Asthma. "I have been a great sufferer from Asthma and severe Colds every Winter, and last Fall my friends as well as myself thought because of my feeble condition, and great distress from constant coughing, and inability to raise any of the accumulated matter from my lungs, that my time was close at hand. When nearly worn out for want of sleep and rest, a friend recommended me to try thy valuable medicine, Boschee's German Syrup. I am confident it saved my life. Almost the first dose gave me great relief and a gentle refreshing sleep, such as I had not had for weeks. My cough began immediately to loosen and pass away, and I found myself rapidly gaining in health and weight. GENERAL NEWS.

—The famine in Russia will soon be over. The crops this year promise to be great.

—In olden times every part of the body had its price, the beard was valued at 20s.—a large sum for the time—while the loss of a leg as only estimated at 12s.

—A curious feat has been noted in Ireland from the recent census. While the number of Christians, including all denominations, has decreased during the past ten years, the number of Jews has increased 281 per cent.

—Nearly 500,000 pansies will bloom in the parks and squares of New York within the next few days. It takes 155 employees of the Park department some time to set them out and then 5,000 more English daisies will be planted.

—The enormous steel trusses to sustain the roof of the manufacturers' building in Chicago are the largest ever made for architectural purposes. They span 368 feet and rise to a height of 211 feet.

—The cottage in which George Fox, the founder of the Society of Friends or Quakers, was born in Leicestshire, England, is being taken down to be rerected in Chicago. The World's Fair Committee endeavoured to buy the cottage in which Shakespeare was born and ship it across the Atlantic, but the town of Stratford bought it up to prevent its removal.

—As an instance showing the "ruling passion strong in jail," it is mentioned that a man who was committed on a charge of burglary and larceny was released from the Paris jail on bail, the other day, and after he had gone the jailer found that he had wound a blanket around his body under his clothing and worn it away.

—A traveler a few days ago while dining at a hotel in a Piscataquis town, was surprised at the rattle of a telegraph instrument in one corner of the room. Instantly the waiter girl dropped her dishes and seating herself at the instrument began to receive a message by sound with equal readiness. It appeared that this was the village telegraph office, and she its manager.

—Bonsplendent writes: "A syndicate has purchased the renowned Texas steer "Evader" and he is now being handled to the sulky, and shows very fast clip. While on range there was not a horse could turn him, while the steer trotted as natural a gait as any trained horse. The proprietors are arranging dates for exhibitions and are going east this autumn to attend the Industrial and Provincial fairs. They are open to match "Evader" against any horse that has not won public money.

AN ENTERPRISING HOTEL MAN.—It is stated that a hotel man in Toronto has posted up a notice stating that all diners at his place who use Burdock Blood Bitters to tone up their oppetite and strength, will be charged 50 per cent. extra. We do not know how true this is, but B. B. B. undoubtly does the work and does it quickly and well.

—SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Constipation, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. For sale by A. Dixon, Sackville, and Fairweather, Dorchester.

—A nasal injector free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. A. Dixon, Sackville; Fair weather, Dorchester.

Figures on Babies.

Interesting Statistics on the Lord and Mistress of Creation.

A baby is born at every beat of the human heart. That is more than one for every tick of the clock. These "living jewels" (as the poet calls babies) "dropped unstained from heaven" take wings and fly back from whence they came one for every minute of the day. From January 1 to December 31 between 38,000,000 and 40,000,000 living jewels are dropped into this cold world There are more baby girls than boy babies. The proportion of female births to male births is as 100 to 90. So that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 more girls are born in the world each year than boys. There is always a surplus of women, and the extra number of girl babies keeps up the supply.

The rate of infant mortality is enormous. In round numbers 5,000,000 babies never live long enough to talk, 5,000,000 more never have a chance to walk or run, and 5,000,000 more never get old enough to go to school. If you are good at figures get out your paper and pencil and try this sum. Here is a simple problem in arithmetic: A baby is born to-day (1892). Now suppose its ancestors had married at the age of 21 from the time of our Lord—fifty-six generations—how many grandfathers has that baby had? The answer in round numbers, will be three figures followed by fifteen ciphers. Professor Proctor one time figured that if from a single pair each husband and wife had married at the age of 21 for 5,000 years the population of the earth, if there had been no deaths, would now be 2,199,915 followed by 144 ciphers.

Suppose that each baby born this year weighed eight pounds; look at the combined weight! It would take half a dozen cradles of the size, capacity and strength of our new steel war cruiser to hold the infants. When twins arrived in Artemus Ward's family somebody called it an episode. "Yes,' said Artemus, "two episodes waying about eighteen pounds jintly," In the foregoing baby figures we have allowed for episodes.

Courting Across a Fence.

For forty years Caleb Binkley and Maria Sutton had lived neighbors in a double house on a pleasant street of a little old New England village. They had grown up together there, and they had seen all the members of their families carried to the graveyard on the hill, leaving them alone in their houses. For ten years they had lived thus, and their days went by peacefully and happily.

One morning in May, Caleb was in the garden back of his house, prodding away with his hoe, and Maria was in hers, fixing a flower bed.

"It's a fine morning, Maria," called Caleb, across the fence.

"Beautiful,' said Maria.

"Seems ez ef the sun was shinin' jest for our benefit, don't it?" remarked Caleb, dragging a tangled weed from his hoe handle.

"Yes, Caleb. I guess it shines down on my side about like it does on yours." Caleb looked up at the blue sky for a moment, and then walked over to the fence.

"I say, Maria," he said, "I've been thinkin' about taking down this fence. Your pa and mine put it up here thirty years ago, but 'twan't never much use. What do you say to takin' it down?"

"Might ez well ez not, I guess, Caleb" assented Maria, without changing her position.

A minute or so later, Caleb, with an ax in his hand was back again.

"Maria," he said, "I guess if a thing hez got to be done, it might oz well be done right off, hadn't it?"

"I guess it might, Caleb."

Maria went on with her digging while Caleb hewed and chopped at the wooden fence, and at last the work was done.

"It'll make good firewood, Maria," he said as he surveyed the wreck, "and if you'll tell me where you want your half put I'll put it up for you handy."

"It looks summat strange not to see a devidin' line between us, don't it Caleb? she remarked as she stood up and looked across both gardens.

"I was noticin' that myself, Maria," he said quietly.

"'Twant no use, was it?" she enquired doubtfully gazing at the fence prone on the earth.

"Never was," he answered. then he came nearer. "Ain't much more use in two people livin' in two houses either, is there, Maria?" he said

"None that I can see, Caleb," she replied, with a faint glow of color in her cheeks and neck.

Caleb seemed to be trying to swallow something that would not go down. He attempted to speak and failed, and then he tried to go to her and that was an ignominious failure also. At last he made a successful effort at speech.

"Maria," he said pulling himself up straight, "where do you want your half of the old fence piled ?"

"Caleb," she almost whispered, as she came and laid her hand on his arm, "pile it up with yours."

And that was their courtship.

WOMEN'S COLUMN.

Conducted by the Ladies of the Sackville W. C. T. U.

Key-notes to Better Lives.

BY H. B. K.

The seventeenth annual meeting, on March 17, of the Chicago Central W. C. T. U., made a wonderful demonstration of its mighty works through the reports of its superintendents of departments. This union carries on the Hope and Anchorage Missions and gospel meetings.

Mrs. J. B. Hobbs' report of police matron work stated that for 1891, at the twenty-three stations in Chicago in which police matrons are employed day and night, there were 12,046 women and 523 chilcren arrested; 8,247 women were rearched; 1,413 lost children were cared for; 808 women and children restored to their homes; 306 destitute children provided for in stations; 124 children sent to Orphan Asylums, Home and Industrial Schools; 389 women sent to reclaiming institutions; 78 to the poorhouse, and 131 to the hospital.

The present chief of police has appointed an advisory board, consisting of women members from the various philanthropic organizations of the city, whose duty it is to recommend and examine candidates, to recommend changes for the comfort and convenience of prisoners at the stations, and to have a general oversight of the matrons' work. This board has appointed a women agent who visits the stations, courts, confers with matrons and offiers concering special cases, sees that the needy and unfortunate are provided for and especially takes charge of the young girls who fall into the stations.

The Anchorage mission, as reported by Miss Alice Bond, superintendent, has admitted during the past year four hundred different girls. including a number of really friendless and virtuous, many in the first stages of a downward course who are saved before going lower. Three thousand free lodgings with food were given. Three hundred women and girls have found employment as domestics, seamstresses, in laundries and other such matters. During the year forty young mothers with their babies have been taken in. There is no other place in all this great Sodom where these girl-mothers can go when they leave the hospitals with their weakness, their new care and their shame. Many letters come from girls who have gone out from this shelter to battle with temptations. Miss Bond says: "They contain such expressions as these: 'Thank you all so much for what you have done for me. 'Please write to me; your letters do me so much good.' What would I have done without that home!'—and better still, 'I have found Jesus at the mission." Nearly every girl in going out from the home asks to be remembered in our morning and evening prayers."

The girls come into the Anchorage from the streets, police-stations, hospitals, infirmaries and houses of ill-fame, many having been entrapped into the by advertizements offering large wages for domestic service. One who was taken in on the verge of suicide is now running a small fruit farm, has a brother with her and is saving money to send for another brother. She has taken a homeless young mother and baby out to her farm—for she says: "My heart goes out in great longing to help other sorrowful lives. Another is managing a laundry, and has a bank account, and is saving money to buy a little home. The following was written, as she signs herself, "by one who has enjoyed its shelter and felt its influence:"

THE ANCHORAGE.

'Anchorage,' beautiful name to me,
No place on earth more dear can be,
We enter it, burdened, tempest tossed,
With even hopes of heaven lost.

We are told of an anchor sure, strong,
Which to every one may by faith belong,
An anchor by which, on the drifting tide,
We may safely reach the other side.

The soul's true anchor is, 'Jesus died,
By which stern justice is satisfied.
Both 'sure and steadfast,' so just the thing,
To which erring humanity may cling.

Oh blessed anchor! The heart's true rest,
May the 'Anchorage' by thee be blest,
Where so many souls have been led to see,
There is hope for them in their misery.

And when the storms of life shall cease,
And in dying, Jesus shall whisper 'peace,'
All pleasant days at the 'Anchorage' past,
May each frail bark reach the port at last.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints after having tested its wonderful curative power in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering I will send free of charge, to all who desire, it this receipe, in German French or English, with directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail addressing with stamp, naming this paper W. NOYES, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

—Farmers who allow all the weeds on their plantations to go to seed have little idea, many of them, of the labor and trouble they are storing up for themselves. Some curious experimentalist has been at the trouble of counting the seeds produced by a single plant of some of the commonest varieties of weeds with the following rather startling results: Wild carrot, 1,200; dandelion, 1,500; chickweed, 2,000; cockle, 3,200; campsion, 3,425; chess, 4,500; dock, 3,700; ragweed, 4,372; groundsel, 6,500; ox eye daisy, 9,600; mallow, 16,500; mother wort, 18,000, fox tail, 19,500; sow thistle, 19,000; mustard, 31,000; Canadian thistle, 42 000; red poppy, 50,000; burdock, 400,328; purslane, 500,000; lambs' quarters, 825,000. — New Orleans Picayune.

—The qualcity of eggs.— There is difference in eggs apart from their size to make some more valuable than others Much depends upon the food the hen gets from which the egg is to be made. Many people think it makes no difference what hens eat, that if they like it and it contains the elements of the egg it will be all right. Yet their own experience tells them that eggs produced from grain-fed hens in winter and early spring are of better quality than they are later, even when in both cases the eggs are entirely fresh. After fowls begin to find worms, insects and other trash in the spring their eggs rapidly deteriorate. Whatever meat they have should be fresh. The hen is not particular at all about this, nor about the cleanliness of the water she drinks. But her owner, knowing that this tainted food goes into the egg, may be expected to show more squeamishness than the hen, unless, indeed, he is willing to admit that he knows no more than she.

Turkey Raising.

An experienced turkey grower gives the following explicit instructions regarding turkey raising: —

Let no novice in this business suppose he can succeed without great care and prudence. Young turkeys are the most tender of all young fowls and need the most care. This care commences with a good selection of [illegible] for breeders. Early in spring they will manifest some indications of commencing work; and then the farmer will see that they are mated with the best specimens of the other sex. If the hens are kept tame, as they easily can be, they will be likely to select their nests in your barn or shed, a good place for them to lay and sit secure from skunks and foxes. Setting a turkey has much to do with success in hatching. Let the nest be made on an even surface, and hard enough to bring the eggs directly to the warm body of the hen. If the nest is too soft and deep, the eggs will settle down in the centre, and will become addled in a short time On top of an even surface a quantity of fine mould may be added, and on top of this fine straw, chaff or sawdust may be added, and the nest is complete, if there is no danger of eggs rolling out of the nest Turkeys will drink occasionally during incubation, but usually decline much food, and consequently come out of hatching time rather poor, and then need hearty food.

Catarrh and Neuralgia

Good authority has said that "neuralgia is the cry of the nerves for pure blood." The prompt action of Hood's Sarsaparilla on the blood, combined with its toning and strengthening effect upon the nerves, make this a grand medicine for neuralgia and also for catarrh, etc. We commend this letter to all having such troubles, and especially to

Suffering Women

"For a good many years I have been suffering from catarrh, neuralgia and

General Debility

I failed to obtain permanent relief from medical advice, and my friends feared I would never find anything to cure me. A short time ago I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. At that time I was unable to walk even a short distance without feeling a overtake me. And I had intense pains from neuralgia in my head, back and limbs, which were very exhausting. But I am glad to say that soon after I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I saw that it was doing me good. When I took 3 bottles I was entirely

Cured of Neuralgia

I gained in strength rapidly, and can take a two-mile walk without feeling tired. I do not suffer nearly so much from catarrh, and find that as my strength increases the catarrh decreases. I am indeed a changed woman, and am very grateful to for what it has done for me. It is my wish that this my testimonial shall be published in order that others suffering as I was may learn how to be benefited." MRS. M. E. MERRICK, 57 Elm Street, Toronto, Ont.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
