THE NINTH JUBILEE AT GLASGOW UNIVERSITY

Toronto Representatives Accorded a Most Hearty Welcome by the Scotchmen. STRIKING AND MEMORABLE OCCASION One of the Toronto Union's Delegates Gives an Interesting Report of the Proceedings.

Some time last spring the secretary of the Students' Union received a letter from the secretary of the one attached to the University of Glasgow, asking for Toronto to elect two delegates to represent the college at the ninth jubilee of the Glasgow University. Accordingly, Messrs. McCredie and Ingram were appointed and left for Scotland at the close of the college term, arriving at the Scotch commercial city on June 11.

PRESIDENT LOUDON, U. OF T.

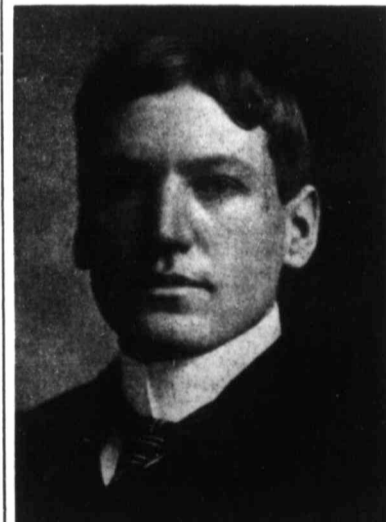

The proceedings connected with the jubilee commenced on the Tuesday night of the same date, with the reception of the representatives of the students and faculties of other universities, among whom were President Loudon, Professors VanderSmussen and Lang, and Messrs. McCredie and Ingram of the University of Toronto. Bailie Cleland, the senior magistrate, on behalf of the civic authorities, gave the address of welcome in the municipal buildings, while Mr. Edward Mitchell, on behalf of the students, acknowledged it. Afterwards the students did so in the form of a torch-light procession. The collegians mustered in great force, and the costumes in which the majority were arrayed were most fantastic, while the bonnets were very grotesque. The delegates rode in chaises-a-banc, and received ovations at every corner.

Wednesday morning a commemorative service was held in the Cathedral, where academic robes and official costumes of the university officials, guests, and delegates and the summer finery of the many ladies present added brightness and color to the scene. The service opened with the singing of the hundredth psalm, after which Dr. Muir offered a supplicatory prayer. Principal Lang of Aberdeen University read the first lesson, Proverbs iv., 7-13, after which the choir rendered "Te Deum Laudamus." The Bishop of Ripon then read the second lesson, Cor. I., ch. xiii., Dr. Donald MacLeod offered prayer for the Church, the King and Queen and Royal Family, Parliament, the magistracy, and the University. Dr. McAdam Muir took for his text the motto of the university, "The way, the truth, and the life," St. John, ch. xiv., 6. He entered upon an eloquent defence of the cosmopolitan work and position of the University and its teachers, which he followed up with a remarkably impressive tribute to the college itself, the glories of the past, the achievements of the present, and the promise of the future. Referring to the ninth jubilee, he acknowledged the debt which the country owed to Bishop Turnbull and Pope Nicholas V., for constituting the University. Principal Story pronounced the benediction.

In the afternoon the foreign delegates and representatives of other British universities were formally received by the Glasgow University authorities in Bute Hall.

The list of delegates was a formidable one, including those from foreign countries and the colonies. But none got a more hearty reception than President Loudon and Professors VanderSmussen and Lang of Toronto, the latter of whom, being an old Glasgow University man, received the ovation of the day. The boys cheered again and again, and sang lustily "He's a jolly good fellow." It is no more than right to say that his popularity at Glasgow reached Toronto before he had been there very long.

WM. H. INGRAM, '02, U. OF T.

The hall was specially decorated for the occasion. Flags of all nationalities were displayed on the pillars and other vantage places. Among those who accompanied Principal Story to the platform were members of the court and Senate, professors of the university, and Lord Provost Chisholm and the magistrates of the city of Glasgow, the graduates received an ovation on coming forward to be capped. Among those who were thus specially distinguished were Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Earl Beauchamp, the Marquis of Dufferin, Canada's favorite ex-Governor-General, the Earl of Glasgow, Lord Strathcona, Sir William MacCormac, Sir Ian Hamilton, Sir Archibald Hunter, two South African heroes, and our own President Loudon, all of whom received the degree of LL.D., while the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Ripon received the degree of D.D.

In the afternoon a garden party was given at Queen Margaret College, at which frock coats, silk hats, and dainty costumes enlivened the beautiful grounds and drives around the stately buildings. In the evening the conversation was held at Bute Hall, where learned professors and the noted men in the various walks of life mingled freely with the festive undergrad. from every part of the world.

In the forenoon of Friday an oration on William Hunter by Prof. Young was delivered by Prof. Bower in Bute Hall, which was followed by an organ recital. The same afternoon there was an at-home in the Art Galleries of the Exhibition at Kelvin Grove. In addition to the galleries, the South Kiosk and Miss Cranston's tea-house were barricaded off for the exclusive use of the invited guests, who on entering were received by Principal and Mrs. Story. The company was a distinguished one, and included most of the prominent men and women present in the city in connection with the jubilee celebration.

At the functions previously held most of the delegates had appeared in full academic dress, but that day was the first occasion on which the university graduates and students donned their robes, hoods, and trenchers. The result was that the scene appeared particularly striking. The rich yellow tones of the Bombay delegates' turban and hood were in decided contrast to the quiet, sober-tinted gowns of certain British universities, while the elaborate and artistic robes of the Parisians added another fine bit of color to one of the prettiest assemblies ever held in Glasgow.

In honor of the ninth jubilee of Glasgow, the Honorable the Lord Provost and the Corporation of Glasgow entertained in the evening a distinguished company of gentlemen. The function took place in the banquet hall of the City Chambers, and the guests numbered over four hundred. The Lord Provost, Sir James King, Bart., Lord Dufferin, the Earl of Glasgow, Lieutenant-General Sir Archibald Hunter, Principal Story, Lord Kelvin, Sir Richard Jebb, Count d'Alviella of Brussels, Lord Reay, Count de Franqueville, and lastly, but not least, our own Lord Strathcona, gave or responded to the various toasts.

The same (Friday) evening the university ball was held in Bute Hall for the student representatives, and for the first time in its history the famous cloisters and halls were invaded by the festivities of the student world. The jubilee came to an official end on Saturday afternoon, when an excursion was made down the Firth of Clyde. That evening Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Nelson entertained in honor of the Toronto representatives, Messrs. McCredie and Ingram, as did also Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming of Crown Terrace.

The Toronto delegation speak in the highest terms of the hospitable and kindly treatment which they received at the hands of everyone connected with the ancient and historic University of Glasgow, and appreciate most keenly the honor which their own University was accorded at that ever-to-be-remembered jubilee.

and Dalton could not retrieve the weakness of her scrimmage and back division. The wings, while strong, are not fast. But it was the weakness of the team as a unit that lost the match. There was an evident lack of definite objective and co-operation of the team as a whole. Varsity's team play, on the other hand, was commented on by the referee after the match as brilliant and effective.

Isbester materially strengthened the scrimmage. The ball was heeled out clean and sure and Biggs given every chance for an exhibition of line-bucking that was a feature of the first half. On the wing line McCollum, Patterson, and Jermyn followed up very fast. In point of tackling Varsity markedly excelled their opponents. At times Varsity could have marked their men better, and also an error or two in judgment must be chalked against the full-back, Capt. McCollum, besides playing a great individual game, proved himself a general and a master of the game's fine points. Much of the credit of victory is due him. Victory was marred, though, by an unfortunate and serious accident to Hendry, right-half, whose leg was fractured and his ankle dislocated, shortly after play was resumed in the second half.

At about 3 o'clock the teams lined up on the campus.

Varsity kicked off, Queen's having the benefit of the breeze. A couple of free kicks and Biggs' bucking for substantial gains brought the ball to Queen's 25-yard line. A free kick, and Biggs sent the ball behind the poles, where Patterson corralled the leather for a touch, after a pretty sprint. Baldwin failed to convert, and Varsity was five points in the lead.

Varsity was now on the aggressive, but a couple of off-sides and Dalton's bucking brought the ball to the Varsity line. Queen's was given a free kick. Dalton made a fake, and dived through the line for a touch, he converted. Score 6-5, Queen's leading.

Varsity gained on an exchange of points, but Baldwin muffed return, and the ball was in Varsity's quarter, and only Varsity's deadly tackling prevented a score. A free kick put the ball over the line, but G. Biggs' brilliant dash saved a score. Queen's crossed the line twice, but were rebuffed. Finally McCollum was forced to rouse. Queens were forcing the play.

Queen's kicked free, but G. Biggs was caught and forced to rouse. Score at the end of the first half, 8-5 in favor of Queen's.

Play was scarcely resumed in the second half when Hendry, attempting to run around the end, was tackled by Swinnerton, and his right ankle was broken. Varsity scrimmaged the ball to Queen's 25. Baldwin successfully attempted a drop kick. Varsity 10, Queen's 8.

Queen's strove to hold the ball, but were forced to their own line. Patterson dribbled over, and McCollum captured the oval for a touch. Baldwin failed to convert, 15-8. Crothers was forced to rouse return from kick-off-16-8.

Dalton was given a free on Queen's five, and punted to Campbell, 25 yards out, who rushed the ball back for another touch. It was a pretty run. Biggs converted-22-8.

Two minutes before time Swinnerton was forced to rouse, leaving the final score 23-8.

NOTES. The track team remained over in Kingston on the trip from Montreal and saw the games. The boys indulged in several practices on the way down, while the "Lightning Limited" very accommodatingly waited for them. The captain of the seconds was caught making goo-goo eyes at a Colborne belle. The Colborne cafe extends a hearty invitation to any Varsity boys passing through to call. Biddy McLennan will recommend their pie.
