(2) Was it because I was said to be a galloper to Lord Roberts and conveying despatches to bim? (3) Or was it because of anything I had written in my diary which I wrote after I was a prisoner in the train between Kroonstad and Pretoria? Mr. Marks' re-ply is appended below, which shows the falseness of Davis' statement: Held on Aecount of Diary. "Pretoria, May 16. "Dear Sir—I have pleasure in acknow-ledging the receipt of your letter of the 5th inst., but regret to state it was only delivered to me today. I at once saw the state attorney and handed him your letter for perusal. He desires me to inform you that the last reason suggested by you is the one that causes your detention, viz, your diary, and this alone. It is therefore not necessary to refer to the two cases Paris lumps, boxes blue pencil, as showing the reasons why I was detained. I received orders to return to Dewets-dorf under the care of the Landrost, and a man called Villanel, the telegraph clerk, who had also got to answer the Boer gen-eral for taking the English oath. It was a curious and, I should imagine, an almost unique incident, that I, a prisoner, was Fitz for Chicago. New York, Sept. 7—Bob Fitzsimmons has decided he will become a resident of Chicago. He has not fully mapped out his plans but he has in view a gymnasium, heritare ached and hillerd hall combined a curious and, I should imagine, an almost unique incident, that I, a prisoner, was sent back in the custody of two other prisoner, but I think my jailers felt their position more seriously than I did mine. At any rate, they both tried to make me comfortable as we started back in the best element, he says, will be catered to, and the average cheap sport and would be puglist will be asked to keep out. This move has been decided on in obedience to the wishes of Mrs. Fitzsimmons. She is any rate, they both tried to make me comfortable as we started back in the dark, and while I listened to them dis-cusing their probable punishment I be-gan to plan my escape. I had learned ...at the British forces had only left that morn-ing from Dewetsdarf and they were had the British forces had only left that morn-ing from Dewetsdorf, and they were be-lieved to be on the road to Riedesburg. It was their departure which caused the sum-moning of this Boer commando. Their in-tention was to cut off the little British force it possible, and the fight was ex-pected next morning. I gleaned that the British had no guns, that the Boer com-mando was then about fourteen hundred strong and would be reinforced during the night by another eight hundred, with ing it easy. batant,' and a peer of England. What makes his position the more humiliating is that the Boers have learned from his diary that he is not a non-combatant, as he claims, but a commissioned officer of the Queen. It seems a heavy price to offer for one's liberty, and especially when the trick is found out. It makes one won-der if Her Majesty is not in sore distress for officers if she gives commissions to peers of England who repudiate their oath of allegiance to her for the sake of their personal comfort." I now ask to make a reply to the above, and trust that it will be given equal prom-inence in the Herald to the attack made upon me by Davis.
