

Canadian Colliers

Quebec Number

Devoted specially to the great celebration at Quebec. In an interesting article entitled "Three Hundred O'Clock for Canada," Duncan Campbell Scott deals with the historical importance of the Tercentenary. Alongside of his article appears one by Alfred De Celles on the same subject, but in French. Then a Memorial Ode by William Chapman, the famous Canadian poet. The number also includes a bright, snappy account of Jubilee Week, by the Canadian editor, H. F. Gadsby; The story of Nelson's Visit to Quebec in 1782, by E. T. D. Chambers; numerous photographs; all the vital Canadian news, and the best features of the United States edition.

"It's a queer affair, sir. Did he really say he had lots more of 'em?"

"Yes, yes! Do you think I am romancing? Perhaps they are in his possession now."

"Have you any more of these stones, boy?"

Philip, with lips tensely set, was desperately cool again. He moved his arm, and the constable's grasp tightened.

"You are hurting me," said the boy, "I merely wish to put my hand in my pocket. Are you afraid of me, that you do not let me do so?"

"Nonsense, like the rest, did not fail to notice Philip's dictation. The scornful superiority of his words, the challenge of the final question, took him aback. He relaxed his grip and grinned confusedly.

Philip instantly produced his paper and diamonds and opened it widely so that all the stones could be seen. He handed the parcel to the policeman.

"Take good care of them, constable," he said. "Judging from results, they would not be safe in that man's hands. But Isaacstein did not hear the insult. When he saw the collection he nearly lost his senses. What had he done? Was he or the boy mad? Vain ideas oozed on that he clutched the desk for support. A score of a boy wandering about London with thousands of pounds' worth of diamonds in his pocket, wrapped up in a piece of newspaper like so many sweets. There were not any network of diamonds of such value in all the museums and private collections in the world. He began to perspire. Even the policeman, who had founded, quite as much as being called "constable" by Philip as by the mean appearance of articles presumably of great value.

"This is a rum go. What do you make of it, Mr. Isaacstein?" he said.

The query restored the Jew's wits. After all, here was the law speaking. It would have been the wildest folly for a man of his position to dabble in this mysterious transaction.

With a great effort he forced himself to speak.

"Lock him up instantly. This matter must be fully inquired into. And do be careful of that parcel, constable. What do you take him? To the Bridewell station? I will follow you in a cab in five minutes."

So Philip, handcuffed, was marched down the stairs past the gratified officer and out into the street.

As for Isaacstein, he required brandy, and not a little before he felt able to follow.

CHAPTER V.
Perplexing a Magistrate.

In after years Philip never forgot the shame of that marching through the streets. The earliest siders of London's busiest thoroughfares gathered around the policeman and his prisoner with grinning callousness.

"What's he bin a-doin' of?"

"Nicked a boy's purse, eh?"

"Naw! Bin ticklin' the till, more like."

"Bilme don't be lookin' like that!"

They ran and buzzed around like wasps, stinging most bitterly with coarse words and coarser laughter. An omnibus slowed its pace to let them across the road, and Philip knew that the people on top scanned their necks to have a good look at him. When nearing the viduet steps, the policeman growled something at the pursuing crowd. Another constable strode rapidly to the entrance and cut off the looters, sternly advising them to find some other destination. But the respite was a brief one. They reached Farringdon street, and had barely attracted attention before they passed the restaurant where Philip had lunched. The hour was yet early for mid-day customers, and the bald-headed proprietor saw them coming. He rushed out. The green-coat, too, turned from his wares and joined in the exclamations of his friend at his speedy denouement of the trivial incident of 20 minutes earlier.

The restaurant keeper was made jubilant by this dramatic vindication of the accuracy of his judgment.

Fashion Hint for Times Readers

MILADI'S MATINEE IS MARVELOUSLY BEAUTIFUL. So costly are the materials which contribute to the makeup of Miladi's matinee costume that it is quite as beautiful as many of the costumes worn for ceremonious occasions. The pompadour silks, which are to be more than ever fashionable during the coming winter, are employed for jackets as well as petticoats, designed solely for lounging. Sometimes the skirt is of pompadour satin of the same color, or of matching the ground of the printed fabric. Much fine lace insertion is employed as well as soutache embroidered net and insets of muslin figures appliqued upon flit.

ST. JOHN MAN KILLED ON DALHOUSIE BUILDING

William Wharton, White Engaged on Mason Work Fell to His Death.

The family of Samuel Wharton, 454 Main street, received word Saturday by telegram that he had been instantly killed by falling while working on mason work in a building at Dalhousie yesterday.

Mr. Wharton left town seven weeks ago under contract to work for Alfred Burns, master mason, on saw mills and other buildings in Dalhousie and vicinity. He was getting along well there and in a letter which reached home on Tuesday last he made no mention of returning.

The first intimation that anything had happened was the appearance of a telegraph messenger boy at the house about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He carried the sad intelligence of death due to accident, without giving particulars. It is believed, however, that a staging gave way and Mr. Wharton fell with it.

The body will be brought home this morning on the Maritime express. Mr. Wharton was a native of Chester (Eng.), and lived in St. John for twenty years. He leaves his wife and five children—Frank, Samuel, George, Teresa, and Helen—all at home. Two sisters—Mrs. William Burton and Mrs. James Toner of this city—and a brother, George Wharton, of England, also survive. Mr. Wharton was about forty-five years of age.

WHERE BIG TROUT FLOURISH

Writing from Saccanous, B. C., John B. St. John, writes:

"I have had some good sport fishing this summer, when I could get an hour or two in the evening. This is considered one of the best spots for lake fishing in B. C., and the trout are beautiful, some of them weighing as much as twelve or fourteen pounds, but I did not succeed in getting more than a seven pounder. There are different varieties, silver, rainbow, gray and Dolly Varden. Of course, there are lots of our old "chubs," but they are called Squawfish here, and I guess they are not eaten by anyone except Indians, Jews and Chinks. The water is so warm now that the fishing is off, unless one uses about 500 feet of line and a pound of lead."

POPULAR PICNIC.

The picnic of the Carleton Methodist Church will be held to-morrow at Westfield Beach. The Westfield Outing Association races will add to the enjoyment of the outing. No pains have been spared to make this the most pleasant outing of the season. Trains leave east and west sides at the usual hours, returning at 7:30 p. m.

BABY HAD DIARRHOEA FOR SEVEN WEEKS

Thousands of infants die annually who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY.

There can be no doubt about it. Sixty-three years experience has proved this sterling remedy to be the best for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, and all bowel troubles in both children and adults.

Many of the imitations sold are positively dangerous, as they often check the diarrhoea too suddenly and cause inflammation.

Always insist on the genuine Dr. FOWLER'S. Sold at all medicine dealers at 25 cents a bottle.

Mrs. A. B. De Marchand, Bath, N.B., writes: "My baby was troubled with Diarrhoea for nearly seven weeks. I tried three different doctors, but none of them could do her any good. I was advised to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and less than half a bottle cured her."

OBITUARY

Mrs. C. W. Hamilton

Salisbury, N.B., July 30.—It was learned here this morning, with deep sorrow, that Mrs. Hamilton, wife of Rev. C. W. Hamilton, pastor of the Salisbury Methodist church, had passed away about midnight. Hopes for recovery were entertained up to a few days ago, when her condition became worse and it was fully realized that the end was near. The funeral will take place Friday afternoon. A short service at the parsonage, conducted by Rev. Samuel Howard, of St. John, will be held, after which the body will be conveyed by rail to the deceased lady's old home at Port Elgin, when interment will take place. Because, who was the Rev. Mr. Hamilton's second wife, was formerly Miss Jessie A. Jones, of Port Elgin. She was in her 48th year, being just 47 years and 10 months old to a day at the time of her death. She was a lady whose sterling qualities made her many friends wherever her lot was cast and the deepest sympathy of this entire community goes out to Rev. Mr. Hamilton in his sad loss.

A WELL KNOWN POLICEMAN PASSED AWAY LAST NIGHT

William Boyle, for Thirty Three Years Connected With the Force is no More.

William Boyle, for thirty-three years a member of the police force of St. John, died last evening at his residence, 270 King street east, after four weeks illness. For the last seven years, Mr. Boyle had been relieved from active patrol duty, but remained in the service as janitor of the outside lockup. About a month ago he was obliged to discontinue his duties, owing to the progress of a heart trouble which had come upon him and he sank gradually. He had been in a serious condition for several days and his end was hourly expected. He was about fifty-nine years of age.

PICNICS YESTERDAY

St. Mary's Sunday school picnic was held at Westfield yesterday and was a noted with it are particularly pleased to have such a good report for the sector, Ven. Archdeacon Raymond, who will be home from England today or tomorrow. The attendance was larger than at any other picnic of the season. The picnic games were keenly enjoyed and all had a good time.

The Nickel still another novelty for its patrons. "The Plainclothesman," something that will appeal to nearly everybody—a good detective story in pictures, depicting the risks a plain clothes man takes when grappling with criminals in a big city. The scenes are laid in Chicago and the tracking down of the polished villain and his ramsy accomplices make most engrossing "looking." This is one of the Essanay films, the people who made the "Lord For a Day," "How the Mortgage Was Lifted," and other great picture successes shown at the Nickel. In addition to this strong feature there will be a couple of good comedies—"The Near-Sighted Professor and Awfully Mixed Up," "Miss Foley will sing her latest hit, "Take a Trip to Luna With Me," and Mr. Gurney's version of "See-Saw," which wonderfully well last night.

Announcement was made, at the Nickel last evening, of the engagement of the wonderful Humanoid to commence Monday next at noon. This is a New York company of actors and actresses who will put on motion picture plays of a special character, supplying the words and incidental effects from behind a transparent curtain. It is a great New York feature and St. John will be the first in Canada to get it.
