"GET A BOX OF MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS."

He says: "I have been ailing for about a year from deranged nerves, and very often weak spells would come over me and be so bad that I sometimes thought I would be unable to survive them. I have been treated by doctors and have taken numerous preparations but none of them helped me in the least. I finally got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Before taking them I did not feel able to do any work, but now I can work as well as ever, thanks to one box of your pills. They have made a new man of me, and my advice to any person troubled as I was, is to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow—David's Grief over Absalom—II. Sam., 18, 224-33.

Golden Text—"A foolish son is a grief to his father."

We find King David between the inner and outer gate of the city of Mahanaim waiting in awful suspense for tidings of the battle now on between the Royal and rebel forces, which was to decide whose head should wear the crown. He had not long to wait. As King the victory was good news; as father, it was far outweighed by the death of Absalom, his son. His grief was great because of his death of ignominy, by his wasted life, his despised memory and his hopeless future, and David's own responsibility as father. God loved David with a far greater love than David loved his son, yet he did not let David go unpunished, and unrebuked. God's grace and righteousness chastised him. Had David dealt with Absalom in a similar way, and trained up his child in the way he should go, he would not be now asking—when too late—is the young man safe? When is a young man safe in this sinful world, anyway? This is a question for every young man, for his parents, for the church and the world. No young man or woman is safe unless saved by the grace of God, and is a devoted Christian, whose daily communion with God is the source of his strength, when he carries Christ's precepts in to daily practice, when he takes heed to his ways according to God's word, then only is he safe whether prince or peasant. In the purest love of an earthly father we have a faint shadow of the great love of our Heavenly Father. "Would I had died for thee," cried the weeping David; but the weeping Jesus, (King eternal, immortal, invisible) "by the grace of God tasted death for every man." All may live since Jesus died. "For God God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have eternal life."

"WILFUL WASTE"

That old copybook maxim finds its most forceful application in the waste of vitality, which is called "burning the candle at both ends." A woman is often tempted beyond her strength by domestic or social demands. Some day she awakes from this waste of strength to the woeful want of it. She has become weak, nervous and miserable.

For weak, nervous, run-down women, there is no better tonic and nerve than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores the appetite, quiets the nerves and gives refreshing sleep. It cures local diseases peculiarly womanly which undermine the general health. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"No doubt you have forgotten me, but after you read my letter you will remember me," writes Mrs. Anna E. Morley, 638 E. Avenue, S. W., Koonoke, Va. "In the year 1897, I wrote to you for advice, which you gave me free of charge. When I wrote to you I was in a bad case. I could not walk straight for pains in my abdomen; could not sit down, lie down, or get any ease at all. I had what was called the best doctor here but did not get any better until I went through a course of your medicine. I took eight bottles each of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and ten bottles of 'Pleasant Pellets.' I tell you the medicine made a cure of me."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

DROVE AWAY BOTH DISEASES.

Geo. Robertson Cured His Kidneys by Using Dodd's Kidney Pills

And His Rheumatism and Dropsy Departed Never to Return—He Makes a Statement.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 2.—(Special).—The illness and cure of Mr. George Robertson, of 39 St. Antoine street, this city, is further and convincing proof that Rheumatism and Dropsy are both the results of Diseased Kidneys. Mr. Robertson had Dropsy and Rheumatism for five years. He cured his Kidneys by using Dodd's Kidney Pills and both diseases departed for good. Speaking of his case Mr. Robertson says:

"I had been troubled with Dropsy and Rheumatism for five years. I am now well, and it is all owing to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before I started using them I could hardly put my feet to the floor they were swollen so much from Dropsy. My arms used to swell at times so that I could not put my coat on."

"A friend advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, offering to pay for them if they did not help me. Before I had used the second box I felt a great improvement. I took seven boxes in all and I don't know what it is to be sick since."

Extraordinary Letters.

Some extraordinary letters, says The London Express, have passed between the builders employed by the Wesleyan Methodist body for the erection of the new headquarters on the site of the Westminster Aquarium, and Mr. W. J. Glover of King's Heath, a prominent member of the temperance party in Birmingham. As the whole of the site is not required for the Wesleyan building, portions are advertised to be let on lease, and Mr. Glover wrote to inquire if there would be any objection to a tenant taking out a liquor license. The reply was in the negative. The Wesleyan body would "not make any restriction as to license, but the arrangements for obtaining such a license would be left to the tenant." This drew from Mr. Glover the following remarkable reply:—"On seeing your huge advertisement on the dismantled building, inviting applications for leasing the spare land, I endeavored to satisfy a sceptical friend by proving that the Wesleyan Conference would at least keep their property clear of the liquor traffic. In order to prove this I wrote to you. Remembering how Nonconformists have criticized the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for being the land-owners of many public house sites in Westminster, and knowing that in deference to public opinion they had in recent years reasonably given up the business, I am staggered to find that after the beerhouse and gin-palace lapsed into the hands of the Established Church, they find sanctuary for eighty years within the precincts of the headquarters of Wesleyan Methodism and on its freehold."

A Canadian Commissioned.

The Canadian Gazette says:—Lieut. Gordon B. Johnson, Royal Engineers, has been ordered on foreign service—Ceylon. Lieut. Johnson is a graduate (1900) of the Royal Military College, Kingston. A few months after leaving after institution he was offered a commission in the Royal Engineers, which was accepted. After taking the usual course at Chatham, he was transferred to the mounted company stationed at Colchester. He is a son of Mr. J. W. Johnson, Belleville, Ont. On January 1st last the Royal Military College, Kingston was represented in the army numerically as follows:—Commissioned in the cavalry, 1; Royal Artillery, 3; Royal Engineers, 40; Infantry, 36; Army Service Corps, 10; India Staff Corps, 7.

English Hard Luck.

English patriotism excuses everything. Every defeat is called merely bad luck, and English faults and shortcomings—everything English in fact—are stubbornly defended for the sole reason that they are English. Nobody gumbles less at official incompetence than the good English citizen. He will defend his compatriots and institutions as a father defends his family; and it is owing to this spirit of devotion to his country, its customs, institutions, achievements and shortcomings that the Englishman has attained a certain greatness that helps him over many a defeat in war, or in the domain of science or life.—Die Zeit, Vienna.

The Professor's Advice.

Tit-Bits says that a venerable professor of a noted medical college was addressing the graduating class "Gentlemen," he said, "you are going out into the world of action. You will likely follow in some degree the example of those who have preceded you. Among other things you may marry. Let me entreat you to be kind to your wives. Be patient with them. Do not fret under petty domestic trials. When one of you asks your wife to go driving, do not worry if she is not ready at the appointed time. Have a treatise on your speciality always with you. Read it while you wait, and I assure you, gentlemen, and the professor's kindly smile seemed to show a trace of irony, "you will be astonished at the vast amount of information you will acquire in this way."

Further Experiences.

Major Powell Cotton, Northumberland Fusiliers, details of whose adventures in hitherto unexplored parts of Central Africa have already been given in The Daily Mail, has related some further experiences to a representative of Reuters Agency. "While elephant-hunting on the southwest slope of Kenya," said the major, "we were lost for a time in the almost impenetrable forests, and while descending a bamboo slope an elephant, of whose presence we were quite unaware, and which was not visible until we saw him charging down on us at eight paces distance, fell shot through the brain at seven paces." The party eventually struck the route followed by the Macdonald expedition. In one village some stores left in two huts by Major Macdonald, in charge of the local chiefs, had been defended against would-be marauders for years, though much of the flour, etc., must long since have become decomposed. Hundreds of the defenders had lost their lives in the fighting. Halfway between Lakes Rudolf and Albert a race people known as the Galla and Galla were met. They lived in two-story houses, the upper floor being approached by a doorway which reached by a rude ladder. These natives, though held in awe by their warlike neighbors, were quite friendly. At the foot of a mountain range hundreds of elephant skeletons were found. The guides said that this was known as "the place where the elephants came to die," and that the natives regularly came to cut the ivory from the dead beasts.

An Interesting Presentation.

The German Emperor has just made an interesting presentation to the Hohenzofern Museum. It consists of the "death-dice," by the help of which one of the Emperor's ancestors decided a difficult case in the seventeenth century. How they came to be known as the "death-dice" is thus related by The London Tatler:—"A beautiful young girl had been murdered, and suspicion fell on two soldiers, Ralph and Alfred, who were tried by a jury. The Emperor's ancestor, Prince Frederick William, the Kaiser's ancestor, decided to cut the Gordian knot by the dice-box. The two soldiers should throw for their lives, the loser to be executed as the murderer. The event was decided with great pomp and solemnity, and the Prince himself assisted at this appeal to divine intervention, as it was considered by everybody, including the accused themselves. Ralph was given the first throw, and he threw sixes, the highest possible number, and to doubt felt jubilant. The dice-box was then given to Alfred, who fell on his knees and prayed. 'Almighty God, Thou knowest I am innocent. Protect me, I beseech Thee!' Rising to his feet, he threw the dice with such force that one of them broke in two. The unbroken one showed six; the broken one also showed six on the larger portion, and the bit that had been split off showed one, giving a total of thirteen, or one more than the throw of Ralph. The whole audience thrilled with astonishment, while the Prince exclaimed, 'God has spoken!' Ralph, regarding the miracle as a sign from heaven, confessed his guilt, and was sentenced to death. It is probable that Alfred ever after did not number himself among those who look upon thirteen as an unlucky number."
