Monday, after a perilous adventure, in which their coolness and courage are conspicuous. On Friday, the 3rd instant, they breakfasted between five and six o'clock on board their vessel lying on the Brown fishing bank, after which they set out in their dory or small boat to set trawls. While thus employed a dense fog set in, and the wind breezed up to quite a blow. Thus they lost sight of their vessel, and could not hear any noise which might be made to direct them to it. Night came on and they anchored the dory, resolved to remain it possible for the night, but as near as they can tell, the line by which the boat was moored parted about midnight, and they went adrift. They then resolved to make for land. Taking a north by east course, in which they were guided by a small pocket compass, and rowing till Sunday morning between four and five o'clock, they came to Seal Island, fifty miles from the Brown Bank. Here they wer kindly received and provided for by Mr. B. R. Hichens of whose bospitality they speak in the most heartfelt praise and of which they were much in need, not having eaten or drank anything since the Friday morning previous. Here they remained for the day, and on Monday morning left the Island for Yarmouth, rowing the distance, thirty miles in seven and a half hours. At Yarmouth they were looked after and very kindly offered any needed assistance. (From the Evening Express.) The London Globe says it is rumored in trustworthy circles that the negotiations between the British and American Governments with regard to the indirect claims, were suddenly broken off on Friday.

Earl Granville in the House of Lords and Mr. Gladstone in the Commons promised that a statement of the conditions of the negotiations would be made on Monday, whether the papers are received or not.

A prominent jeweler of New York was mur lered at his own residence Friday evening by a sneak thief.

Further reports from London, at New York 01 the 11th, indicate the failure of the Treaty of Washington, England refusing to proceed with arbitration unless claims for consequential damages are withdrawn, and United States in sisting upon the consideration. It is understood that the entire correspondence, will be ent to Congress, and that the President will take no further steps in the matter without Congressional action.
