Obstructionist Tactics Started but Failed

The Reform in the Tax Collecting System Adopted.

Major George W. Hayes Gets the Appointment.

Contracts for the Year's Supplies Let.

Maurice Baldwin and George McNeil Lose Contracts-Supported by the Minority - A Lively Debate -Large Sum in Tax Collection Saved.

The City Council made up for lost time last night-and this morning. It sat for over five hours. This was necessary in order to dispose of the big batch of business which the minority shirked on Monday night.

It was an important session. The confracts for the whole season's supplies were let and the reform in the system of tax collecting, which has been proposed for so many years, was finally effected, Major George W.Hayes (Claughter.) If the members of No. 1 being the appointee.

but it was nearly 7:30 when a quorum of members was seated. Ald. Cooper again tried the game of obstruction, but was not so lucky as on Monday night. The attempted blockade began when Ald. Parnell moved that the minutes be adopted as printed. Ald. Cooper then moved to have the minutes read in full, an excellent expedient for killing time. Ald. Parnell accused Ald. Cooper of ary fixed at $1,050, the duties to commence on May 15.

Ald. O'Meara moved that the question be now put. Ald. Olmstead sec-

Ald. Taylor, seconded by Ald. Douglass, moved that Alf. McCoubrey be appointed at a salary of $900.

Ald. Winnett objected to the order of the council proceedings being changed in order to make bylaws the first business. This, he claimed, respectively. The claimed, respectively. The seconded by Ald. Douglass, moved that Alf. McCoubrey be asked to accept anybody under whom they did not think the council should be asked to accept anybody under whom they did not think the scheme would be as success. If it did not prove to be such, he, as one who voted for Mr. Hayes, would take his share of the blame, and would move to go back to the old system.

The Board of Works' report, presented by Ald. Parnell, was long and important.

Mr. D. Sare's petition for compensations of the blame, and would move to go back to the old system.

ness was taken up The mayor said that he had the best legal advice in the city on the matter. He had taken this action not to put through any motion, but to get rid of serious business. There was $15,000 or $20,000 downstairs belonging to contractors, and he had taken this course o expedite business. Ald. Carrothers objected to the by-aw being put first on the order paper, and he wanted himself recorded as believing that the bylaw as passed would be illegal. He could not see how those supporting Mr. Hayes did so on the excuse of economy. They were moving to pay a man $150 more than the present man was getting. He only knew Mr. Hayes by sight, but knew he had been unsuccessful with any man he had been with. He wanted the mayor and council to understand that the minority had not been the obstructionists. The minority had been there on every call, but the majority had not. Last Monday night, No. 2 committee met, and he moved Ald. poper to the chair, when Ald. O'Meara liberately left and broke the quorum. He thought Ald. Nutkins, after electing the chairman, which he was put on No. 1 to do, should have gone back No. 2. The man who left a chair and refused to make a quorum was ot fit to be on a committee.

The Mayor-Order Ald. Taylor said he would like to now how these taxes were to be coleted, and how the assistants were be appointed. Ald. Rumball-I am only speaking ector; the assistants he knew nothing about. When this scheme was oposed, its opponents said it could done for no such money, and that it would not make a success of col-lecting the taxes. They said that the collecting could not be done as well by salary as by commission. He (Ald. mball) claimed that they could colct taxes better and cheaper by salary. The promoters of this reform vere responsible for its success, and they were going to put in a man who do the work and do it 'right, and for the money it was proposed to give him. He saw no unfairness in ointing the man they had named. He had nothing to say against the present collectors. But Mr. Lester was an old man, unable to do the work

There was no charge or com-plaint against Mr. McCoubrey, and he would have put up guarantee bonds O'Meara, Olmstead, Stevely, Hunt, if he had been asked to, but no such Nutkins, Parnell, McCallum, Gerry request was ever made of him. Judging by their physiogs the majority were just as respectable as the others.

As for the economy cry, he was not afraid to go to any reteneyer in Long.

We also always ready to the council the petition of Huron College for the closing of Talbot street, between St. James and Grossial to go to any reteneyer in Long. Ald. Turner said he was surprised to hear Ald. Rumball going in for economy, and then voting to pay a man $150 more than an official who had been tried and proved worthy and honest, while the other man had never proved anything. He would tell Ald. Olmstead that the minority had just

(Laughter.)

Ald. Cooper said he had certainly got some very black looks from his colleagues. He wanted to tell the mayor that whoever called his brother a fool was in danger of hell fire. (Great laughter, in which the mayor joined.) Ald. Cooper went on to say he was not to blame. He said the business on No. 2 committee had been blocked, and no member could vote intelligently on the matters to come

Ald. Hunt, Olmstead and Stevely favored the college's request, and Ald. Douglas, Johnston and Cooper spoke ag inst it.

Ald. Hunt moved that the college be granted the land for $200.

Ald. Douglass moved that the street remain as it is. Lost, on this division: The mayor ruled Ald. Cooper out of profess. Ald. Taylor moved that in conness. Ald. Taylor moved that in conness. Ald. A great deal of non-sense had been talked about this by-level and retailed about this by-level and retailed about this bylaw, and retaliation had been threatened by Ald. Winnett. Gentlemen who had opposed the plan when first proposed said the work could not be done for less, yet here was Mr. McCoubrey offering to do it for $900. If he was appointed there would be an antagonism and loss of energy in his work (while desiring to get back to his old J. Anthistle, the concrete sewer pipe; as he (Ald. Ald. Taylor said Ald. Parnell was "conspicuously inaccurate." (Laughter.) It was a well-known fact that Mr. McCoubrey's politics had caused him to be turned out. The men who inaugurated this scheme were ashamed to father it, and put it on Ald. Nutkins. Ald. Taylor contended that there was no economy in it. The amendment of Ald.
