The mission at Longlaketon was opened immediately after the settlement was formed, and the fruit of such action is visible to-day. The necessity of going in and possessing land for Christ all through this broad country wherever settlements are being opened up should be at once apparent to the church; and, if she is faithful now in the formative period, the greatness of this country is secured, for the greatness depends primarily upon the moral teachings and principles which it is the duty of Christ's church to promulgate.

A.S.R.

Longlaketon, Assa.

r.

ıy

n.

ıd

re

er,

on

les

lls,

he ves es, ats

eat

rith

ınd

the 10st

e to

hill, and

rity.

rado

ion.

ı the

and

ñeld,

work

as is in in d for tery. Ily at fierce hted, which, ternal

No! for whoever with an earnest soul
Strives for some end from this low world afar
Still upward travels, though he miss the goal,
And strays—but towards a star.

Better than fame is still the wish for fame,
The constant training for a glorious strife:
The athlete, nurtured for the Olympian game,
Gains strength at least for life.

The wish for fame is faith in holy things
'That soothe the life, and shall outlive the tomb,—
A reverent listening for some angel wings
That cower above the gloom.

To gladden earth with beauty, or men's lives
To serve with action, or their souls with truth,— These are the ends for which the hope survives
The ignoble thirsts of youth.

-Lytton.