LIFE AND LOVE

By Jean Blewett.

Bloom on, brave flower, in your sheltered nooks,
Flaunt wide your golden gleams, fair daffodil,
Sing, sing your maddest melody, oh brooks!
The world but yesterday was grey and chill.

Narcissus nestling 'mong the tender grass,
And violets blue as are the skies above,
A rapturous note thrills in the winds that pass:
"Two things there be immortal, Life and Love!"

Oh, lily, lifting up your fragrant breath
Where late the snowflakes drifted riotously,
You whisper soft: "Where is thy sting, oh, Death,
Oh, Grave, where is thy boasted victory?"

Each Eastertide a Resurrection Song
Fills every valley, every field and grove,
The growing green things chant it all day long:
"Two things there be immortal, Life and Love!"

GUILTY AS ADVERTISED.

Altho we plead guilty to being authors and originators we positively deny any desire to lead others to their Waterloo. If the thirty-day idea has proven too strong a temptation, we sincerely sympathize with any misguided competitor who may so far have strayed as to lay claim to a thirty-day ability. While we cannot prevent these rude imitations we can and must strenuously endeavor to protect the public against them. The celebrated Moon College enjoys the enviable distinction of being the one and only genuine 30-day Syl-lable Shorthand Institute in Toronto, altho branches are located in all leading cities. No one deplores more deeply than does Prof. Travers himself, the fact that some have been ensnared by so-called thirty-day stenography. Again we emphasize the fact that we, and we alone, are entitled to be styled a thirty-day shorthand college. "Seeing is believing." Moon College is open daily till 9 p. m. Hundreds of glowing Toronto testimonials are on file from satisfied graduates within the 30 days. Prof. Travers welcomes the "show me" man at 232-234 Yonge-street. "Come, see, and believe."

The Joker.
So you're 'way down in the dumps—
Blue, you say?
Think you've played out all your trumps?
Oh, go 'way!
Life's not like a game of poker;
In this game you use the Joker.
It's the card you hold the longest;
It's the one you find the strongest;
Laugh, and drive the blues away!
Laugh, I say!
—Jean Dwight Franklin, in Century.

A Good Cow.

A simple-hearted and truly devout country preacher, who had tasted but few of the drinks of the world, took dinner with a high-toned family where a glass of milk punch was quietly set down by each plate. In silence and happiness, this new Vicar of Wakefield quaffed his goblet, and then added: "Madam, you should daily thank God for such a good cow."—Once a Week.
