2 hundred and 57 dollars and a half is the outside price to members of the Williams Piano Club, remember

That there can be no misunderstanding, let us again tell that 2 hundred and 57 dollars and 50 cents includes everything the Williams piano club member has to pay. In other words, it is the outside price or the extreme price.

The club member who pays 2 hundred and 57 dollars and a half, pays at the rate of 1 dollar and 25 cents a week, taking therefore the full limit of time in which to pay for his piano, 202 weeks. If he wishes, however, he may pay for it in less time.

If he pays for it in less time he is entitled to a less price.

For every week he lessens or shortens the time he gets a rebate of 15 cents in cash.

Thus if he shortens the time he takes to pay for his piano one week, he lessens the price 15 cents. If he shortens it two weeks, he lessens the price 30 cents. If he shortens it three weeks, he lessens the price 45 cents, and so on.

Or, take another illustration:

Suppose a club member was to pay 2 dollars and 50 cents a week instead of 1 dollar and 25 cents a week, he would pay for his piano in exactly one-half the time of the member who only paid 1 dollar and 25 cents a week, wouldn't he?

One-half the time is 101 weeks. He would therefore receive a rebate in cash of 101 times 15 cents, which amounts to 15 dollars and 15 cents.

Taking 15 dollars and 15 cents from 2 hundred and 57 dollars and 50 cents, you have 2 hundred and 42 dollars and 35 cents left—the price the club member pays for his piano who pays 2 dollars and 50 cents a week instead of 1 dollar and 25 cents a week.

Do you see the idea? You are not compelled to pay only 1 dollar and 25 cents a week. You may pay faster if you wish, and the faster you pay the less the price.

ANOTHER MARTYR TO SCIENCE CAUSE

Mr. W. H. Cox Falls Victim to X-Rays After Years of Suffering.

London, July 22.—Science has her martyrs, and among them must be included Mr. Harry W. Cox, an X-ray victim, who died after a decade of suffering at Lower Clapton recently. He was only 46 years of age, but he leaves a brilliant record of research, and a splendid example of a life dedicated to the cause of science.

As a manufacturer he was one of the first to make experiments with X-rays, and he effected many improvements in the apparatus. Altogether, he held nearly 80 patents, one of them a valuable invention, which, by means of two radiographs, indicates not only the position of a bullet, but also its depth, so that a surgeon can remove it with a minimum of probing. He contracted X-ray dermatitis through his excessive exposure to the rays while preparing apparatus for use in the South African war. Since then his condition has grown steadily worse.

Loathsome Disease.

Some seven years ago the disease had made such strides that Mr. Cox found himself obliged to give up the active management of his factory in Curator street, and to keep to his home. Some of the best-known medical men attended him during his long illness, and he underwent no fewer than three serious operations, but the progress of the disease, which takes a most loathsome form, could not be delayed. Some time ago he lost three fingers off his left hand, which had become withered, and one off his right hand. Ultimately it was found necessary to amputate the right arm. Another operation in his throat was abortive. A further operation was to have been performed last year by Dr. A. Pearce Gould, but, owing to his serious condition, this could not be attempted.

While inquiring about an X-ray installation for his Cripples' Home at Alton, the attention of Sir William Treloar was drawn to Mr. Cox's case, and through his efforts a sum of £2,500 was raised, and was invested on behalf of the sufferer and his family. The treasury made him a grant of £200.

The late King, when Prince of Wales, once inspected Mr. Cox's apparatus on the hospital ship Victoria, during a demonstration before the then Princess of Wales and Princess Maud. The story is told that a gentleman came unannounced into the dark room. "Would you mind holding my foot?" said Mr. Cox to him, "so that I can show the princess the nails in my boot?" The gentleman responded alertly, and held the foot while the demonstrator displayed the wonderful penetrating powers of the rays. A short time afterwards Mr. Cox learned that his willing assistant was the future King Edward VII.

The deceased leaves a widow and four sons. The funeral took place on Thursday at Abney Park Cemetery.

HUMORS OF THE STRIKE

G. T. R. Officials Take Over Duties They Are Unaccustomed To.

Montreal, July 22.—Even the strike has its humorous side. Those who do not think so should spend an hour in the Grand Trunk freight yards watching the efforts being made to move the cars, which have fairly piled up on the different tracks.

Naturally regular brakemen and switchmen are scarce, and every one who is willing, and who has had any experience is being pressed into service. On the back of one train yesterday afternoon was seen a young man in a light grey suit. He looked like a suburbanite. But he wasn't. Suburbanites were scarce in town yesterday.

Nothing considered quite such good form at the impromptu meal as

FAIR BOARDERS FLEE

Girls in Kimonos and Curl Papers Surprised at Breakfast.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 22.—The Young Women's Christian Association in Pittsburg at the present time is in a sad state of unrest.

It was learned today that a man—a horrid man—stept a bed in the beautiful Fortieth street branch of the Y. W. C. A. set aside for young woman boarders, on the night of July 4. There was a riot next morning when the man, who is admitted to have been a Philadelphia brother-in-law of one of the fair boarders, walked into the breakfast room as if he were in a regular boarding house.

Young women in slippers, kimonos and curl papers fled pell mell, for such a thing as a man being in the exclusive women's quarters had never been heard of before.

Since that day everyone has been trying to keep the matter quiet. In the meantime, however, the night key privileges, which was highly prized by young women living at the different Y. W. C. A. rooms, has been withdrawn. Now one of the matrons sits up until the last girl goes to bed, in order that there shall be no more mistakes as that at the Lawrenceville branch.

BANK'S FUNDS SHORT

And Clerk Is Believed to Have Carried Off $50,000.

New York, July 22.—Walter Hall, paying teller of the Greenwald Bank, finished his work on Saturday noon, July 2, put on his hat and coat, uttered a cheery good-bye to his office mates and stepped out into the crowd at Sixth avenue and Thirty-fifth street. Just before departing it is said that the young man stuffed into his pockets out of the cash entrusted him to pay checks for the half-day a sum of money, the amount of which William C. Duncan, president of the institution, is making every endeavor to keep secret. He would admit today after questioning that it was "less than $50,000." Later tonight P. J. Bossely, a director, declared that the sum is no more than $25,000, which has since been replaced by the board of directors.

Walter Hall, it was the real name of the paying teller, has been in the employ of the Greenwald Bank, which has several branches, for about six years. He was 28 years of age, happily married, frugal, quiet, a member of a church and an active worker there.

BRIDEGROOM JAILED

Chicago, July 22.—Mrs. Lillian Leh was married a week ago, but she has no husband. In a letter to Mayor Busse she asks the chief executive to make her a wedding present by bringing about the liberation of her husband, who was snatched away from her by the police on the way from the church to the newly-furnished flat.

After the wedding the party boarded a Fourteenth street car, bridegroom and best man each chewing the end of an unlighted cigar. The conductor of the car ordered the men to throw away their cigars. They met the command with contemptuous silence and retained the weeds. The motorman stroled into the car waving his congle-troller handle and struck the bridegroom with it. The best man retired as the controller victim arose to avenge the attack. The ensuing rough-and-tumble fight was interrupted by a policeman, who arrested Leh and the best man.

The trial came up the next day and was continued to July 21. Mrs. Leh said that she had no money to pay a possible fine and fears that her husband will be sent to the Bridewell. Mayor Busse said that he would pardon Leh if he was fined.

BICYCLE THIEF SENTENCED.

Toronto, July 22.—A sentence of six months in the Central Prison, passed by Magistrate Kingsford this morning on Joseph Bishop, a respectable-looking 17-year-old boy, who stole a bicycle in order to get food and shelter, aroused much comment in the police court this morning.

THE FARM CENSUS

Next One Will Be Taken by the Government June 1, 1911.

Ottawa, July 22.—The next census of agriculture will be taken under date of June 1, 1911.

The area, product and value of field crops harvested in 1910 will be enumerated for fall wheat, spring wheat, barley, oats, rye, corn for husking, buckwheat, beans, peas, flax, mixed grains, hay and clover, alfalfa or lucerne, corn for forage, other forage crops, turnips, mangolds, sugar beets, other field crops, tobacco and hops, and grass seed, red clover seed and alsike clover seed will be enumerated for product and value.

Grain and other field crops for the harvest of 1911 will be taken by areas only, as none of these crops will be ripe at the taking of the census. The products of these crops will be gathered later in the year from the reports of correspondents.

Animals and animal products, also under the head of agriculture, will include the number of horses 3 years old and over, horses under 3 years, milch cows, other horned or neat cattle, sheep, swine, turkeys, geese, ducks, hens and chickens, and hives of bees held or owned by each person at the date of the census on June 1, 1911.

The number of horses, milch cows, other horned or neat cattle, sheep, swine, and poultry, sold in 1910, will be recorded, as well as the wool, milk, home-made butter, home-made cheese, eggs and honey products of the year, and the quantities of milk and cream sent to factory or sold.

Pure-bred animals registered, or eligible for registration, which are owned at the time of taking the census, will be enumerated for horses, cattle, sheep and swine, but their number will also be counted with all other animals.

TORONTO'S WATER.

Toronto, July 22.—Two gangs of workmen have been continuously at work since 6 o'clock yesterday morning making the connections for the new 15,000-gallon pumping engine being installed at the main pumping station of the city waterworks, foot of John street.

Owing to the necessity of cutting a big pipe in making the connections, No. 4 engine has been temporarily shut down, and as a result the water in the reservoir has dropped about a foot since yesterday.
