swoop of their butter-making, washing and rolling, I fancy they would be intoxicated with joy.

A woman's club should be interested in getting a nurse for the rural districts, so that in the places where it is quite impossible to get help a woman won't be quite without assistance when her children are born or when there is other sickness in the home.

Where it is a constant struggle to keep the children interested in the school the mothers should see that the buildings are kept clean and attractive and that slides and swings and teeters are provided for the children to play on. I might add here that sufficient occupation for the children during their play hours is the best possible safeguard of their morality.

And last, but not least, I would like to suggest that a woman's club would not be living up to its privileges unless it gave some of its time to the study of public questions and of woman's relation to the state.

Rules of Business Procedure

When anyone makes a motion which someone does not exactly approve they may move an amendment to the motion. For example suppose that someone made a motion that the club meet every second week on Thursday afternoon and another woman wanted more frequent meetings, she could move an amendment to the effect that the club meet every Thursday afternoon. The amendment is put to the meeting before the motion. If it is carried it automatically kills the original motion. Should it be lost the original motion is re-read and put to a vote.

The chairwoman can greatly facilitate business by preventing the discussion from running off to irrelevant topics. When she thinks the subject has been pretty well threshed out she can say, "You have heard the motion, are you ready for the question?" If someone says "Question," and there is no dissenting voice, she may call for a vote of the meeting on the motion under discussion.

Another contingency that often arises is that after a person has made a motion it is often found that some slight change in it is advisable. The person who has made the motion may say, "I will incorporate that change in my motion with the consent of my seconder."

In the same way a motion is frequently withdrawn with the consent of the seconder. Asking the consent of the seconder is usually just a form but one that is pretty generally observed.

At the regular meeting of the Woman Grain Growers' organization the order of business would be as follows:

1. Reading the minutes of the last meeting.
2. Business arising out of the minutes.
3. Unfinished business.
4. Reports of committees (if any).
5. New business.
6. Program.
7. Refreshments.

TORTURE IN INDIA

With all its professions of concern, the Government of India is apparently unable to suppress the use of torture by its police. There have been, we believe, no fewer than fifty-seven known and discovered cases of torture to extract confession in the past five years, and in one year eight prisoners died under torture. The latest instance, the subject of questions on Wednesday, occurred at Poona, where four policemen were convicted of torturing three peasants to obtain a confession of robbery. Mr. Montagu's answer enumerated various steps which have been taken to suppress this primitive barbarity, but he had no assurance to offer that the one effective reform will be adopted. Confessions must be made inadmissible as evidence. Until this is done, there can be no security that a police, trained in these methods, will cease to practise them upon ignorant prisoners, who probably regard them almost as a normal item in their misfortunes. Here is an elementary and easily remediable cruelty whose removal comes even more directly within our Imperial duties than anything in the Putumayo region. The delay is hard to explain and impossible to defend.—The London Nation.

The public conscience is keener now than ever it has been.—Professor Clow.
