to work amongst your friends and provide your home or your society with a library free of charge. Below is our offer.
