This man lives away from the "Semi-ready" Wardrobe privileges—but not the Royal mail.

With the aid of the "Semi-ready" catalog he selects correct styles and materials, proper shape, his size, at business-like prices.

In a few days more he will have the suit or overcoat he wants.

If not entirely satisfactory, back it goes and his money comes back by next mail.

That's the "Semi-ready" style of doing business in the Wardrobes or through the mail.

$20, $18, $15 and $12 per suit or overcoat.

Affairs of the "Hutch" Company Are Up Again Before the Master-in-Ordinary.

A TAX SALE WITHOUT WARRANT.

Cromar Insurance Case—Mayor MacDonald's Appeal—Cub Stand on Station-Street.

Peremptory list for today's sittings of the Court of Appeal: Godwin v. Newcombe; Leonard v. Park; Panton v. McDonald; Collier v. M. C. Railway Co. The Court of Appeal will give judgment this morning at 11 a.m. in the following cases: Morris v. Gurney; Kelly v. Davidson; Edwards v. London Street Railway Company.

Affairs of the "Hutch" Company. The affairs of the "Hutch" Company were before the Master-in-Ordinary again yesterday in the shape of a motion made by Barrister Scott on behalf of the Globe Sign Company of Akron, Ohio, to have the compromise entered into set aside. At the time of the compromise no value was set upon the "Celery King" trademark. Yesterday, however, Mr. Scott offered $3000 for the same on behalf of clients whose names he refused to divulge. The Master, Mr. Hodgins, deferred his ruling until Wednesday next.

Was Not a Trespasser. The Divisional Court yesterday handed out judgment dismissing the plaintiff's appeal in Meakmond v. Liddle, a suit from the neighborhood of Laurier. The parties to the action are neighboring farmers, their whose farms a road was projected but never opened, although the land required for the same was donated by the parties. The plaintiff had a fence crossing the projected road, and lately had put up a notice forbidding trespassing, except on the road allowance. The defendant happened along with his cows shortly after the posting of the notice and took down the fence rails, whereupon the plaintiff, who was lying in ambush, challenged the support of the fence and a fight ensued, the defendant carrying off the horses. An action was taken for damages for assault and trespass, but the learned trial judge decided that Liddle was not a trespasser.

Tax Sale Without Warrant. Mr. Justice Macdonald has given out judgment in the suit of Roland v. Jenkins, tried by him here on Sept. 12 last. His ruling decides in favor of the plaintiff. The action was brought for the recovery of lot 25, on Paterson street, which had been sold by the city to the late Robert Jenkins for the sum of $1875 from Roland, bought of the late John Shelden, and has since been stopped paying for a period of six months. The land was put up in 1880 for the taxes, and bought by the city. The court holds that the plaintiff was lying in ambush, challenged the support of the fence and a fight ensued, the defendant carrying off the horses. An action was taken for damages for assault and trespass, but the learned trial judge decided that Liddle was not a trespasser.

A Pinnae Maker's Fingers. A motion was on yesterday before Chief Justice Meredith in Chambers in the suit of Cronar v. North American Life Company, by which the defendants tried to have the court discontinue the action being tried by a jury. His Lordship, however, refused to do so, the matter being referred to the jury. The action was for the recovery of the sum of $1000, which was paid by the company to the late Alex. Cronar for the recovery of insurance amounting to over $80,000 on Alex. Cronar's life.

The Court of Appeal is hearing the appeal of the Newcomb Piano Company from the verdict of a jury awarding James Godwin $500 compensation for the loss of two fingers. Godwin was operating a machine in the company's factory when the accident happened. The company appeals on the ground that negligence on their part was not proven at the trial. The argument had not been concluded when the court rose yesterday.

Mayor MacDonald's Appeal. Mayor MacDonald's appeal from the decision of the Master-in-Ordinary in connection with the suit of MacDonald v. Shepard Publishing Company, was adjourned for one week by Chief Justice Meredith yesterday.

Want to Close a Street. An application has been made by the William How Company of Toronto Junction to have Brandon-avenue, in that town, closed, near their works. The matter was referred yesterday to the Master of Titles, Mr. Scott, who will decide upon the application.

Cab Stand on Station-Street. The application of the C.P.R. to have city lot 3707, establishing a cab stand on Station-street, with a line up to be in Single Court this morning. The company claims that the stand cannot stand as against their agreement with the city respecting the Union Station property.

A Bradford Man Objects. Thomas Elliot of Bradford is to-day asking the Court of Appeal to prevent the Grand Trunk Railway from having a switch on Whitnash-street, adjoining his premises. Elliot, who is a coal and wood merchant, claims that the switch will interfere with the free passage of his teams to and from his yard.
