NOTE AND COMMENT

"There would be less unrest if there were less resting" remarks the Simcoe Reformer.

The growing extent of rum running on the Canadian side of the Detroit River, and the blood-curdling methods resorted to by those engaged in the illicit traffic, call for more drastic action on the part of the authorities, to put an end to the nefarious business.

The Ontario Legislature has passed an act to the effect that any person or persons buying or selling bees, hives, combs or appliances must have an inspector's certificate or they are liable to a fine of $100 or two months' imprisonment. Every inspector has the authority to enforce the act according to law.

Writing on the Irish question, Viscount Bryce, former ambassador to the United States, says :- "What the American people ought to know, but apparently do not know, is that the great majority of the English people desire to give Ireland the fullest measure of freedom within the Empire. But it is in the divisions within Ireland-not in the lack of any good-will on England's partthat there lies practically the only obstacle which still delays that peaceful settlement which the British democracy sincerely desires."

Some time ago J. J. Hill said :-"When people learn that all the wages in the world will not buy a pound of food unless somebody has one out and by hard labor raised that food, there will be more people raise food and fewer people tell others how to do it. Hunger is our only remedy, and you will see it before twenty years."

The new list of publications of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa contains titles of nearly three hundred and fifty bulletins, circulars and other pamphlets that deal with agricultural practices. These cover the whole range of agricultural and horticultural pursuits, including dairying, field crops, poultry, insects and plant diseases, farm building construction, farm machinery and many other topics. The subjects are arranged alphabetically under general titles. Not only are the lists themselves available from the Department out any of the publications therein contained.

Perhaps no more significant incident could be offered to herald a pause in the steadily upward trend of prices than the announcement of the big Wannamaker store in Philadelphia that all prices would be cut to make an average reduction of 20 percent. Further it is stated that the store policy will be to make new purchases only on the basis which will permit of this reduction being made.

Board of Commerce says that a Montreal sugar broker refused to accept a check from an Ottawa broker, "because it would only swell his already excessive profits." would never have believed, however, that any profiteer would act like that under any circumstances.

Since February 7th, 1918, close to 22,000 farm tractors, valued for customs purposes at approximately $22,000,000 have been imported into Canada from the United States without payment of duty. If the normal customs duty and the war tax had been collected and if importations had been on the same scale, the Federal Treasury would have collected more than $6,000,000.

Boston Transcript- Whether or not the coal supply lasts 2,000 years as one authority says the case will be, or 7,000 years as another maintains, may be an important question for those who live 2,000 or more years from now, but it does not immediately concern the present generation. After us, not exactly the deluge, but the frost ! Between us and the period of the coal exhaustion there are, it seems, at least sixty generations. Put all of the greatgrands involved in that duration of time before the names of our off-spring of the year 3900 and it does not appear to matter much to us what happens to them. For that matter, the Eskimos have no coal, and the Eskimos, nevertheless, exist. The Eskimos are barbarous. But strange as it may seem, eyen a complicated civilization and an intense industry might be maintained without coal.

Nine Months on Warship. A naval man, home on leave, was discussing Lord Jellicoe's tribute to all ranks who fought at Jutland, and he revealed what seems to the lower deck the highest form of heroism.

It was not the fighting, not the anxious watching day and night-that is what a naval man is there for, he

"I've been 19 years in the navy, but if you'd ever told me before the war that I should ever have lived for nine months on board ship without a break, I should have dropped down dead," he said. "But I've just done it," he added .- London Chronicle.

Merely Breach of Discipline.

An air cadet in England recently swooped down toward a country road while practicing diving and struck a carriage in which two convalescent officers were driving. Both officers were killed. When the cadet was put on trial the defense set up the plea that there had been no such culpable negligence as would justify a verdict of manslaughter, although the pilot had committed a breach of discipline in flying low over the road. The cadet was acquitted.

Women and Asthma.—Women are numbered among the sufferers from asthma by the countless thousands. In every climate they will be found, helpless in the grip of this relentless disease unless they have availed themselves of the proper temedy. Dr. J. D. Kellogge's Arthma Remedy, despite its assurance of benefit, costs so little that it is within reach of all. It is the national remedy for asthma, far removed from the class of doubtful and experimental preparations. Your dealer can supply it.

Latest Fashion is Dashing and Different From Many Others That Were Popular.

Sweaters grow prettier and prettier. From being a merely utilitarian article, donned for warmth in camp or on a sailboat, or after a game of tennis, the sweater has come to be the very pivotal point of the summer costume. Everything else is planned and pur-chased to match the charming sweater bought first of all on account of its stunning style or its appealing color. And, of course, there must be several sport costumes to go with the several sweaters every woman now has to have. There is the sweater for roughing it in camp, and there is the sweater for posing about on the country club veranda-and between are many other varieties of sweaters.

slipon. Needless to prophesy that this sweater will have a tremendous vogue. It is so smart, so dashing and so different from other sweaters that have gone before that its vogue is predes-tined. The gay little cutaway fastens on the shoulders with pearl buttons and buttonholes and neckline, armhole and turned-up lower edge are finished with crochet stitch in contrasting color. The sweater itself is knitted—an easy stitch with which every woman who has knitted war sweaters is familiar. The ribbed section at the front of the jacket fit like a glove and the cutaway extension is turned up and caught with buttons, making pockets-into which nothing must be put, however, for fear of spoiling the trim line of the sweater.

Novel House Dress. bow pink velvet and chinchilla. The frock is of knee length with a chinchilla band about the hem. This same fur makes collars and cuffs. There are cartridge plaits over the hips. The gown laps kimono fashion and is held fast by a string girdle of velvet and amerald slik cords.

Imperial Polarine Available Everywhere

WHEREVER you tour, throughout the length and breadth of VV Canada, you can secure the grade of Imperial Polarine you now use for Iubrication—exactly the same uniform grades are sold by dealers everywhere from Halifax to Vancouver.

Imperial Polarine reduces your greatest expense depreciation, yet costs less than storage, tires, repairs or gasoline. It reduces friction to a minimum, maintains a piston-tight seal under heaviest engine heat, helps the engine extract the last ounce of power out of gasoline.

Imperial Polarine holds its body, maintains compression—keeps the motor running smoothly and quietly. The Imperial Chart of Recommendations shows the grade recommended for your car. Ask to see it when you stop for oil.

Imperial Polarine is sold by good dealers everywhere in sealed one-gallon and four-gallon cans, half-barrels and barrels, also in 12½-gallon steel kegs, the handy size for the home garage. Buy the larger sizes to save money.
