stomach's way of telling you that it can't or won't work.

NOW is the time to take FRUIT-A-TIVES.

These fruit tablets rest the stomach—bring out a copious flow of gastric juice at meal time—and make the stomach and intestines digest everything you eat.

You know that Fruit-a-tives are doing you good—because there is no more pain—no more sour stomach—no belching gas. Fruit-a-tives

Throughout All Time. The great unsolved problems of the universe will remain unsolved for millions of years in the opinion of Prof. Darwin, president of the British Asociation on Celestial Evolution. In an address at Johannesburg, on Aug. 31, on "Celestial Evolution" before the association, in session there, he said man had discovered many wonderful things, but declared that the undis-covered will remein throughout all time to humble his pride.

time to humble his pride.

After stating his opinion that the stellar system is the result of evolution, Prof. Darwin said that if at every moment since the birth of the moon moment since the offen of the trickle tidal friction always had been at work in such a way as to produce the great-est possible effect, we should find that 60,000,000 years would be consumed in this portion of evolutionary history. The true period must be much greater and it did not seem unreasonable to suppose that 1,000,000,000 years might have elapsed since the birth of the Such an estimate would not seem extravagant to geologists, Pure geology pointed to some period between 50,000,000 and 1,000,000,000 years. Thus they did not find anything which rendered the tidal theory of evolution untenable

Dealing with the different estimates of the physicists and the geologists, Prof. Darwin said that from a calcula-

Prof. Darwin said that from a calculation of the sun's total output of heat it seemed to be imperatively necessary that the whole history of the solar system should be comprised within some 20,000,000 of years. For the last forty years the physicists had been accustomed to tell the geologists that they must moderate their claims, but for himself he had always believed that the geologists always believed that the geologists were more nearly correct. And now, at length relief had come to the strained relations between the two parties, for the Fecent marvelous discoveries in physics showed that concentration of matter was not the only source from which the sun might draw its heat. Radium was a substance which was perhaps millions of times more powerful than dynamite. Thus it was estimated that an ounce of radium would contain enough power to raise 10,000 tons a mile above the earth's Passing on to the wider fields of the rassing on to the wider neighbor stellar universe, Prof. Darwin referred to the inconceivably vast multitude of stars and nebulae revealed by photography. A celestial photograph he said, looked at first like a dark sheet of paper splashed with white-wash, but further examination show-ed that there was method in the ar-rangement of the white spots.

Thus there was order of some sort in the heavens, and it was possible to obtain general ideas as to the succes-sion of events in stellar evolution. The conviction was forced on them that the wispy clouds represented the earliest stage of development, the more condensed nebulae a later stage, and the stars themselves the last stage. Change was obviously in progress everywhere.

In conclusion Prof. Darwin said:

"We have seen that it is possible to trace the solar system back to a primitive nebula with some degree of confidence, and that there is reason to believe that the stars in general have originated in the same manner. But such primitive nebulae stand in as much need of explanation as their much need of explanation as their stellar offspring. Thus, even if we grant the exact truth of these theories, the advance towards an explanation of the universe remains miserably slight. "Man is but a microscopic being relatively to astronomical space, and he lives on a puny planet circling round a star of inferior rank. Does it not, then, seem as futile to imagine that he can discover the origin and tendency of the universe as to expect Water Cure For Rheumatism.

"If people afflicted with rheumatism would only try a simple remedy right at hand instead of scurrying all over the country for a oure they would get well a good sight quicker," said a man who was once so knotted up with rheumatism that he had to use crutches. "Just let them drink water, quarts of it. That's what did the business for me. I drink about three quarts of water a day—not ice water, but just ordinary cold water as it comes from the faucet. I drink two glasses when I get up in the morning two when I go to bed and I drink it all day, I have a big pitcher of it put on my desk, and whenever I look up from my work for a minute's rest I drink a glass of water. No mineral water, no charged water, no 'health water' for me, but just plain, good old fashioned water. To be sure, the salt water baths at the shore did me a little good, but the damp days at the shore took all the good away. Now I take fresh water baths internally and spend my summers where it is high and dry."

Government Whitewash.

The following recipe for whitewashing, sent out by the lighthouse board of the treasury department of the United States, has been found by experience to answer on wood, brick and stone nearly as well as oil paint, and is much cheaper: Slack half a bushel of unslacked lime with boiling water, keeping it covered during the process. Strain it and add a peck of sait dissolved in warm water, three pounds of ground rice put into boiling water and boiled to a thin paste, half a pound of Spanish whiting and a pound of clear glue dissolved in warm water. Mix these well together and let the mixture stand for several days. Keep the wash thus prepared in a ket tie or portable furnace, and when used put if on as hot as possible with painters' or waitewash brushes.

that he can discover the origin and tendency of the universe as to expect a housefly to instruct us as to the theory of the motions of the planets? And yet, so long as he shall last, he will pursue his search, and will no doubt discover many wonderful things which are still hidden. We may indeed be amazed at all that man has been able to find out, but the immeasurable magnitude of the undiscovered will, throughout all time, remain to humble his pride. BABY COVERED

Ears Looked as if They Would Drop Off - Body Entirely Covered with Sores - Three Doctors Could Not Cure - Child Grew Worse.

CURED BY CUTICURA IN TWO WEEKS

Mrs. George J. Steese, of 701 Coburn St., Akron, Ohio, tells in the following letter of another of those remarkable cures of torturing, disfiguring skin humours daily made by Cuticura, after physicians and all else had failed: "I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering babies to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. A humour broke out all over her body, and we used everything recommended, but without results. Three doctors all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, her little face was being caten away, and her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbours advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of thecake of Cuticura Soap and the box of Cuticura Ointment, the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a new-born babe's. I would not be without it again if it cost a fortune instead of the small sum it did cost us to cure our baby, after spending much money on doctors and medicines without any our baby, after spending much money on doctors and medicines without any benefit whatever."

NO ONE A DRUDGE. All Were Willing to Share In the

We often recall with pleasure the memory of a mother we once knew. She was the wonder of her friends, and time has only increased our admiration of her. When we first met this woman she was the mother of six children and in the course of time four more were added to the group. With ten children to feed, clothe and educate on an iucome that admitted or outside help only on rare occasions one might naturally expect to see a thin, irritable and overworked woman. On the contrary, she was wholesome and rosy cheeked, invariably cheerful, happy and ready to enter into any practicable friends or her family.

With her the end of life was the satisfaction of those about her. Furniture, house, meals, everything was car trived for the comfort of home his Did the father wish to bring home an acquaintance or a child wish a com-panion to stay to dinner, each knew hits wishes would be considered. Company meant simply another plate, kuite and fork and sitting a little closer. Was a house desired for a church sociable o a committee meeting Mrs. S.'s house was always available, and on short no tice. Nor was her hospitality accepted merely as a last resort, but because it was known that here a hearty and sincere welcome would be extended to each and all, irrespective of age or calling.

scheme that promised diversion for he

To be sure, the family name carried prestige, which did much to atone for well worn, even shabby furnishings but, unaccompanied by intrinsic worth of some kind, ancestry is of little

Good health and a cheerful disposi tion were the inheritances of each child of the family, and the happy, contented babies grew up to look out for them-selves and each other. No one was a drudge. All were willing to share in the routine of housework, and friction was reduced to the minimum. One greater advantage this family possessed—they did not live in a city or large town, but in a village, on a small plot of land whose resources were a never failing storehouse for table supplies, and this brings us to the central thought of our chat.

Living in a city or large town with no resource for supplies, as a berry patch, garden, fruit free or hennery, one can scarcely realize with what a small allowance of money a family in the country may be fed. Eliminate the friction caused by trying to make one dollar do the work of five in feeding a family, while all the time feeling that even that dollar ought to be spent for shoes and stockings instead of food and life for many a woman would take on a brighter aspect. The tension or nerves and health would be withdrawn and happiness begin to reign at once Let a woman with a family of children live for one season in the real country where there are pasturage for a cowfuel for the gathering and fruit of al kinds for the picking, and she will exclaim again and again, "Why do not more people come to the country to live?"—Janet M. Hill in Boston Cooking School Magazine.

The Correct Bride's Cake.

The London Sun is credited with the following: "The correct bride's cake from new on will be a simple loaf, piced and fruited, iced and wreathed a natural orange blossoms, and only large enough to exactly supply the bridal party. Of course, the ring, spoon and thimble will be baked into the loaf, and the center of the table will be still occupied by the gorgeous plaster and nougat edifice, meant for ornamentation, not for food. Then for guests at the reception the confiseur ends tiny bridal loaves. Every one miniature cake in itself, appropriately spiced, cut square, in a circle or beart form, iced, wreathed with artifi-cial orange blossoms and bearing in high sugar relief the couple's initials in the center. Every one of these toy cakes is to fit, at a costly wedding, in a box of watered white silk, having a hinged top and fastened with white wax, stamped with the bride's seal."

A Converient Device. A ruppy pen has proved a great com-fort to me in the rearing of our fox terrier. This pen consists of a light galvanized iron tray with a rim turned up all around two or two and one-half nches, and a light frame made of two inch laths, either rough or smooth nailed to a corner cleat, as shown in the elevation and section. The frame should be a trifle larger than the outside rim of the tray, so as to slip over it easily. With a little box half full of excelsior for the puppy to sleep in the excelsior for the puppy to sleep in the outfit is complete. It can be moved to any part of the house, inside or out. The pen can be lifted off and the tray washed out with the hose and dried in the sun. At times we put the puppy on the grass without the tray, but the pen keeps him from getting away. says a Good Housekeeping correspond-

Ogilvies' Reputation goes into every barrel of Royal Household Flour

If Royal Household Flour were not as good as Ogilvies say it is, who would be the greatest loser?

You would try it once—if it were not good you would be a small loser, perhaps.

But Ogilvies would probably lose your custom.

They would also lose the custom of every other woman who tried it and of thousands who had never tried it but had been told that it was not as represented.

Therefore Ogilvies must make Royal Household Flour the best flour because they stake their reputation upon it, and if you and thousands of others found it was not the best, Ogilvies would ruin their business.

So Ogilvies make Royal Household Flour the best flour, in their own protection. Incidentally that is your strongest protection it guarantees you the best flour because the brand carries with it Ogilvie's Reputation.

Ogilvies simply ask a trial-knowing that it will make a permanent friend for Royal Household Flour.
