DULEY'S for Christmas Gifts.

T. J. DULEY & CO., The Reliable Jewellers.

The Gulf Stream and Its Influence on Europe.

This present season, especially the past month of November, has been remarkably mild, not only in Newfoundland but also on Labrador. There has also been a marked absence of ice. I have always maintained that our climate is greatly influenced by the Gulf Stream. Anyone who observed the weather in November would be greatly struck with the continuance day after day of southerly winds. The general idea about this great ocean current of warm water is that it strikes off east a long way south of our island. We have, however, outside proof that it approaches much nearer to our shores. We see this often in the dead of winter when there comes a southerly wind and we feel a warm blast, almost like summer, evidently from the Gulf Stream. Let my readers should think that this is all absurd and the offspring of my senile imagination, I enclose the following extract from the London Times of 2nd Dec. 1910:—

SEVERE WINTER PREDICTED. Dr. H. Habenicht, a member of the staff of Perth's great geographical establishment at Gotha, has for several years endeavoured to make a forecast of the winter weather, largely from observations on the Gulf Stream and the movements of the ice in the Arctic and southwards. This year he ventures to forecast a hard winter. From the uniform distribution of temperature in the Gulf Stream, a result of the scarcity of ice this year round Newfoundland, and from the extraordinary large masses of drift ice during the summer between North Cape and Spitzbergen, he concludes that there will be unusually hard and continuous cold during the coming winter in Europe.

The want of temperature variations in the Gulf Stream leaves little room for low North Atlantic minima, and the ice masses around the North Cape favour the extension of the Siberian high pressure and cold region westwards. In Central Europe hard winters often set in about the end of November or the beginning of December, after a new or full moon, with considerable precipitation, followed immediately by east winds and cold weather. Should the coming winter not be considerably colder than the average of many years, Dr. Habenicht would regard this as a sign that he had over-estimated the influence of the drift ice and temperature changes in the North Atlantic Ocean on European climate, and that hitherto his forecasts have been the result of chance. Should this turn out to be the case, he states he would definitely give up his communications concerning ice and weather, since they would possess no recognizable practical value.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its Forms can be Cured. It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything, I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing." I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on a sense of suffocation and difficulty of again going to sleep. I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on a sense of suffocation and difficulty of again going to sleep. I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing.

A BUSY DAY.—Yesterday the cash receipts at the Water Street stores were the highest since October. The grocery stores up town did a thriving business.

ONLY ONE ARREST.—Only one prisoner was held at the lockup last night. He was there for drunkenness.

"Christmas Chimes."

This excellent Christmas Number, published by Barnes & Co., is being sold on the street to-day and is meeting with a ready sale. The contributions are well worth reading, being all original and from local writers. Mr. Murray Anderson has a racy story called "A Bohemian in the Making." Mr. P. K. Devine relates the story of the "Cardinal's Umbrella, and others." Mr. John Roper, of Bonavista, gives the "Dokiance of Porter's Gulch," which is a most interesting and well written description; Mr. H. Shortis is at his best in an article on the "Tourist Traffic." There are poems from Miss Carbery, Mr. McDonald and Miss Lillian Shortis. Mr. H. W. LeMessurier gives an account of the great fires of St. John's. The Chimes is well printed and illustrated.

Sale of Work.

The annual sale of the Ladies' Missionary Society was opened in the church Hall at 3 p.m. yesterday. The hall was decorated with evergreens, etc., and dainties suitable for the Christmas season filled the stalls. The sales were kept busy selling goods and the receipts were nearly double those of last year. A concert was given at 8 o'clock, which was greatly enjoyed. Amongst those who took part in the programme were A. Hall, Miss Anderson, Misses Strang (2), Miss Herder and W. Steele. A party supper was afterwards served by the ladies which was well patronized. Great credit is due to the ladies in charge of the arrangements for the success achieved.

Coasting Down Streets

On Casey's Street, Barter's Hill, Carter's Hill, Patrick and other streets of the West End boys and girls indulged in coasting to their hearts' content last night. They kept it the pastime until a late hour and citizens had to be careful in passing lest they be seriously hurt. This practice is a great danger on the city streets, especially to old people who can't get out of reach of the coasters quickly, and the police intend to put a stop to it.

Marine Notes.

The barque Cordelia, now loading at Bowring Bros., will finish tomorrow and will likely sail for Brazil Saturday.

The Numidian sailed for Philadelphia at 6 p.m. yesterday. The Bonavista left here this morning for Sydney. She will run during the rest of the winter between Prince Edward Island and points in Nova Scotia.

King Henry's Tomb.

The supposed tomb of King Henry VI. (murdered in the Tower of London, 1471) has just been opened in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and portions of a skeleton were found. The bones were in a box a few feet beneath the pavement under an arch on the south side of the altar. They were apparently the bones of a man. After examination by a doctor and several authorities, including the Provost of Eton (which was founded by Henry VI.) and the Provost of King's College, Cambridge, and castle officials, the skeleton was reinterred two days later in the presence of clergy and the vault closed. It is understood that a report is to be made to the King. "Tighe and Davis, in their work 'Annals of Windsor,' state:—'In 1484 Richard III. caused the body of Henry VI. to be removed from Chertsey Abbey and to be buried at Windsor, where it was solemnly reinterred on August 12th, in St. George's Chapel, under the uppermost arch on the south side of the altar.'

Visitors who recently called on Mr. Stead, at his London offices, found him wearing prison garb. This is his custom on the anniversary of his imprisonment in connection with the agitation for the Criminal Law Amendment Act.

Twitching of the Nerves

Wonderful cure brought about by DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD. It is only by watching the symptoms of nervous exhaustion and applying restorative treatment that you can ever hope to ward off locomotor ataxia and paralysis. Mrs. E. J. Vanderburgh, of Eastern Welland Ave., St. Catherine's, Ont., states:—"For twenty-one years I was badly afflicted with heart trouble, nervousness and cramps in the limbs, also twitching of the nerves and nervous headaches. I became weak, debilitated and emaciated. My condition was distressing and I was made worse through worry and loss of sleep. 'I tried a hundred remedies in vain. After having used half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my old trouble had entirely vanished, and I was enjoying better health than I had since girlhood.'

Such cases as this prove the wonderful efficiency of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It cures in Nature's way by enriching the blood and for this reason enriching the blood and its benefits are lasting. 50 cts. a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Smuggling Girls From China to U.S.

Their Experience Rivals the Tales of Brutality in the African Slave Trade. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 7.—Seven Chinese girls, captured on Sunday when an attempt was being made to smuggle them ashore from the steamer Manchuria, told a story yesterday that for brutality concedes nothing to the workings of the earlier African slave trade. Immigration officials say there is no doubt that the girls were being brought here to be sold into the slave trade. Their ages are from 14 to 19. All but one of them declare that they were kidnapped in Hong Kong. This one had previously been in America and had been deported. Eight Chinese men were also in the room with the women. The narrative was obtained from the girls by Chief Assistant Immigration Commissioner Harry Edsell, who spoke to them in their own tongue. They said they had made the journey from China in a locker 14 feet square below deck, a place without ventilation. Not a ray of light, natural or artificial, did they see till the end of the voyage. Their only food and drink was some dried fruit and cold tea which had been left for them before the departure of the steamer. Mr. Edsell says a thorough investigation is to be made of the operations of the smuggling ring that is supposed to be at work.

Rescue of a Courier.

Rainy River, Ont., Nov. 30.—J. A. Hyer, mail carrier on the United States side, went through the ice with half a ton of mail on a dog-sled, and when he tried to get out, the ice kept continually breaking. A 15-year-old girl, Lizzie Alloway, heard his cries and ran down the bank to his rescue. She lay full length on the thin ice and caught him by the collar, but this only kept him from going down. He was unable to get out and she hung on for about 20 minutes. The water came up around her over the ice and he called to her to let him go, or they would both be drowned. She still held him, however, and three men came to the rescue and dragged the girl over the ice, pulling Hyer out too. He was almost unconscious. The mail, including a sack of registered letters, went to the bottom.
