How Assumed and Severed During the Past Year in the State of Michigan.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 7 .- A compilation of the marriages and divorces returned for the year 1900 by the county clerks of Michigan, has just been completed by Secretary of State Warner. It shows that there were 23.295 marriages solemnized in the state year, as compared with 21,877 in 1899 and 20,138 in 1898. The returns for the year 1900 thus show a considerable increase over the preceding years, although the large number of marriages of non-residents returned from St. our plain and honest people for their Joseph somewhat interferes with exact

SCOTTSVILLE.

Scottsville, Oct. 7.-We are sorry to report that Mr. Samuel Hunt and Mr. Anson Hunt and wife purpose moving to South London tomorrow. Seldom does the removal of a family take place qualities, their moral and spiritual worth, made them general favorites. By their genial countenances, affable dispositions and readiness to join heart and hand in every good word and work they have gained a deep place in the affections of the people. All three have occupied important and responsible po-sitions in the North Street Methodist Church, and the removal leaves vac-ancies that cannot easily be filled. But our loss is London's gain. They carry with them the high esteem and best wishes, not only of the members of the North Street congregation, with whom they have been more intimately connected, but of all who had the pleasure of their acquaintance. A few weeks ago the congregation presented Mr. and Mrs. Anson Hunt with a beautiful and costly silver service and tray as a token of their appreciation of their valuable and efficient services in connection with the choir. On Friday evening 100 persons unceremoniously took possession of Mr. Hunt's house and presented Mr. Samuel Hunt with a gold-headed cane and a hymn-book. Mr. James E. Orr read the following address:

To Mr. Samuel Hunt, Scottsviller "Dear Friend and Brother.-We, your most intimate friends and neighbors and members of the North Street Methodist Church have been given to understand that you are about to sever your connection with us. Therefore, we have assembled tonight to say 'good-bye' to you, and also to present you with the cane and hymn-book, not for their intrinsic value, but as a small expression of our esteem for you. When we think of the interest you have manifested in our welfare, we cannot you go away, without some little token of remembrance. "Nearly all of us who are here to-night, have looked to you from our earliest childhood for sympathy direction in fighting the battles of life. and we have never been disappointed For more than threescore years and ten you have lived in this neighborhood and have seen many changes in the different homes, but a kind Previdence has been good to you, and we know that in all the years, as they have come and gone, in every good movement for the advancement of church, or the uplifting of humanity your shoulder has ever been to the wheel. You have ever stood for the right, with all the moral strength you possessed, and your time and money have been freely spent for every good cause. You have, Bro. Hunt. filled nearly all the offices of the church to a layman is eligible. You were recording steward of the Westminster circuit for more than twenty years. You have been staward at North Street longer than any other person. For many years you acceptably led the service of song and praise. Year after the Sabbath school, explaining the Scriptures to the young people to their profit. You were casting your bread upon the waters and it has berne fruit. You have held the office of trustee for more than 48 years, and for nearly half that time you were secretary and treasurer of the board. For years vou were delegate from Westminster circuit to the district meeting, and from the distinct meeting you were continually sent.

to the annual conference, and from conference you have at different times been sent to the highest rung of the adder, the general conference. "But why enumerate; in all these offices you have been loyal to our beloved church, you have filled each one satisfactorily to the church and people and with dignity to yourself. You have always stood out with advanced ideas for the young people of the church, and we are here tonight to honor you in a slight manner for what you have done for us. Now Brother Hunt, it is our urgent request that you give this cane an airing every day. While some people are having pleasure trips after horses, some after steam, some after electricity, some with bicycles, some with automobiles, and perhaps some with flying machines, please do not forget in your launts to take this cane with you, and as you roam around the streets of the city, let your thoughts occasionally wander back to your friends at North street. The hymn book use as you engage in songs of praise in God's house here below preparatory to singing the new song in that beautiful Zion above, where we hope to meet you and all the dear friends of North Street, many of whom in their journey "homeward bound" have crossed the river ere this.

"Yes, their pilgrimage was shorter, And their triumph sooner won.
Oh, how lovingly they'll greet us
When the toils of life are done."

Signed on behalf of the congregation of North Street: James El. Orr. Charles Mill. Oct. 4, 1901.

The presentation was made by Mr. Charles Mill. Although completely taken by surprise, Mr. Hunt very appropriately and feelingly replied, thanking the many friends for their kindness. Rev. T. Wesley Cosens, superintendent of the circuit, then made a few complimentary remarks and referred to the loss the circuit is about to sustain in the removal of these consecrated faithful workers. After lunch had been served Mr. Cosens again took the chair and a good programme was rendered. Mr. Orr gave a written history of the Westminster circuit from the year 1806 down to the present, which was very interesting. The recitations given by Miss Minnie Robinson, the popular teacher of Tempo, and Edward Ewart were of a high order and well rendered. About midnight Rev. James E. Hunter, assistant pastor, led in prayer, and all started for home, feeling they had spent a very interesting and profitable evening.

Grover Cleveland Says It Is a Serious Condition That Confronts the People.

New York, Oct. 7 .- Former President Grover Cleveland writes on "The Safety of the President" in the current number of the Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Cleveland's article rings with good American sentiment. He writes: "This attachment and affection of president is not only manifested by their desire to see, hear and greet him. but these kindly sentiments are stim-ulated and strengthened by every indulgence of this desire. ger is charged against this indulgence let us remember that, while only one of our three presidential assassinations can be in any way related to a public opportunity for the people to greet the president, such opportunity has in many millions of honest hearts rekindled wholesome Americanism. and made more deep and warm patri-
