

D.K.E.s And Symphony Combine Tuesday

The University Symphony Orchestra is presenting a concert in Convocation Hall on Tuesday, Feb. 21. Mr. Robert Stangeland will play Schumann's A minor Concerto and Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity will sing the numbers with which they won the Pan-Hellenic Inter-Fraternity Song Festival.

The Fraternity singers, directed by Sinclair Young, made several firsts with their performance last week; their mark (170 out of 200) is the highest yet awarded to a male chorus in the annual Festival.

They were the first winning men's group to have a higher mark than the winning women's group; and their singing with the Symphony, at the invitation of Prof. Crighton and the students in the orchestra, is the first occasion on which the winners of Song Fest have been so honored.

Mr. Stangeland, an Assistant Professor of Music at the University, has won awards at various Conservatories at which he has studied. In 1952 he won a Graduate Fellowship at the Eastman-Rochester School of Music.

In 1958 he performed Beethoven's "Emperor" Concerto with the Denver Symphony, and this coming April he will be accompanying Mezzo-Soprano Martha Lipton of the Metropolitan Opera.

Mr. Stangeland, who was highly praised for a previous performance of the Schumann Concerto, is making his first major solo appearance at the University in this concert.

The University Symphony will be conducted by Prof. Crighton of the Music Department. The program consists of the following works in addition to the Schumann concerto: Beethoven's The Glory of God in Nature and Overture to Leonore No. 3; Saint-Saens' Dance Macabre; The Skaters Waltz by Waldteufel; the Intermezzo from Mascagni's Cavalleria Rusticana and the Polka and Fugue from Weinberger's opera Schwanda.

Tickets for this 8:15 performance may be obtained from members of the orchestra, at the Allied Arts Box Office in Heintzman's, or at the door.

A Challenge to

Alberta Bed Pushers

Fearing that Alberta is being left out of the bed-pushing competition Irv Tillotsen and Paul Jardine have challenged any team from U of AC to enter the contest.

The present record for bed-pushing is at present held by the University of Western Ontario. Last Friday, Feb. 10, they pushed a bed 103 miles in sub-zero weather from Windsor to London in 11 hours and 10 minutes.

The previous record was that of 102 miles set by a hardy group of nine junior varsity basketball players and 13 other interested students from UNB. This record was achieved in 14 hours, by rolling the bed over open country in 25 below zero weather Feb. 7.

The record up to this year was that of 70 miles set by Waterloo University.

The contest is conducted according to strict rules. (1) Any bed can be used so long as it is equipped with wheels (preferably strong ones) (2) There must be at least one female undergraduate in the bed at all times during the race, except when the bed is motionless. (3) All competitors must be registered undergraduate students at either branch of the U of A. (4) The bed must be propelled by man-power only.

Formal acceptance of this challenge is still pending. The opposing team will be charged a penalty. They must provide coffee and sandwiches to be shared at Red Deer on the return trip.

Swim Meet Bears vs Sask.

Saturday, the swimming Bears will again gird their loins to fight the good fight, this time at home in a triangular meet in which the University of Saskatchewan team, as well as a composite Edmonton high school team will compete.

It is expected that such well-known high school swimmers as Doug Hannah and Terry Nimmon will be taking part in the meet, which portends an exciting struggle between the U of A team and the high school aquatics.

The meet will commence at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the U of A pool.

Territorial Ambition Dept.: It's pre-campaign time at U of A, and all the square wheels are rolling around drumming up flag-wavers and buttering up big-stick wavers.

EVERYBODY ON THE BANDWAGON! No hangers-back; no hangers-on. A job for everyone and everyone does his job. Yesireebob ORGANIZATION, that's the key. Let's run up the old campaign flag and see if the voters salute. And remember, put the jam on the lower shelf so the little man can get it.

Knives are being slipped cunningly into rival backs and twisted as supporters line up with the candidate of their choice and sneer at the opposition. Already, you can see it in SUB, in the Library smoking room, in Caf. Lobby, lobby! Stab, stab! A word here; a smile there. Don't lose the common touch, candidates. If you don't know his name, say "Hi, GUY!" anyway. A vote gained is one lost for the other side.

This is the time of year one learns to dread phone calls. Three a.m. Dead tired. Time to hit the pit. Echhhh! Phone rings. Mumbling sleepy voice at the other end: "Uhhh . . . I was thinking of running for Poobah of the Ways and Means Committee. Could you see . . . uhhh . . . your way clear to working actively on my campaign?" There is a standard answer to this query which involves a considerable amount of beating about the proverbial bush. I prefer a less subtle approach, to wit, "Go to Hell!" One will find this frank approach will normally discourage further attempts. Do not be flattered when somebody asks you to work on their campaign. Chances are they are looking for a fall guy to do their dirty work. Don't bite, sucker.

Ninety per cent of the people who run for Student Union positions are doing it solely because they want to see their name in lights. Very rarely does a candidate come forward who desires a position because he likes the work and wants to serve the students. All the rest are the 'death-or-glory' boys. On our stage, one night only, the Thinking Man's Fink! "Vote as you please, but please vote for . . . me. I am for motherhood and against sin!" As it was in the campus elections of the past, is now, and ever shall be . . . ad nauseum.

Better the 'death-or-glory' boys should get together and push a hospital bed to Calgary during campaign week. They're so popular, everybody will wave good-bye!

Editor's Note

Mr. C. D. Evans has accepted the position of campaign manager for one of the presidential candidates.
