

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER IX.

HORSE BARNs AND STABLES.

Section 1.—Dimensions of Stable. Section 2.—Stable Ventilation.—Ventilation in City Stables.—The Necessity of Ventilation.—A Summary of Points. Section 3.—Stable Drainage.—Earth Saturation and Stable Drainage.—Stable Drainage and Welfare of Animals.—Deodorization in Stables. Section 4.—Combined Barn and Stable. Section 5.—Arrangement of Stables. Section 6.—Stable Furniture. Section 7.—The Stable Shed. 70

CHAPTER X.

ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY OF THE HORSE.

Section 1.—Value of a Correct Knowledge of Animals. Section 2.—Muscular Development. Section 3.—Cutaneous Muscles. Section 4.—The Limbs and Feet of the Horse.—The Hoof.—The Wall.—The Quarters.—The Bars.—The Frog. Section 5.—The Movement of the Foot.—Tendons. Section 6.—Dissection of the Foot. Section 7.—Ligaments, Tendons and their Uses.—Blood Vessels.—Nerves.—Movements of the Joints. 78

CHAPTER XI.

INTERNAL ECONOMY OF THE HORSE.

Section 1.—The Vital Organs. Section 2.—Organs of Sensation.—Functions of the Nervous System.—Influence of the Nervous System with Reference to Disease. Section 3.—Arterial and Venous System.—Section 4.—The Breathing Organs. Section 5.—The Digestive Organs.—Office of Dupuration in the Animal Economy. Section 6.—The Organs of Generation. 88

CHAPTER XII.

EXTERNAL EXAMINATIONS OF THE HORSE.

Section 1.—The Head and Neck.—Section 2.—Body of the Horse. Section 3.—The Points of the Horse.—The Back.—The Tail.—The Hind Quarters.—Rear View of Limbs.—The Fore Quarters.—Side View of Front Feet. 92

CHAPTER XIII.

THE TEETH—THEIR WEAR AND PECULIARITIES.

Section 1.—Why Horses' Teeth Differ.—Other Guides to Age.—Structural Alterations of the Teeth.—Bishoping.—Illustrating the Wear of the Teeth. Section 2.—Structural Changes of the Teeth.—The Back Teeth, called Molars or Grinders.—The Anterior Teeth or Incisors.—Distinction between Temporary and Permanent Incisors.—The Temporary or Milk Incisors.—The Permanent Teeth.—Drawing of Milk Teeth.—The Mark of the Teeth.—The Fang-Hole or Secondary Mark.—Further Changes Indicating Age.—Triangularity.—Slope.—The Tusks. 98

CHAPTER XIV.

DISABILITIES AND UNSOUNDNESS.

Section 1.—What Constitutes Unsoundness.—Definition of Unsoundness. Section 2.—Disabilities. Section 3.—Unsoundness. Section 4.—How to Examine a Horse. 107

CHAPTER XV.

MULES AND ASSES AND THEIR BREEDING.

Section 1.—Difference Between the Horse and Ass.—The Ass and his Relatives.—A New Wild Species. Section 2.—What is a Mule?—Crosses vs. Hybrids. Section 3.—Special Uses of Mules. Section 4.—Climates Adapted to Mules. Section 5.—How to Breed Mules.—A Breeder's Experience.—Selection of the Jack. Section 6.—Treatment and Training.—Feeding.—General Care. Section 7.—Training to Labor. 110