THAT "BILED" SHIRT
Mrs. Mary P. Sayers, Martin, Mich.

For the first time in his life, Bill went straight home. He went to bed, but he could not forget about the saloonkeeper's "biled shirt" and "po'ter-house steak." Mandy came home and sat down in the forlorn-looking little sitting-room. Bill could hear her groan. Then he heard her pray—pray for him—old Bill Washington. Bill made a firm resolve, but he thought he would keep his own counsel. Towards morning, when the rumble of the downtown Chicago street traffic grew louder, he woke Mandy and told her of his purpose. Mandy made no great ado over the matter, but at night she again tried to get Bill to the mission. Bill would not go. He'd "fight his battles alone."

So things went on for two weeks. Bill found work and kept sober. They moved into better quarters, and Mandy told Bill she would be the happiest woman in the world if he would only last. Bill said it would.

mind that he would go over to the old saloon where he had once been a constant customer, and show them what he could do if he wanted to. To Mandy he said nothing of all this, well—because Mandy wouldn't trust him. With a pompous air he walked in among his old associates. The bar-room was full and Bill was greeted with the glad hand from one end of the bar to the other.

"Why, hello, Bill—Mr. Washington!" grinned the saloonkeeper, a big, fat white man. "Glad to see you, Mr. Washington—er—glad to see you. Come on, boys—I'll pay for the drinks. We thought he'd come back, didn't we, boys?" Forthwith the drinks began to flow like water. Bill hesitated. He had not intended to drink. After a little he was going right out. But they had called him "Mr." Washington. He felt his importance and stepped up to the bar. The fumes of the liquor was in his nostrils when suddenly the saloonkeeper threw open his white coat to get something from his inside pocket. Bill's eyes chanced to wander that way. With a start his face became ashen and his eyes began to bulge. They had rested on the shiniest of shiny boiled shirts. He dropped the glass and dashed for the street, followed by cries of "Come back, Bill! What's the matter, Bill," and so forth.

Jostling up the street he almost ran into the Van Buren street mission and went straight up to the seeker's bench in front of the pulpit. There he dropped on his knees and began to pray: "I can't do it, Lord! I can't! You've got to help me, Lord! You have!" Mandy came and knelt by him as he prayed, and when he had become a little calmer, he arose and sat with the others who had asked for prayers. Then there was singing, after which came the testimonies.

After a little, Mandy whispered to Bill and he arose to testify: "Brudders," Bill's voice was steady now in spite of his trembling limbs. "Brudders and sisters, I've been a 'po' no 'count niggah. But dis night I've comin' to do Lord! 'Taint been so 'erry long ago dat I giv' all my money to de saloonkeeper. Brudders and sisters—he was wearin' dat 'biled shirt—'an' eatin' dat 'po'ter-house steak. Brudders and sisters, I was wearin' dat 'biled shirt and eatin' dat 'po' meat." As Bill gained in confidence his voice grew stronger. "But, brudders and sisters, I's quit givin' dat saloon-keeper my 'ad 'e's money, and now I 's wearin' dat 'biled shirt 'an' eatin' dat good 'po'ter-house steak. And praise de Lord, I 's goin' to keep on wearin' dat 'biled shirt and eatin' dat 'po' meat!" Bill sat down and the choir sang: "There were ninety and nine that safely lay in the shelter of the fold." For Bill Washington, negro and ne'er-do-well, was rejoiced over in heaven as much as would be the most perfect man on earth. And the little man on the front 'seat shouted, "Amen!"

GOOD SUGGESTION TO CAMPBELLTON PEOPLE

It is surprising the amount of old foul matter the simple mixture of uckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ika, drains from the system. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and acts on BOTH the upper and lower bowels so thoroughly that ONE DOSE relieves your stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. We are mighty glad we are Campbellton agents for Adler-ika. A. Mc G. McDonald, druggist.

SPECULATION AND SOIL FERTILITY

The farmer of Western Canada has long been upbraided for his disregard of the principles of scientific agriculture. The gospel of mixed farming, as the safeguard against soil exhaustion, has been constantly dinned into his ears but, as a rule, the advice has been consistently ignored and the farmer has adhered religiously to his system of soil mining. As a matter of fact, he has seldom denied that his farming methods are unscientific. What, then, is the explanation of the general and firm adherence to a mistaken course? The typical western farmer is neither lazy, unintelligent nor particularly shortsighted. Certainly, it is not that he is ignorant of the principles and practices of scientific agriculture, for the Canadian West has recruited its pioneers from the best farming communities of the British Isles, Ontario, the Maritime Provinces, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas and Nebraska. His failure to follow proper methods of cultivation is due to none of these causes, except in a minor degree.

The main difficulty to-day consists in the fact that our western farmer, like his counterpart of a few decades ago in the western states, plays a dual role. He is a farmer and a land speculator, and it is often doubtful which characteristic predominates. Many homesteaders, of course, are farmers, purely and simply, but for thousands of others speculation is practically the sole motive. The representative westerner, however, combines the two occupations—agriculture and speculation—and, needless to say, as a speculator he is an indifferent farmer. The farmer, with a view to insuring the permanent productivity of his land, the speculator, par excellence, has not farmed at all; the farming speculator or the speculating farmer has operated his agricultural plant at capacity speed with a view to selling it before the output diminishes appreciably. He has not been content to receive a normal profit from his farm. He has robbed the business as a going concern by encroaching on capital. Soil fertility is the capital asset which a wise agriculturist maintains unimpaired.

The Dominion Parks Branch has recently issued three publications which are noteworthy on account of the attractive form in which they are printed and the interesting matter they contain. They are: "Classified Guide to Fish and Their Habitat, Rocky Mountains Park"; "The Nakimu Caves"; and "Glaciers of the Rockies and Selkirk."

The Fish Guide is written for the sportsman and naturalist rather than the scientist. It is a compilation of first-hand information for anglers by one who has fished in all the principal waters of the Park. It takes up each locality, describes the best means of reaching it, the different varieties of fish which can be secured, and the best bait to use. The game fish of the Rockies include five species of trout, one of which—the Lake Minnawanka trout—has been known to run as high as 40 lbs. The Grayling, the Dolly Varden and the Cut Throat trout are found in many of the lakes and streams of the Park and a fish hatchery has recently been established at Banff for the purpose of re-stocking those which have become depleted.

The second pamphlet gives an interesting account of the formation, character and discovery of the famous Nakimu Caves near Glacier, B. C. These interesting natural curiosities are supposed to be about 40,000 years old and consist of a series of underground chambers, some of them fifty feet high and more than two hundred feet long, hollowed out partly by erosion and partly by volcanic action, and opening into each other at different levels. The walls of the caves are covered with strange fluorescent limestone formations and they reverberate to the roar of underground torrents. The different chambers have been given names suggestive of their character: "The Pit"; "The Marble Way"; "The Ballroom"; "The Art Gallery"; "The Judgment Hall"; "The White Grotto"; "The Bridal Chamber"; etc., and when they are lit with electricity and proper gasolene handrails have been placed on the stairs and platforms, they should be among the most interesting sights in the Rockies for tourists.

"Glaciers of the Rockies and Selkirk" is by Dr. A. P. Coleman, Professor of Geology in the University of Toronto, and bears on the cover an attractive reproduction in color of a sketch of Mt. Ball, one of the picturesque peaks near the Divide. Dr. Coleman is a scientist with the imagination of a poet and he has written the story of the formation and work of the Canadian glaciers with all his well known literary charm. The pamphlet should prove not only a great help to the student of glacial phenomena who visits the Parks but it should inspire many Canadians with a desire to see the wonderful mountain scenery of their own country for themselves, "to put on," as Dr. Coleman says, "warm, strong clothes and hobnailed shoes and to fill one's lungs with mountain air in a scramble up to the snowfields to see how the glacial machinery works."

The pamphlets may be obtained upon application to the Dominion Parks Branch, Ottawa, without charge.

Mr. Bryan, American Secretary of State, has severely rebuked Read Admiral Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, for saying in a banquet speech that the United States, one hundred years from now, would either have ceased to be a nation or would occupy the whole of North America. That sort of thing used to be said often in the United States but of late years it has come to be regarded as folly by Americans, and the Secretary of State so brands it officially.

A calm, smooth, even-spoken person is Dean Howard McClenahan, of Princeton, who hesitates not an instant to speak his mind however harrying his words may be to loyal graduates. Speaking of the prospects in college sports at the university, he calmly remarked: "I thought we had a baseball team until last Saturday when there was to be a game with Pennsylvania, and I saw one of the finest, most intellectual dog fights which ever came to my notice."

Now that there are apparently no more commerce destroyers at large on the high seas, why not intern the Hon. Bob Rogers until the end of the war?
