BOSTON, July 18 .- The terrible dis aster at Isle of Shoals, by the capsizing or a pleasure boat in a sudden squall, by which 14 lives were lost, brings death home to a wide circle including three families in New Bruns wick and Nova Scotia.

W. E. Alward is a Frederictonian Bertha Graham, another victim, belonged to Dartmouth, N. S., and Minnie McDonald, residence given as Prospect street, Cambridgeport, Mass., is also a Nova Scotian. Miss Graham's body will be taken home for interment. Miss Graham resided at Dan-

W. E. Alward, whose name appears among the list of drowned in the press report of the fatality at the Isle of Shoals, N. H., was the third son of Abram Alward, provincial librarian, this city. He graduated from the university with the degree of B. A. with high honors in 1897, and was the winner of the alumni gold medal for that year. After graduating he obtained grammar school license and for two vears taught at Sussex; then he went to Harvard, where he took the degree of M. A., and afterwards entered on the study of law. He had two years of his course completed and would have graduated next year. In his course at Harvard, as at U. N. B., he distinguished himself and was recognized by the faculty of the law school as one of its brightest and most promising students. Needless to say, the news of his death, which was conveyed to the family by Rev. J. H. McDonald, was a severe blow to the young man's parents.

The Boston Globe says: W. A. Alward, another of the victims, is a native of Fredericton, N. B., and has been for some years studying at Harvard. It was there that he met Farrington, and the two went to the Isles of Shoals together, Alward becoming head waiter by reason of his experience in that line in previous summers. Alward roomed at Fairfax hall, on Masachusetts avenue. He tool a four years' course, and last June completed the second year of a gradu-

The steamer having on board the coroner, Under taker Nickerson and his assistants, and several newspaper men, arrived at pledore islands shortly after 10 tonight, and after the bodies were viewe by the coroner it was decided to take

THE SPHINX Is Rapidly Decaying Owing to Egypt's Altering Climate.

NEW YORK, July 18.- A specia cable to the Tribune, says D. G. Longworth of Cairo, who is just now in England, brings warning that the Egyptian Sphinx is rapidly decaying. It will not now, he says, be able long to withstand the altering climate of Egypt, due to the irrigation schemes of recent years. The Sphinx is at Gizeh, Egypt, about a quarter of a mile southeast of the Great Pyramid. According to presen archaeological opinion, it is older any of the pyramids. It consists of an enormous figure of a crouching sphinx of the usual Egyptian type hewn from the natural rock, with the flaws and cavities filled in with masonry. The body is 140 feet long, the head measures about 30 feet from the top o the forehead to the chin, and is 14 feet wide. Except the head and shoulders the figure has for ages generally buried in the desert sand. The face despite the mutilation of eyes and nose, due to Mohammedan fanaticism mpresses by its calm dignity. low head dress extends broadly outward on each side. A long rock-cu passage, composed of inclined plan and steps leads down in front to th extended forepaws of the Sphinx, which are fifty feet long and cased with me sonry. Between the paws were found an altar, and a crouching lion with fragments of others, and three large inscribed tablets, one 14 feet high against the Sphinx's breast, and two others extending from it on each side,

Extract From Letter From Lieut. Ralph

KLERKSDORP, June 12.-We have peace at last, but it is hard to realize, and were it not for the Boers we see riding about, one would certainly think the war was still on.

One commando of 400 came in here several days ago. They went right through our camp. It was a sight worth seeing, such a motley crowd, some well dressed, others in rags, and some in khaki with military buttons taken off. They did not look as though they were beaten by any means. Commandant Wolmarans was of water came against the boat, and in command. It is amazing to see the ingenuity they show in repairing their clothing, saddlery, etc.

The commando passed through our lines and on to Klerksdorp, where they were fed by the British. A good many have gone back to their farms, others to Natal and different places to get their wives and families.

I talked with several; they all seem ed glad of peace, but say they have absolutely nothing in the world. The other night at the George Hotel Wolmarans, DeVilliers and other Boers were at dinner. Aftrewards someone tarted playing the piano. We all joined hands and sang Auld Lang Syne. It looked very odd to see Boers sandwiched in between Britsh officers. Gladstone, as representatives of the members of Kingston Deanery, called on Mr. and Mrs. Warneford with an address, read by the rural dean, congratulating them on having attained the 50th anniversary of their wedding day, accompanied by a golden souvenir, and shortly after, a deputation from the congregation of Christ church, Upper Norton, namely, James Hughson and John Raymond brought, like the first, a most kind and flattering address, enclosed with a souvenir, all of which were most unexpected, for Mr. and Mrs. W. had no dea that the anniversary was known beyond the family. Later in the evening the sons and their families met to ender their good wishes and souvenirs, bringing some choice flowers sent with congratulations by a lady of Central Norton.

Through the columns of the Sun Mr. and Mrs. Warneford wish to offer their sincerest thanks for the great kindless and good feeling that prompted the act, and the expressions of appre-ciation contained in each address.

A NEW BRUNSWICK CURE AT ST. (St. John Freeman.)

On Sunday morning, the 6th inst., was at Ste. Ann's de Beaupre and in ports by D. C. Firth. that beautiful church he offered up the holy sacrifice of the mass for his people both in the cathedral parish and his diocese. On the Sunday that he was there pilgrims to the number of four thousand were at Ste. Ann's, and they came from all parts of Can-ada and the United States. Visitors to this holy shrine tell us of the great number of crutches, canes, etc., that the afflicted have left behind them as a proof of the wonderful cures. We, here in New Brunswick, do not hear so much about the good St. Anne wondrous cures effected through her intercession; however, we have some evidence of her love for the fflicted. The following story is from the lips of the father of a child who was cured at the shrine of Ste. Anne: Some four years ago a daughter o she could keep on creeping.

This was the only way for three years that the little one could move about, as she was perfectly helpless. In July, 1901, there was to be a pilgrimage from St. Joseph's (Meniramcook) to Ste. Anne, and this little child had heard about it, and had heard also of the many wonderful cures, so she begged her father to purchase the only remaining ticket then unsold so that she could go to Ste.

Anne's. The father had several miles to go the party who had the ticket, and he purchased it. The fololwing morning the mother and the child Anne with other pilgrims. There are numbers who were on that train and saw the child carried into the cars. They saw her on the way home again. After she was back in Richibucto about a month the little cripple began to grow strong from day to day. She began to improve until now she is a trong, healthy child and runs about from place to place with her playmates and also attends school. The father in speaking of his child will say that there have been many prominent people asking him about th child, her present health, etc. To all inquiries he replies that the cure is due to the intercession of good Ste. Anne, On the train to Ste. Arme on which the little girl travelled was Mrs. (Judge) Landry. She heard of the cure, and asked the judge to see the child and confirm the report, if true, which he has done.
