EDITORIAL IMPRESSIONS.

AN APOLOGY.

Although we have done our best to appear on time we feel that we owe our readers an apology for not appearing regularly. We had copy ready in plenty of time to have an issue out on March 10th, but our printers said they simply could not get another number out for a month. This necessitated a change of printers, which, coupled with the publisher's removal to Hamilton, caused the delay. We shall, however, do our utmost to appear regularly hereafter and hope our readers will overlook any annoyance caused by this and assure them that they were not the only ones annoyed.

OUR REMOVAL.

As you will undoubtedly have noticed the REVIEW is now issued from Hamilton. This is not however a permanent removal, as we expect to return to good old Berlin about June 1st. Until then all correspondence should be addressed to Room 3, Merchants Hotel.

SENSE AND NONSENSE.

There are several dealers in high standing who owe us "a far" for ad. space. We hate to show them up, but will have to unless they settle up shortly.

We have been seriously thinking of taking a trip to Pueblo and "knocking the plaster off Bro. Osgoods slats" if he doesn't soon begin exchanging a copy of his yellow Philatelic journal with the REVIEW.

The Lone Star State Phil., warmly supported by the Virginia Phil., proposes that a combination among Philatelic Publishers be formed to demand cash in advance from all advertisers in their papers. This is certainly needed and the REVIEW can be counted in the combination.

A debate, the subject of which is: Resolved that it is more desirable to collect used stamps than unused, is to be held at the Hamilton Stamp Club, on Friday, April 14th, a full report of which will be given in our next issue.

In our last issue we announced that we would issue a large 40 page issue on May 10th, but we will have to postpone issuing so large a number until some future date. However we will issue a fine number on that date and would say to advertisers that it will pay them to be represented in it. Usual ad. rates in force.
