

Place a Wedge

In the crack in a log, and lift it a mighty blow, and the log will be split or the crack lengthened. But, if you keep striking the wedge, the log will finally fall apart.

for one time. It may sell the article with one insertion, but it may not; but if you leave that ad. there for some weeks, you will ultimately find a purchaser.

That's the way to look at advertising. It's like an entering wedge. You don't know how far the split will travel at each blow, but you do know that you must have a good, firm wedge. That's the kind of a wedge THE ADVERTISER is. It will bring business to your store if you hit it every week. The larger the ad. the quicker the business.

Boys' Shoes...

A problem. Yes and no. To be sure it has long been somewhat of a puzzle—finding shoes for the boys which will be decent in appearance and at the same time give reasonable wear. The shoes have been either too light to wear well, or as clumsy as an Indian rubber elephant. The same trouble exists today. That is, you find it until you find a shoe store which is up-to-date. That's the kind of a store this is. Boys' very neat, riveted sole, lace boots, sizes 1 to 5, made of Oil Buff, at 80 cents. Boston, Calif. 85 cents. Better ones at $1, $1.15 and $1.25.

CHAMBERLAIN MUST REFORM

He is Recovering From His First Serious Illness.

But Cannot Smoke a Dozen Strong Cigars a Day

Finnish Ladies Wear Mourning on Account of Russia's Tyrannical Policy.

London, Feb. 27.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain is recovering from the first serious illness of his life. He ventured to the House of Commons last week when only partly recovered from the gout attack, caught the grip, and his condition caused considerable anxiety to his family. He hopes to be out of bed this week.

The doctors have ordered him to completely change his mode of life. He has been smoking a dozen strong cigars a day, taking no exercise, and working incessantly. He is 62 years old now, and must adopt a rational regimen if he is to have health robust enough to enable him to continue his political career.

It is stated that he has promised to change his life: he will have no value to him if he were prevented from devoting himself strenuously to politics, beyond which he has no ambition and no concern.

FINNISH LADIES IN MOURNING. Stockholm, Feb. 27.—A dispatch to the Aftonbladet from Helsingfors, capital of Finland, says that the consequence of the czar's refusal to see a deputation on the subject of the decree, the Finnish Diet has stopped the debates. General consternation prevails, and the Finnish ladies are wearing mourning.

CERVERA DEFENDS HIMSELF. Madrid, Feb. 27.—Admiral Cervera appeared before the senate committee to have his credentials as a senator examined. He contended that he was entitled to his seat since criminal proceedings had not been taken against him. He says that if the loss of the Spanish squadron was a crime it must be attributed to the government, which sent him to the Antilles against his will.

FILIPINOS WANT TO SURRENDER

So the Commissioners Say Who Have Returned From Malolos, the Insurgent Capital—Manila Quiet.

Manila, Feb. 27.—11:20 a.m.—Except for an occasional volley and some individual firing by the rebels from the jungle near Calocan, along the river and in the vicinity of San Pedro Macati, all was quiet along the entire line last night.

The enemy's sharpshooters at Calocan continue to annoy the soldiers in the daytime, but the Americans no longer pay much attention to them, reserving their fire until the rebels appear in the open in sufficient force to justify a volley or an occasional shell.

In Manila absolute quiet prevails. The insurance companies, after a conference, have decided to accept war risks at an additional premium of 5 1/2 per cent per month.

WANT TO SURRENDER. 4:55 p.m.—Two commissioners who returned from Malolos under a flag of truce today report that 8,000 rebels are anxious to surrender. They also express the belief that Aguinaldo is inclined to accept peace overtures. Major-Gen. Otis did not receive the commissioners.

DROWNED IN TORONTO BAY. Toronto, Feb. 27.—Hymie Silverstein, a little boy of ten years, left his home yesterday for an hour's skating on the bay. There was no one to tell him that the ice on the bay at the foot of Yonge street was honey-combed and unsafe, and he skated right over it, unconscious of the danger. The ice bore his slight weight until he was within 50 yards of the slip, then gave way, and he was drowned.

SOCIAL SENSATION. New York, Feb. 27.—From a reliable Belgian source comes the news that Princess Louise of Coburg, wife of Prince Philip of Coburg, and daughter of the King of Belgium, has embarked from Nice for America. It is believed that the princess will cause one of the greatest social sensations of the year in this country.

DOMICILIARY VISITATIONS

French Monarchist Leaders Receive Police Attention.

Many Compromising Documents Said to Have Been Seized.

The Emperor Nicholas III—Massacre in the New Hebrides.

Paris, Feb. 27.—In consequence of the placarding throughout the city of speeches of the Duc d'Orleans, the Orleanist pretender, recently delivered at San Remo, and the seizure of scarfpins and medals, bearing the pretender's portrait, the prefect of police was ordered by the government to make a strict investigation into the proceedings of the Monarchist party.

A MIDNIGHT SEARCH. At midnight last night M. Rochefort, chief of the secret service, was summoned to the prefecture and directed to prepare seventeen confidential letters and seventeen warrants, which were handed to seventeen police commissioners, authorizing a search of the residences of suspects, especially M. Guernin, manager of the newspaper Anti-Juif, M. Buffet, Robert de Chavilly, Liebaud d'Orleans, secretary of the Duc d'Orleans; Dubuc, president of the young anti-Semites, and Comte Sabran de Ponteves. The confidential letters indicated that the warrants aimed to discover the existence of any political action on the part of the anti-Semitic league or its relations with the Royalists and Bonapartists and Bonapartist committee or with the other leagues. No incident occurred in the course of the domiciliary visits.

Many documents were seized at M. Buffet's residence.

PROPAGANDIST PAMPHLETS. Quantities of propagandist pamphlets and portraits of the Duc d'Orleans, a list of members of the names of the Royalist committee and voluminous correspondence were seized at the headquarters of the Royalist committee in the Faubourg St. Helene, and at the residence of the Comte Sabran de Ponteves.

The commissary who visited M. Deonour surprised him just as he had returned from Brussels with letters from the Duc d'Orleans, addressed to giving the names and addresses to the Royalist personalities, and instructions from the pretender to his supporters. All these were seized. Altogether a large quantity of documents were seized and placed under seal.

MUST AVOID THE VENDOME COLUMN. In consequence of an announcement that demonstrations were intended to be made at the Vendome Column, 30 vicinity of day. About 2 o'clock this afternoon people began to arrive with bouquets of violets. Five who threw flowers within the railing surrounding the column were promptly placed under arrest, though released soon after on giving their names and addresses to the police. Henceforth demonstrations will be allowed to promenade with emblems, but not to approach the column.

PROMOTING A COUP D'ETAT. The Figaro says that among the papers seized at the headquarters of the League of Patriots were letters addressed to senior officers among the generals, inciting them to the execution of a coup d'etat. The government, however, knowing the officers addressed to be above suspicion, has decided to make no further inquiry into the matter so far as they are concerned.

Government agents during the night and this morning made many domiciliary visits in Paris, based upon information obtained by the seizure of the papers in question. These included letters sent to prominent generals, urging a military coup d'etat. It has not been disclosed whether there were any replies to these appeals among the discoveries.

THE DREYFUS CASE. The senate committee which has been considering the government's bill providing that the full court of cassation shall pass on the Dreyfus case handed in its report today. The committee favors the revision bill, which has already been passed by the house.

EMPEROR NICHOLAS III. London, Feb. 27.—The Daily Chronicle's correspondent at Stockholm says it is rumored there that Emperor Nicholas III is ill, and that the Imperial Grand Duke Michael is presiding over the government. The Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily Mail says: Well-informed persons here assure me that the health of Emperor Nicholas is far from good, and that his condition excites the greatest solicitude. A long-threatened ailment assumed a critical form soon after the issuance of the manifesto in behalf of the limitation of the armaments, and the czar is now prostrated. The malady is of such a character as to forbid all intellectual exertion. His participation in the government is merely formal, confined to signing documents. The Grand Duke Michael possesses the executive power, and all government decisions are arrived at without the czar's co-operation or knowledge.

SPANISH DEPUTIES SNARLING. Madrid, Feb. 27.—The Chamber of Deputies continued the debate on the peace treaty, the discussion consisting mostly of personal recriminations by the members. Senor Sagasta, the premier, eloquently eulogized the honor of the army. "If," said the premier, "a definite accusation is made, the government is prepared to bring the guilty persons before the courts." Senor Sagasta further declared that it was untrue that the country had lost confidence in the army.

CABLE NOTES. It is announced that Andree Syngros, the millionaire Athens banker, who died recently, left his entire estate, valued at $5,000,000, to charitable institutions.

A telegram from The Hague says: The tension between the Quirinal and the Vatican, arising from the question of papal representation at the disarmament conference, is so acute that governments more immediately concerned in the success of the meeting are extremely anxious. The attempts of Russia and Holland compromise the matter have failed.

Mr. Bell, a passenger on the steamer Victoria, tells the following story: "I was a partner in the copra business at Boyd's Station, New Hebrides. I was talking to the Presbyterian minister, the Rev. Mr. Boyd, an Englishman, one day, when he told me, he feared that the natives were going to murder all the whites. They accuse us," he continued, "of cutting down trees and letting the evil spirits out that their forefathers imprisoned 200 years ago by the help of the gods of the islands." He had scarcely told this story when 200 natives rushed upon us with clubs, dancing menacingly around us, and beating the ground with their weapons. They were drunk. We ran for our lives, and hid in the woods. I waited for the effects of the liquor to wear off, and then returned to the station. They attacked us again, and we could not escape. Haslan and Brewer, two Englishmen, and my partner, Thomas, were clubbed into insensibility, and the bodies dragged away. Thomas was mercifully dead, but Haslan and Brewer were not. I fear a cannibal feast followed. The Rev. Mr. Boyd saved my life and his own by a cool-headed piece of acting. He threw on the gown in which he was accustomed to preach, and motioning me to get behind him, sang 'Rock of Ages' in a loud voice, all the while holding a cross on high. I followed him, playing a cornet accompaniment. Thus we slowly walked through the mob, who actually made way for us. We got into a boat and rowed off. We found out that when the natives could get no liquor from the traders they applied to a French steamship in the harbor. The French Government should take action, for that French commander is an accessory to the horrible murder."

HIS HISTORY BEING REVEALED

Hessey Married a London Girl, Shot at Her and Fleed.

Obtained a Divorce in the United States, Marries Again and Brings Wife No. 2 Back to This City—Arrested on a Charge of Insanity.

Frederick Hessey, about 40 years of age, was placed in a rather uncomfortable position at the police court this morning. Hessey was charged with insanity by wife No. 1, a ruddy, round-faced, pleasant-looking woman, who sat a short distance away from wife No. 2, a larger woman, with very sallow complexion.

The story of Hessey's life is more or less romantic. About ten years ago he was a resident of London, where he wooed and won the heart of Miss May Deehan. The marriage followed, but domestic bliss soon came to an end, and they are alleged to have parted. About three years after the marriage Mrs. Hessey, No. 1, was driving with her sister near the asylum, when Hessey is alleged to have appeared on the scene with a big revolver, and endeavored to shoot the women. Hessey was a novice with firearms, and his do any harm, so the women escaped. A warrant was issued for Hessey's arrest, but he fled the country.

Since that time Hessey has lived in the United States, where he procured a divorce from May Deehan, and married wife No. 2.

A few weeks ago Hessey came back to London on a visit to his brother, and brought his American wife along. While here his child died, and Mrs. Hessey, No. 1, learning of his presence in the city, held an information charging him with insanity, and alleged that he had been committed to an asylum at Toledo, Ohio.

Hessey denies this. When asked by the court if he had ever been in an asylum, he said: "No; I was once in the state hospital."

Mr. McKillop said he had been advised differently, as wife No. 1 had received a telegram in reply to a message, stating that Hessey had been in the asylum. Wife No. 1 still claims Hessey as her husband.

About six weeks ago Hessey was taken ill and sent to the hospital here. After spending a few days in that institution he got up one morning at 5 o'clock and left the place in his bare feet.

The case was enlarged to allow of Hessey being examined. He was bailed to appear on Wednesday next.

Dr. Janeway would not tell anything about Mr. Kipling's condition, saying that there was nothing to add to the bulletins. It was learned, however, from other sources that Mr. Kipling is extremely weak. At times he recognizes those around him. Those at his bedside are Dr. Dunham, Mrs. Kipling, her mother, Mrs. Balesier, Mr. Doubleday, the children and two nurses.

The following bulletin was issued at 7 o'clock tonight: "Mr. Kipling's condition has been very serious during this the sixth day of the disease, giving rise to the gravest apprehension for the outcome."

At 8 o'clock the physicians were making almost constant use of oxygen. Their demeanor indicated a most critical stage of the disease. Mr. Kipling was delirious as the above bulletin was issued.

Neither Dr. Janeway nor Dr. Dunham would say a word, in fact, neither would the patient's side for more than a minute at a time.

At 10:20 o'clock the following bulletin was issued: "Mr. Kipling's condition remains the same as at last report. It was said at that hour that Mr. Kipling was very low and unconscious. New York, Feb. 27.—The condition of Rudyard Kipling at 8:30 a.m. was unchanged."

Mr. F. N. Doubleday, Mr. Kipling's publisher, who is at the sick man's bedside, said this morning: "Mr. Kipling is alive. That is hopeful. We are endeavoring to keep him alive by administering oxygen and by feeding him with the blood extract of beef."

"The crisis, we think, will come this morning. It is safe to say that if at the close of the day Mr. Kipling is still alive we may have great hope for his recovery."

The following bulletin was issued at 8:30 this morning: "Mr. Kipling has been during the night, and is still, very ill. (Signed), E. H. Janeway, Theodore Dunham."

New York, Feb. 27.—Later in the day close friends of Mr. Kipling guardedly expressed a hopefulness that was not apparent last night. Mr. Doubleday said that the author had passed a better night than could have been expected and was visibly better and resting easier at half-past nine this morning, though still in such a dangerous condition that no one could tell what any day might bring forth. Still Mr. Doubleday has strong hopes that Mr. Kipling would pass through the crisis of the illness successfully.

There is no material change in the serious situation on the Susquehanna River. The ice is packed solidly a distance of six miles.
