By 'Plane to the Pole.

J. L. Cope, F.R.C.S., who is Commanding The British Imperial Expedition Talks About His Coming Great Adventure.

So many people are under the impression that when Scott discovered the South Pole in 1912, it was the last and final all of Antarctic exploration. On the contrary, it was only the beginning.

I accompanied Shackleton on his last polar expedition, and it occurred to me then what great possibilities of exploration the Great Snow continent offered. A lightning dash to the Pole is far from exhausting the secrets of the Antarctic. Columbus wasn't content with just finding America, was he?

The present expedition is due to start next June, and will last five years. We are securing Scott's famous vessel, the Terra Nova, which we are going to fit with oil engines and improve by the addition of another deck. When she is ready our intention is to cruise her from the Thames down to Cowes, calling on the various seaside resorts en route, to provide a spectacle for the holiday makers ere we depart. The expedition will cost at least £100,000, of which the vessel and its fittings will run away with £45,000.

2,000 Want to Come With Me.

Our personnel will consist of fifty-one, and every man will have his own particular qualification. We are taking our full quota of scientists—geologists, meteorologists and the like. I might say that since the scheme has been announced no less than 2,000 applications have drifted in.

There were three from women—which were politely declined—and several from young adventurers, one only sixteen and a half, who saw in this a chance of seeing life.

However, enthusiasm without skill is not much use to the expedition. Among the crew we shall probably take some ex-R.A.F. men.

Several well-known firms have been kind enough to present us with stores. In this way we have been recipients of 50,000 cigarettes, three gramophones, each with a hundred records, and large supplies of whisky, beef extract, custard powder, and so on. Of course, five years' stores will accompany the expedition. A large portion of this will be canned stuffs. When in the polar region we shall eat seals, penguins and fish. I am often asked what penguin tastes like. It is not "fishy," as many people suppose, but has a flavour very much like beef steak.

What We're Going to Do.

Our plan is to set out from Wellington, New Zealand, in October next, establish our bases in the Antarctic continent, and start our investigations. There is much to be found out. We have reason to believe that valuable mineral deposits are likely to be discovered. Manganese, coal, marble, granite and rubies have already been unearthed in these regions. Another feature is to gather information for the improvement and enlargement of the whaling industry.

Perhaps the greatest effect of a successful expedition would be the establishment of a great observatory on the Antarctic continent. Do you know it will be possible from observations made to give accurate forecasts of the weather for all countries of the Southern hemisphere?

Once a station is set up and maintained, scientists will be in a position to give the most valuable information to agriculturists with regard to impending weather.

The great novelty in next year's expedition is that we are going to fly to the Pole, but I have not yet decided what type of machine to employ, although several firms have offered to supply one.

All flying will be done in December, that being the lightest and warmest month. The distance to be flown is 11,500 miles.

PYORRHEA.

Of all the poisons taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by diseased gums (Pyorrhoea) are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and it allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.
