

CURE SICK HEAD

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in constipation, curing and preventing the annoying complaint, while they also cure all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured one of these ailments, they would be worth taking. But after all, sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills taken after meals, or at bedtime, will cure the headache, and they are strictly vegetable and do not grip or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sent by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

A MEMORY.

A pale young face; dark, soft and earnest eyes; flow often on my memory they arise; And silky curls of brown and shining hair; A brow, so like my mother's smooth and fair; A springing step, a tall and agile form; And a young heart, most generous, brave and warm!

O can they all have passed from earth away? I cannot be! I yet will watch and wait; For thy return, and though thou comest late, I shall know thee, for when I go, Thy kindly eye, its shining tresses flow, Its lightsome tread, its gentle and free, Fresh on thy sister's memory painted these.

And when I hear the stirring gush of song Poured from young voices the still air I long, I think of thy dear face whose smile was true, Was the true echo of our mother's own; And when I see, as upon the night, When for the last, last time I fell on my sight, My Herbert's face and form, when gushing tears

Spoke of the pain that flies not with the years— When in the twilight of that dim old store We said, "Good-bye!"— I have not forgot.

COLONEL QUARITCH, V.C.

These qualities toward him were indeed so much more plainly developed than they had been before, that last, a conviction which he had at first rejected as incredible, forced itself into his mind. That conviction was, that Belle must have disbelieved his denial of the engagement, and in her eagerness for revenge have told the whole story. The thought made him feel like a traitor, but there was no one to tell him, and he was to face it out. Once when the Squire's back was turned he ventured to tempt some little tenderness in which the word "dear" occurred, but Ida did not seem to hear it, and looked straight over his head trying to find the whole of the matter.

Indeed, that at 9:30 he arose and came away, saying that he had some bank papers which must be attended to that night.

Now most men would have been content with the little tenderness in which the word "dear" occurred, but Ida did not seem to hear it, and looked straight over his head trying to find the whole of the matter.

ette dropped from his hand, and the carpet, where it lay, smoldered. And no wonder, for the letter was a copy of Belle's most passionate epistle to him. He had never been able to restrain from writing these compromising letters. Indeed, this time, Mr. Quest had written from the pocket of his lounge in the room in London.

He read on for a little while, and then put the letter down upon the table. There was no need for him to go on, as all in the same strain.

"You will observe, Mr. Quest," that this is a copy," said Mr. Quest, "if you like you can inspect the original."

"Now," went on Mr. Quest, handing him a second paper, "here is a copy of another letter."

Edward glanced at it. It was an intercepted letter of his own, sent about a year before, and its contents though not of a sufficiently incriminating character.

He put it down upon the table by the side of the first, and waited. Mr. Quest said, "I have other evidence," said a visitor, "presently, but you are probably sufficient."

These letters alone are almost enough for my purpose, which is to convince a suit for divorce against my wife, in which you are the plaintiff, and I am the defendant."

Edward Cossey turned his back to his tormentor, and, resting his head on his hand, tried to think.

"Mr. Quest," he said presently in a voice, "without admitting anything, there are reasons which would make it impossible for me if such an action were commenced against me."

"Yes," he answered, "there are, in the first place, there is no knowing what your father would take of the matter, and how his view would affect your future."

"And, in the second, your engagement to Miss de la Mole, upon which your reputation is so strongly set, would certainly be broken off."

"How do you know that I am engaged?" "It does not matter how I know it," said the lawyer, "I do know it, so it will be less for you to deny it. As you are engaged, and therefore it is, as you will understand, a good moment for a man to want his revenge to choose to bring it."

"Without admitting anything," answered Edward Cossey, "I wish to ask you a question. Is there any way out of this? Suppose I have done you a wrong, wrong action, of compensation."

"Yes," he does, Mr. Cossey, and I have thought of that. Everybody has his private world, and I have mine; but the compensation for such a wrong must be a heavy one."

"At what price will you agree to stay the action forever?" "The price that I will take to stay the action is the transfer into my name of the mortgages you hold over the Honham Castle estates," answered Mr. Quest, quietly. (To be continued.)

FUN, FACTS AND FICTION

A Judicious Compound of Wit and Wisdom.

"Now, then," inquired a Canadian paper, "what is a crank?" Why, the other fellow, of course.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Little Liver Pills, she will make her husband feel like a different person. At least so they say, and their husbands say so, too.

A man in Spokane Falls the other day dropped dead while he was writing a letter to his wife, telling her that he was well, all of which includes the moral that it is not always safe to tell one's wife everything.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confused with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills, as they are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

No Inducement to Steal.—Blodes (indignant)—I'd like to see the man who would steal my reputation! Bampsey (quietly)—Yes, I guess it is perfectly safe.

"Hair Magic"—Is a great name of Dr. Dorewond's German preparation for the hair. It really works like magic. All who have used it pronounce it to be unequalled for remedying the loss of hair, itching of the scalp, dandruff, etc. Just try it. It is first-class. All druggists sell it.

"John was a great smoker when he was alive," said the widow, who was in a pensive mood. "And," she added, "a very slight derangement of the stomach and bowels may often be corrected by taking a pill of Ayer's Pills. Through not having the regular fit of sickness follows. For the want of a nail, the house was lost."

"I am sorry to hear your wife is not well. Perhaps she doesn't get enough exercise." "Oh, doesn't she just! Why, she's run up hills from one week's end to another."

Gives Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

"A demagogue," said a small boy who had been better than he knew, is a vessel which holds wine, gin, whisky or any other liquor.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy, and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

A Tender Heart.—He—He has $3,000 a year. You could certainly live on that. She—Yes; but I should have to see you starve.

Purify and enrich your blood, tone your system, will insure against disease, and enjoy good health by using Case's Sarsaparilla Bitters. Price $50c. and $1. Sold at all druggists.

Tramp—I'd like a drink, but I don't suppose you want to change this $5 bill. Bar-tender (briskly)—No trouble about change. Here's your medicine. Tramp—Thanks. Ah! That's good whisky. Bar-tender—Oh! Look here! This bill is no good. Tramp—Yes, I said you wouldn't want to change it.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity by Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, is ear-ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desire, enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

When a man succeeds in saving $10,000, he regards himself as a rich man, but after that he gets poorer all the time.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

THE HEALTH OF GROWING CHILDREN

Parents Should Give More Care to the Young Lives Intrusted to Them.

Professor August Olivier, of Paris, in a recent lecture upon the health of growing children, states that headache, weakness, and other ills which are often so common come from nervousness. "From the age of 10 to 15 children have headache often more than at any other period of life. Sometimes they are pale, emaciated, have eye troubles, sleep is disturbed, are not hungry, and feel 'run down.' If we look rightly at the cause of these disorders, we see that it is a weakness of the nerves often following over-study."

There is nothing that will so quickly restore these children to perfect health and happiness as Professor Phelps' great discovery, Paine's Celery Compound. It will strengthen their nerves, cure their headaches, make them hungry, and give health and vigor to their system.

The weak, languid nerves and lifeless feeling that has made father and mother wonder what is the matter with their children, will be replaced by vitality, energy and happiness. Their eyes will sparkle as of old, the rosy bloom of health will again mantle their cheeks, and the pure, rich blood will once more pulsate joyously through their veins.

Paine's Celery Compound is a scientific medicine made from the most carefully selected herbs. It is not a sarsaparilla or a bitter, but a physician of the widest experience. Many of our best-known citizens have used this medicine for their children, and gladly testify to its good effects.

A little of this medicine at this season of the year, when nearly every child is more or less out of health, will oftentimes prevent serious and dangerous ills.

Keep It Up, Gentlemen. It Does Us Good. Figures Won't Lie!

Notwithstanding the combined efforts of jealous rivals to put us under, we are out on top as usual. Look at the record for 1888. Policies issued for nearly $3,000,000. Not had for a young company, you will say. True, it took some of the old fogies 10 years to write up the same amount. Why, we declined more applications last year than some of the other companies wrote up altogether. How do we account for it, you say. Well, we have plans to suit everybody. Our premium rates are as low as any other company. Our policy is the most liberal, being nearly unconditional; almost a simple promise to pay at death or maturity, as the case may be. The policy-holder is entirely free from all liability; but are, nevertheless, allowed to participate in the control of the Company's affairs and to monopolize nine-tenths (9-10) of the profits of the business. Each policy-holder has one vote for every $1,000 of insurance held by him in this company. These privileges are secured by the act of incorporation. You are not insured, or want more insurance, take a policy in the MANUFACTURERS.
