Miss Morphy was a daughter of a provincial magistrate of the colony of Victoria, and acting at the time as governess to the younger children of Sir William J. Clark. The acquaintance thus begun ripened under the kindly chaperonage of Lady Clark, an engagement following, which stood the test of a long absence in England, and then Ivo Bligh returned to Australia, claimed his bride and bore her off in triumph.

Lord Darnley is tall, standing some 6 feet 4 inches in his stockings, while his eldest son and heir, Lord Clifton, has attained the extraordinary stature of 6 feet 7 inches. The earldom is not a Scotch one, and is only indirectly connected with the earldom of Darnley, which was held by the illfated husband of Mary, Queen of Scots. The patronymic of that earl was, like that of his wife, Stuart. The branch of the Stuart family to which he belonged, as well as the Scotch earldom of Darnley and the dukedom of Lennox, are supposed to have come to an end with the last Stuart duke of Lennox and earl of Darnley in 1672.
