IS STRUCK DEAD BY LIGHTNING

George Smith of St. Martins Killed in Concord With Fellow Employee on Large Farm—Body Taken Home

Lightning instantly killed George A. Smith, aged 47, of St. Martins, and Oswald Rauscher, of Concord (Mass.), during a heavy storm at the latter place on Tuesday evening. Both were employed on a large stock farm outside of Concord, of which J. D. Smith, a brother of the dead man, was manager. During the early part of the storm Smith and Rauscher went out to a windmill to start the auxiliary gas to a windmill to start the auxiliary gas pump. As time wore on and they did not return Manager Smith went to the windmill to ascertain what was keeping them. He never dreamed, however, that anything of a serious nature had occurred. He was horrified on reaching the pumping station to find his brother and Rauscher dead at the base of the steel tower of the big windmill. It is supposed that the tower acted as a conductor for the lightning which struck the men as they were at work at the auxiliary gasoline pump.

George A. Smith had been a resident of Concord for six or seven years and had worked during that time on the farm in which he was killed. Surviving him are Mrs. Daniel Smith, his mother, and a brother, Daniel, two sisters, Mrs. DeLong and Miss Lizzie Smith, all of St. Martins, and J. D. Smith, Misses Effie and Mary Smith in Concord. The body was taken through the city at noon today en route to St. Martins, accompanied by his brother and sister, Concord, and Alex. Paul, an uncle.

MORE ST. JOHN PRODUCTS SENT WEST

Carloads of Brooms to Calgary and Vancouver and More Likely to Follow—The Growth of a Local Industry

And still the orders come from the west for St. John goods. The S. Simms & Co. company have received orders for two more carloads of brooms, one to go to Calgary and the other to Vancouver and they have good prospects of other orders from the same source within a very short time.

Since the first of the year the firm have shipped seven or eight cars of brooms to western points and heavy shipments of brooms have also been made. They are now importing great quantities of broom corn from Hungary and Spain, owing to the scarcity of the raw material here.

The rapid advance made by this firm in recent years in reaching out to the west for business is a strong argument in favor of St. John as a manufacturing centre for the whole dominion. What this firm can do in the way of securing business for their products can be duplicated by other industries if they exercise the same enterprise in getting after the trade.

When the firm of T. S. Simms & Company was doing a real business in the city, they employed about fifty hands; now, as a result of the developments westward, they employ about 200. At present they are crowded for room, despite the fact that their building was planned to meet the requirements for several years to come. The machines and the workers are being placed closer together in order to add to the equipment necessary to cope with the increasing business.

It is said that one of the crowd was stabbed. Two of the party went last night to the office of Dr. Day and asked him to attend to their injuries.
