DR. R. NORWOOD ADDRESSES HIS FELLOW AUTHORS

Canadian Literature Alive and Good, but Not Justly Criticized.

Ottawa, March 15.—Canadian literature falters and is retarded at the stumbling block of Canadian literary criticism. Canadian literature is alive and good, Canadian literary criticism that damns it is decayed and bad. But the makers of Canadian literature can surmount the obstacle. Canadian literature can be advanced to the place in which it rightfully belongs and the fortunes of Canadian authors correspondingly improved through the development, by Canadian authors themselves, of criticism that will be just.

This advice was given Canadian authors at the monthly supper of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Authors' Association here last night by one who claims to have suffered at the hands of Canadian critics, but who nevertheless, has gone forward to distinction, Dr. Robert Norwood, Canadian writer of prose and poetry, lecturer and preacher, who is now rector of St. Paul's Memorial church, Philadelphia.
