Cobalts Show Steadier Tone The Trading is Narrower PUT OVER TILL OCTOBER

Demand for Mining Stocks is Fully Equal to the Floating Supply-Otisse Active and Higher.

World Office,
Tuesday Evening, Sept. 28.
A steadler tone was apparent at the local markets for Cobalt stocks to-day, and the yesterday's appearance of marked buoyancy had to a certain extent disappeared, considerable strength this respect. The highest point reached was $12.80.

Kerr Lake was in fair demand around $9.15, or only a fraction under the high record of yesterday. Crown Reserve remained firm around the five dollar mark, but closed lower. La Rose was quiet, but with few offerings at $8.00.

The market on the whole displayed a firmer tone than during the period of depression of the last few weeks, but was not up to the buoyant attitude of Monday. Brokerage sentiment at the present time favors a better run of prices and it is altogether probable that this will be realized provided the public participate to any extent in transactions during the next few days.

A Novel Phase of Modern Advertising.

(Reprinted from New York Commercial.) This column has a distinct educational value to businessmen, be cause it gives them ideas on advertising that they can utilize. Our businessmen readers, as well as advertising agencies, are invited to express their views on the merit, value, growth and future of advertising. By such interchange of views great good, it is felt, will come to all participants.

There are two factors which should enter into the equipment of every adertising man.

The first of these is a general knowedge of the advertising proposition in all of its relations.

The second is a special knowledge of the proposition in its relation to his own particular business.

The first of course is indispensable to The first of course is indispensable to the other but at the same time is no substitute for the other. On the other hand it is equally true that a thorough knowledge of a given business does not necessarily involve a knowledge of how to advertise it successfully. These two factors are complimentary to each other and the successful advertiser can

In the early days of the typewriter when the new invention was practically unknown, the typewritten letter commended itself as a patural and logical way to advertise the writing inachine. It served a double purpose, for it told of the merits of the new machine and at the same time it gave a sample of the actual wock of the machine. Furthermore, and this after all is the main point, the time and labor saving effected by the typewriter furnished the hitherto missing factor which made the personal letter possible as an advertising proposition.
