Dear Sir Arthur Currie,

The writer, a few weeks ago, had occasion to write you regarding plans to more closely unite educational forces between Canada and the Bahamas. Under separate cover he is replying to your letter in that regard.

This letter is, if you will permit, a personal one, from an old officer of the Corps to say that your reply was the most considerate and understanding he received and that it has given him a thrill of pleasure. It was in line with what for years we had learned to appreciate in a far different area of operations.

With this letter please accept my good wishes for a long and happy life in your new command, and if we are needed again, may it be that the writer can serve with you.

Yours faithfully,

Hugh Bell
Major. R.O.
